VICTORY FOR BONDS

AMERICANS ANSWER CALL TO HELP FINANCE THE WAR.

FIRST LOAN OVERSUBSCRIBED

Response Causes Joy in Washington. The Number of Investors Total Approximately 2,000,000.

Washington.—The American people have responded to the government's call for funds to finance the war with an over subscription to the $2,000,000,000 Liberty loan of proportions far exceeding expectations of government officials.

In the country's ringing answer to the call, the dominant note was the voice of the small investor. His money talked during the closing days of the campaign.

Unofficially the total subscriptions reach the enormous sum of $2,862,800,000. Approximately 2,000,000 Americans made up this first purse of war money for the nation.

In commenting upon the success of the Liberty loan, Secretary McAdoo said: "The Liberty loan has been oversubscribed. The success of this loan is a triumph for democracy."

"I desire to express my deep appreciation of the efficient and patriotic service you have rendered in connection with the Liberty loan, the success of which has been so striking and pleasing to the country," Secretary McAdoo telegraphed all the Reserve banks.

"Will you not convey to the Liberty loan committees of your district, to the banks and to all other organizations, who have co-operated with you in this great Liberty loan enterprise the assurance of my warm appreciation as well as my cordial thanks?"

"Will you not also urge these committees to preserve their organizations in order that they may be prepared to render signal services of like character to their government, when it is called upon again to seek an additional credit?"

This machinery, Mr. McAdoo indicated will be utilized this fall in floating the second loan contemplated under the $7,000,000,000 war finance law.

In Class by Itself. More than two and one-half times as many persons answered the call of the Liberty loan as responded to Germany's first war loan of 4,400,000,000 marks, approximately $1,061,400,000.

Great Britain's first loan was 458,147,702 pounds sterling, approximately $2,229,575,792. It was taken by 100,000 subscribers, or less than 4 per cent of the number that subscribed to America's first war loan.

Measured by the standard of total subscribers, the Liberty loan stands in a class by itself as a nation's first war offering.

Lose Fight With Subsea. Washington.—American naval gunners have met their first defeat in open fight with a German submarine.

It is officially announced that the tank steamship Moren was destroyed and abandoned ablaze June 12 by its crew and armed guard after a desperate running fight in the war zone, which cost the lives of four of its crew.

Sweden to Remain Neutral. Stockholm.—Foreign Minister Lindman made a statement to parliament in which he declared that Sweden intends to remain neutral.

Slackers Arrested. Portland, Ore.—Twenty men have been arrested in various sections of Oregon for failing to register for the selective draft June 5.

Abdication Grievous Kaiser. The Hague.—It is said that the news of King Constantine's abdication created a painful impression at German headquarters.

Refused to Buy Bond; Men Quit. Tampa, Fla.—Because Ernest Kreher, general manager of the Tampa Engineering and Shipbuilding Co., refused to buy a Liberty bond, 150 employees quit work.

FAIRY TALE

A short story that will be of interest to all readers of the Northwestern, and especially the little folks. It appears in this section weekly. What's your opinion of it?

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE MARBLES.

"The Marbles," said Daddy, "had been very proud of late because they had been used so much by Boys and Girls—especially by Boys."

"Then, too, the Elves had played marbles as years before they had found out about them and thought they were lots of fun to play with."

"You are nothing but an ordinary Marble!" said one large and very blue Marble.

"But I am useful for playing. And I joggle along and roll much better than you do. You are so big. You are quite awkward!"

"I'd feel pretty badly," said the big Marble, "if I were as cheap as you. You cost next to nothing. In fact, you didn't even cost a cent. Not one whole cent!"

"The Marble rolled along a little way as if it couldn't be too near the cheap Marble."

"But a cent bought me," said the little Marble.

"Yes," said the big Marble proudly. "It bought you and also a number of other marbles, too. You were one of five for a cent. One cent bought you and four others! Now as for me! Well, it took a whole five cents to buy me!"

"I know it," said the little Marble sadly.

"Before long it will be time for the Children to come and play with us, I think," said the big Marble.

"Yes," said the little Marble. "They have such a good time with us."

"Well, we are pretty fine to have a good time with. We can have so many games played with us. They are very lucky," said the big Marble.

"And so are we," said the little one.

"Of course you are," said the big Marble, "as you are only one of five for a cent. Just think how they'll admire me when they see me. And the children will want to trade everything they have for me! I'm so big and round and fat. And my color is so fine. And I cost five cents!"

"I've heard you say so before," said the little Marble.

"It's worth saying over and over again when it's such an amount," said the big Marble.

"Hush," said the little Marble, "the Children are coming. I hear their voices."

"My Master only bought me yesterday," said the big Marble. "His friends have not seen me. They'll trade everything for me! Gracious—they'd trade dozens of little Marbles just for me! I cost five cents!"

"The Children had arrived."

"The Marbles almost seem to hurry up into playing," said the Master of the big Marble. "They were ready for us."

"And then the Children began to play. They admired the big Marble first of all, and how proud the big Marble was!"

"It really felt badly that it could not tell them all that it had cost five cents, but then the Master told the other Children, and that made it very happy."

"But they did not seem to want to trade everything for it! One of them said,

"It is a beauty, but then it is not nearly so nice to play with as the smaller ones, besides, if I gave up a lot of small marbles for that big one I'd never be able to have a real game."

"And all the other Children said just the same thing.

"They played and they played. But the big Marble was so mad that it rolled away crookedly and no one thought so much of it.

"After the Children had finished playing and had taken their marbles, and after the Master of the big Marble had put away with the smaller ones, the little Marble which had been bought with four others for a cent said,

Fads And Fancies Of Fashion

One of the nicest things about this year's commencement gowns of net is their all-around usefulness after the great day of their first appearance has passed. The net frock is a daytime or an evening frock, serving two purposes equally well. Its daintiness is a charm inherent in the material. It is youthful and chic and moderately priced, and it arrives at distinction when the designer brings successful invention in style, or details of finishing, to a happy ending, in its making.

Just an unexpected touch gives a pretty net frock the place of honor in a girl's summer wardrobe, and just such a touch puts the hallmark of refinement on the pretty frock pictured here.

The skirt is moderately full, gathered in at the waistline and finished with a deep hem. About one-fourth of its length from the bottom a band of fine lace is set in. The bodice is made much like a "baby" waist, but is cut low in the neck in front, where lace is set in and finished with small crocheted balls. A fine lace collar completes it. Sleeves are a little more than elbow length and are gathered up so that they form a hanging puff about the forearm.

The girle is of pink and blue taffeta and we have every reason to believe that it accepts the vogue for rosettes at the back instead of a bow or sash ends. But in this matter let each individual suit herself as well as to that of color. The gown, as photographed, has a girle in pink and blue taffeta encircling the waist at the natural waistline. Little crocheted balls hang from the lace set in at the front and an adorably frivolous little pocket of net, just big enough for a handkerchief and perhaps a dancing card, is suspended from under the girle by blue or pink or yellow.

These frocks are worn over organdie slips and a little variety may be provided by means of colored slips in light blue or pink or yellow.

EGGS $1 A DOZEN NEXT WINTER

Statistics for 30 years show December eggs worth 2 1/2 to 3 times that of previous April and May. You will not need to buy eggs next winter if you will coat some fresh eggs soon with Egg-o-Latum and put them in an egg-case or carton in the cellar. A 50-cent jar treats 50 dozen eggs.

WOES OF THE CENSUS TAKER

Has a Hard Day Wrestling With Iva Rench, Will Knott, Hardin Roads and Gentle Spring.

A solicitor for Muncie's new city directory called at a home in the suburb, Westdale, and asked of a woman who answered his knock at the door, "Will you please tell me who lives here?"

"I will not," the solicitor understood her to say.

"But, madam," he explained, "I assure you I desire the name only for a city directory and if you do not give it, I shall have to find it out in some other way."

"I said, Will Knott," she declared, "and I don't know how to make it any plainer to you."

At the next door he was told that the head of the house in question was Will Knott, principal of a suburban school.

He stopped at another home to repair his bicycle. After tinkering with it for a while, as a woman in the doorway looked on interestedly, he gave up the job and continued his canvas on foot, asking first of the woman who had noticed his accident, "And who lives here, please?"

"I've a wrench," he heard her say distinctly.

"I thank you, but I hardly think a wrench would do any good," he said. "I'll have to send the machine to the repair shop, I guess."

Then it was that the woman explained in detail to him that Miss Iva Rench, who is a teacher in the Andersonville school, made her home there.

"I had already listed Hardin Roads, president of the Merchants' bank; Dunn, the tailor, and Miss Gentle Spring, so I thought I'd call it a day's work and quit right there," the solicitor remarked.—Indianapolis News.

PAIN? NOT A BIT! LIFT YOUR CORNS OR CALLUSES OFF

No humbug! Apply few drops then just lift them away with fingers.

This new drug is an ether compound discovered by a Cincinnati chemist. It is called freezeone, and can now be obtained in tiny bottles as here shown at very little cost from any drug store. Just ask for freezeone. Apply a drop or two directly upon a tender corn or callus and instantly the soreness disappears. Shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you can lift it off, root and all, with the fingers.

Not a tinge of pain, soreness or irritation; not even the slightest smarting, either when applying freezeone or afterwards.

This drug doesn't eat up the corn or callus, but shrivels them so they loosen and come right out. It is no humbug! It works like a charm. For a few cents you can get rid of every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, as well as painful calluses on bottom of your feet. It never disappoints and never burns, bites or inflames. If your druggist hasn't any freezeone yet, tell him to get a little bottle for you from his wholesale house.—adv.

He Put It Back. The decorator and his apprentice were lime-washing the bakery.

They were about half way through their task when the master decorator came to look round.

The apprentice was splashing the lime wash about. The master, not relishing this waste, said: "Mind your eyes, lad."

The lad said: "It is all right, sir. I have just had one eye full, but I didn't waste it. I put it back in the bucket."

Some people are always up and doing—other people.

An Astonished Creditor.

"Well," said the old man the other day, "I have been 47 years in the business, and can say what very few men can after such experience. In all that time, my friend, I never disappointed but one single creditor."

"Bless me, what an example for our young mercantile community," replied the person addressed; "what a pity that one time occurred. How was it?"

"Why," responded the old gentleman, "I paid the debt when it became due, and I never in all my life saw a man so much astonished."

SHAKE INTO YOUR SHOES

Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes and sprinkled in the foot-bath. It relieves painful swollen, smarting feet, and takes the sting out of corns and bunions.

Used by the British and French troops at the front. Allen's Foot-Ease is a certain relief for tired, aching feet. Sold every where.—Adv.

Friend of the Animals.

Barnum and Bailey's success in rearing rare animals of the Orient while in captivity is principally due to the extraordinary magnetism and affection of one called Andrew—the giraffe cub.

He has traveled all over Africa. Animals love him. A few years ago when a monkey was named in the circus and was to be killed, Andrew interceded, saved the monkey's life and nursed him back to health.

The monkey is now Andrew's shadow. Among his other special pets, each of which has some special cause of gratitude to the kindly trainer, are a blind dog, a house cat, a parrot, a chicken and a white rat.

Wherever he sits they take possession of his lap, shoulders and knees, and talk to him—and Andrew talks back. They all seem to understand him perfectly.

In Line.

"What sort of a slow curve are you lobbying over there?"

"We've finished baseball practice for the day," answered the head of the squad. "This is bombing practice, old top."

No matter how much we may love our neighbors, we can see no good reason why they should have a kindly feeling for us.
