The DAILY NEBRASKAN purposes to be the free voice of student sentiment; to be fair, to be impartial; to seek advice as well as offer it; to truthfully picture college life; to go further than the mere printing of news by standing for the highest ideals of the University; in short, to serve the University of Nebraska.

CONVOCATION

Mr. Carl Steckelberg is to play at Convocation this morning in the Temple theater. It is useless to tell you what this means, what an opportunity is offered to music lovers. Look at the program. Isn't it worth your while? Such attractions at Convocation should be overflowed. But we are going to quit appealing to your sense of duty. If you don't think it's worth while, don't go.

FEBRUARY TWELFTH

Today is Abraham Lincoln's birthday. It is not a holiday. We of the University mark it not as a day of special note, as a day to stand ever sacred in the calendar. College work grinds on the same, classes are uninterrupted. We go ahead in our little spheres, never stopping for a moment to pay tribute to the memory of a life so sacred to the American nation.

But let us for a brief second consider in reverend thought him whose birthday is today. Think of him—the boy with scarcely on opportunities offered for an education, for a business training. Think of him—the young man rising from a rail-splitter to an adversary on the stump to Stephen A. Douglas. Think of him—the President whose service to us can never be described. He is a nation's hero. Honor him on this his birthday.

THE COUNCIL AGAIN

The student council committee is working nights and Sundays trying to pull something tangible out of a mass of twisted facts gathered from every college and university in the country where a council is or has been used. But the amount is so great, and the time so short, that no definite plan can be submitted at the coming election. But light is beginning to show through. Results are soon to be forthcoming.

Some of us have acquired the idea, not strangely, that this committee, appointed by whom we know not, was working in secret, trying to "put something over on us." They didn't tell us what they were doing. But they couldn't. They had nothing to tell. Their meetings are not secret, nor are they public. They cannot be hampered by many questioning and advice giving onlookers. But now that results are beginning to show, they are telling you what they can find out. They are saving you hours of time and trouble pouring over masses of detail.

In today's paper you will find an account of their meeting last night. Two general plans are outlined. Later we will print the details, the merits, and the demerits of both. What do you think of them? Have you any suggestions to make? How should the representation be made? Write an open letter in the "Forum," or tell the committee what you think. They want to know, the students want to know. Let's have your ideas.

NO CONTEST WITH AMES SCHEDULED THIS YEAR

Ames Not to Stage Intercollegiate Matches—Meet With Nebraska.

According to the communication received by Manager Kellogg, Iowa wrestlers will not meet the Aggies this year. It has been decided by the authorities there that no matches will be scheduled with other institutions. This has somewhat dashed the hopes of the Hawkeye squad because it was confidently expected here that a return match would be pulled off.

There will, however, be a match with the Cornhuskers at Lincoln. The date has not yet been settled. Manager Kellogg is trying to secure a wrestling meet to be held in the spring. Just what he will be able to do in this matter is not known.—The Daily Iowan.

Of the first plan, the student council of the University of Colorado presents a good example. There the council controls everything, publications, athletics, social organizations all. The plan employed at the University of Michigan is, on the other hand, an example of the second type of councils. The question of student department seems to be the bone of contention in most every student council. In nearly every case the council is the dictator. It regulates how many times a week a young lady may have a "date," whether or not she should be chaperoned, and many other closely related subjects. This sort of thing, in the opinion of the committee, is the greatest enemy of the student council idea, the thing most likely to kill the movement. For this reason, they deem it advisable to leave out of consideration such systems as delegate these powers to the council.

Representation is one of the most serious problems confronting the committee. Of whom shall the council be composed? Any suggestions will be thankfully received. One plan receiving more than passing consideration is the one in use at the University of Arkansas. There every organization and every line of college activity has representation in the council. It is stated in the constitution the exact number of representatives allotted to each college, each class, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., each fraternity, athletics, etc. In this way a truly representative body is formed.

The mass of material is so great that the committee can not have its report and proposed council plans ready to submit to the University public at the coming elections. A special election will be held as soon as some definite proposals can be presented. In all probability, two proposed constitutions will be drafted, representing the two examples, and placed before the students for their approval or rejection. In the meantime, if you have any suggestions, the committee, whose headquarters are in Guy Reed's office in the basement of Administration building, will welcome any and all of them.

sure she was getting the disease, and, although getting ready for a dance, she called in a doctor. The doctor convinced her that she had no symptoms. But she was so badly frightened that she was vaccinated before going to the dance.

More than half of the girls at the Chi Omega house have been vaccinated and the others are waiting until it is made compulsory.

The girls at the Phi Mu house are all going to be vaccinated in a few days.

The Alpha Phi, although living in the same block as the boy quarantined for the disease, have no fears, and are not going to be vaccinated until it is compulsory.

The Delta Gamma kept the doctor busy until midnight. When the doctor was sent for only two girls had planned to be vaccinated, but before he left, twelve were vaccinated. They called it a vaccination party, and all members were invited in.—University Missourian.

How to Choose Your Life Mate.

Prof. T. E. Fitz, head of the music department of the State Teachers' College, Greeley, Colo., says: "Voice is surest and best criterion of character. Girls who sing soprano should marry tenors. The old theory of opposites marrying is no good. It is in the discard.

"The girl with the contralto voice should marry the fellow who sings bass.

"Tenors are shrewd, successful in business, good mixers, cordial and sympathetic.

"The girl with the contralto voice makes the best mother; she lives longer, is true, honest and dependable."—The Daily Cardinal.

JUNIORS AND SENIORS

Since there are only fifty-five persons in the Junior and Senior classes who have not had their pictures taken for the 1914 Cornhusker, we have arranged, in order that you may be represented in the book, to have your sittings taken from now until February 14. This is being done merely to allow those who for some reason could not possibly have sittings during the required time and who still desire to be represented in the book.

If you want to take this last opportunity to appear in the big year book, have your sittings taken at once at Townsends. Very cordially yours,

CHANDLER TRIMBLE, Editor.
