CARTER GETS IN LINE.

The Montana Senator Urges His Cow Attendants to Stand by McKinley. HELENA, Mont., Sept. 10.—United States Senator Carter has written a letter to the Republican State convention, which meets to-day, explaining the action of himself and the four other members of the Montana delegation to the St. Louis convention in reserving the right of the Republicans of the State to accept or reject the financial declaration of the platform there adopted. The Senator says in the letter:

"As a Republican I believe in the free coinage of silver and protection to American labor and American industry. I do not believe in free coinage coupled with free trade, and I do not believe that free coinage, coupled with free trade, can be successfully established and maintained by our government. The free trade policy will render the establishment of bimetallicism an utter impossibility. It is to secure free coinage in conjunction with free trade is a Utopian dream. After looking the whole situation over, it will be found that the Republican party has not declared in favor of the gold standard, but in favor of the restoration of silver. I find in this particular that it differs from the opposition platform in the matter of method.

"I believe that the Republican party in this behalf is too conservative, but as between the acceptance of the Republican party, with its conservative expression on this subject, and the Chicago platform, with its free trade, State's rights, free riot and other objectionable features, I find no room to hesitate. I believe it is the clear and unquestionable duty of the delegates who assemble under and in conformity with the forms and usages of the Republican party of this State, and as delegates representative of other people who reside here, to place in the field electors favorable to McKinley and Hobart. The party in Montana should, in my opinion, endorse the entire Republican platform, except as to the feature declaring international condition precedent to the reorganization of silver. For that declaration this convention should substitute a declaration for the free coinage of gold and silver, in the same manner as our state conventions have heretofore declared.

"In the future, as in the past, I shall stand for protection and free coinage. Firmly believing that the best interests of our state and the nation at large will be subserved by the election of McKinley and Hobart, I shall give them my support, notwithstanding the national platform does not meet my approval in one particular.

TALKED TO EDITORS. McKinley Greets the Men of the Press. CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 9.—The Republican Editorial Association assembled in Elks' hall at 10:30 yesterday morning. The venerable John Hopely of Bucyrus was in the chair, with Colonel R. B. Brown of the Zanesville Courier, vice president, and C. B. McCoy of Coshocton, secretary. An able paper on the financial question was read by H. P. Boyden of the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune. The feature of the afternoon session was an address by Hon. Charles Emory Smith, editor of the Philadelphia Press, and ex-minister to Russia. Mr. Smith spoke on "The Campaign of Education."

After the address of Mr. Smith, the association marched in a body to the McKinley home. The editors were joined by a number of Cantonnians and the party which cheered Major McKinley when he appeared on the porch numbered several hundred.

Major McKinley responded in part as follows: "Fortunately, in this contest, the Republican party is not alone in its support of the Republican cause. Conservative men of all parties stand with it. It numbers among its strongest allies many of the most powerful Democratic newspapers East and West, which are doing yeoman services for patriotism and national honor. They are welcome, thrice welcome, and the country owes them a debt of gratitude for their unflinching loyalty, as against party, for sound money and public morals.

"This is a year, gentlemen, of political contention, without bitterness. Intelligence and investigation are taking the place of passion and partyism. Party prejudice cuts little figure in a crisis like this. We must not indulge aspersions or crimination against those who may have differed from us in the past, beneath the flag with us in a patriotic effort to preserve the good faith of the country, and enforce public and private honesty. (Applause.) We must not drive anybody out of camp, but welcome everybody in."

CAN PLOW ON SUNDAY. An Illinois Court Gravely Decides That It Is No Breach of the Peace. MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Sept. 10.—The Appellate court of the Fourth district has decided that plowing corn on Sunday in sight of church-goers does not in itself constitute a disturbance of the peace. In construing section 261, which relates to disturbing the peace by labor on Sunday, under which Mr. Foll, a Seventh day Adventist, was arrested, the court holds that this section does not prohibit work or amusement on Sunday, but prohibits only such conduct as disturbs the peace and good order of society. The defendant being a Seventh Day Adventist, observed Saturday as the Sabbath and plowed corn on Sunday, and was arrested and conviction resulted. The case was appealed to the Appellate court, with the above result.

MR. BRYAN IN MISSOURI.

ADDRESSES WORKMEN BEFORE 'BREAKFAST IN KANSAS CITY. HE MAKES TWO SPEECHES. The Free Coinage Question Alone Discussed—Voters Asked to Study the Matter Thoroughly for Themselves Before Casting Their Ballot—Supply and Demand—50c Dollar.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 14.—William J. Bryan was given an enthusiastic reception in Kansas City this morning, and after a stay of three hours, he left for a daylight trip across Missouri. At 7 he spoke briefly to two thousand workmen in the West bottoms. Two hours later, after breakfast and an informal reception at the Coates, he made a second and longer speech in the open air at Eleventh and Grand avenues before a crowd of at least 10,000 people.

He said in part at the bottoms: "Some of our opponents tell us that the thing to do is to open the mills instead of the mints. That reminds me of the man who said that his horse would go all right if he could just get the wagon started. It is putting the cart before the horse. What use is there for mills unless the people can buy what the mills produce, and how can you start them as long as those who produce the wealth of this country, particularly the farmer, are not able to get enough out of what they raise to pay their taxes and interest? There is no more effective way of destroying the markets for what the mills produce than to lower the price upon the products the farmer has raised, so that they will bring him not enough to pay him for raising them."

It was 8:25 o'clock when he began speaking up town. The jam around the speaking stand was so dense that it was impossible for the Bryan party to get to it, so he stood up in the tally-ho on which he rode from the Coates house, and spoke as follows in part:

"Our opponents tell us that we propose to change the operation of natural law. I assert that the advocates of free coinage are the only people in this campaign who base their arguments on the fundamental principles of natural law. That law is the law of supply and demand; it is the great law of trade. Now we propose to apply that law of supply and demand to the money question, and we say that when you increase the demand for gold by making it the sole standard of values, you raise its price just as you raise the price of anything else by increasing the demand for it, and that cannot be converted into money at the gold standard country you lower the price of all products which are measured by money. A gold standard then means falling prices, and falling prices means hard times to everybody except the man who owns money or trades in money."

"Now, if the money owner has a right to use the ballot to raise the value of the money which he owns, why have not all the rest of the people a right to use the ballot to keep him from destroying the value of the property which they own?"

"Now another proposition. We believe not only that the free coinage of silver will raise the value of silver bullion as measured by gold, but we believe that the demand created by the United States will be sufficient to take all our surplus silver and there being no silver on the market which cannot be converted into money at our mints and used in the development of our industries. There will be no silver in the world that can be purchased for less than $1.29 per ounce. But our opponents say: 'Suppose we have more money, how are you going to get any of it?' That, to them, is an argument which answers everything. Let me suggest an argument, or rather a question, which you can ask them: 'Suppose you have anything to sell, how can you get anything for it until you find somebody who has money to buy it? Money is the creature of law. There can be no money until the government provides for that money. If you want more of any of the products of labor you can go out and bring them into existence; but if you want more money you cannot go out and create more money, because the law imposes a penalty—punishment in the penitentiary—for any man who tries to create money. Therefore, my friends, the only way to bring more money into existence is to take charge of the government, which is the only instrumentality, and by law open the mints and permit the coinage of enough money for the people to do business with."

"Now I am not permitted to talk to you but a short time, and I have I strength enough to go through the campaign if I should do otherwise. I want you to take this money question and study it for yourselves—no class of people has the right to decide for you—you have got to do it yourselves, my friends. Remember that your talents were given you for the protection of your rights, and there is nobody to whom you can safely entrust your interests but yourself."

After the speech the tally-ho, with a tailing mob following it, was driven to the depot, where Mr. Bryan and party boarded a train for the trip across Missouri. The candidate spoke at a number of points along the route to St. Louis, where he was scheduled for three formal speeches.

WATSON LOSES HIS HEAD

Heated Words Used at Abilene in Regard to Kansas Fusion. ABILENE, Kan., Sept. 14.—Although Thomas E. Watson did not arrive here until 12:45 o'clock last night, twenty-five members of the Bryan club and some of the Populist county committee met him at the depot. J. F. Willis accompanied him and the Leedy party was at the hotel when the visitors arrived.

W. L. Brown of Kingman, Leedy's lieutenant, and Abe Steinberger, who came with Watson, at once clashed, and for two hours there was an acrimonious discussion in which local Populists sided with Brown, who said: "If Watson has come here to put up a separate ticket, hell is not hot enough for him."

This morning when Watson met Brown in the hotel lobby the former said: "I ask that Kansas put up a separate ticket. If you vote for Sewall, you vote against me. I opposed fusion in the South and I oppose it here."

Brown tried to explain the fusion arrangement in this state, but Watson replied: "The resolution of your convention is not worth the paper it is written on. Kansas wants to eliminate itself from the national fight and sit on the fence and see the procession go by. You can't raise the price of corn and wheat by trading off your national tickets for a little local pie."

Watson became very much excited during the controversy and a crowd gathered. Both men were plainly angry when Reed took Watson's arm and asked him to go up to his room.

After a consultation with the committee to-day, it was decided that Watson should speak in the afternoon and Leedy in the evening. As soon as possible after his speech, he will start for Lincoln, Neb., to consult with the Populist central committee of that state. Then he will go to Colorado for a few speeches.

It was emphatically given out by Mr. Steinberger of Girard, who is Mr. Watson's Kansas spokesman, that there will be no State convention. "But there will be a Watson electoral ticket," he said, "and we will elect it. We have been spat upon and we will not stand it any longer. The ticket will be named by nomination papers as we are well organized already. At least sixty per cent of the Populist party is with Watson."

In answer to a question whether he was an A. P. A., Watson replied: "I am not."

Republican Chairman Hanna Positively Settles Current Reports. CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—"Mr. McKinley is not going to take the stump," said Republican National Chairman Mark Hanna. The Colorado Fusion Deal. DENVER, Colo., Sept. 14.—The efforts to consolidate the four silver parties of Colorado in the support of one state ticket in the coming election proved a failure. S. Bailey, Populist. These four parties, however, have all united in support of the Bryan and Sewall electoral ticket.
