Returning Confidence.
Kalona, Iowa, March 9th 1897
ED. NORTHWESTERN:
Dear Sir—As confidence is now restored in the east you will find enclosed $1.50 which will help to bring prosperity to the NORTHWESTERN which I have confidence will come to my address the next year. I am interested in some real estate in your county and will depend on the NORTHWESTERN to keep me posted. I will send a brother out there to be one among you in a year or so if providence blesses your country. I am afraid that your country would not be good for my bees.

Respectfully,
I. N. ARNOLD
We acknowledge the receipt of Mr. Arnold's enclosure with thanks, and are pleased to note that he has real estate interests here and will send a brother out to make his home here soon. Mr. Arnold's letter head indicates that he is in the honey bee business and in answer to his query as to bees doing well here, will say that no better country than this can be found for that industry.

From Supt. Johnson.
I have received a copy of the New Catalogue of the State Normal School, an examination shows that there are added two new courses of study which open the way for work much needed in Nebraska.

These are a course adapted to the advancement of those who are graduates of high schools and one for those who desire to prepare for public school kindergarten work. Both courses are to be recognized by appropriate certificates and diplomas.

The course in Post-Graduates work which has been established for years is well outlined and put in definite form. The specifications relating to all the courses are clear and readily understood. Both the elementary and higher courses have been enriched and strengthened.

The work is indicated by the Catalogue recognized the needs of the schools of Nebraska, the intelligence of her people, the high school law and advancement, and improvement of the schools and people through the better and fuller preparation of the teachers.

Any one desiring to see what our State Normal School is doing and the advantages it offers can have a catalogue by sending to the President J. A. Beattie, Peru, Nebr. There are 44 counties of Nebraska represented, and six other States. Catalogue shows an enrollment of 553, which is the largest enrollment in the history of this school.

Respectfully,
C. F. JOHNSON,
Co. Supt.

Died—Lura Augusta Pray, daughter of John Q. and Minnie L. Pray on March 14th, 1897 age 8 years, 5 months and 23 days.

We learn that the child had been complaining for two weeks prior to her death but had quite recovered and was thought to be feeling quite well again. Last Saturday she was taken suddenly very ill and early Sunday morning Dr. Jones was summoned but she died before the doctor arrived. She was buried Monday. The sorrow stricken family have the profound sympathy of the entire community.

Mrs. M. Leschinsky's condition is reported to be improving.

We learn that the old lady Haller living on Blood Run became mentally deranged last Friday and wandered from home. She went first to Hazard, a distance of seven miles, and from there to Ravenna where they found her the next day. She is said to be about 80 years old.

The Fitzsimmons-Corbett fight which took place at Carson, Nevada on St. Patrick's Day resulted in Corbett getting knocked silly in the fourteenth round.

Hogs are worth $4.00 on the Omaha market. They are quoted at $3.50 on the Loup City market today, and cattle have also taken a big rise in market value. Certainly, we have felt the wave.

OLD TIME DOCTORS.

The Students Helped Their Teachers in Practical Work.

During the last century in America the medical education of a young student was generally what he picked up by serving as an apprentice to some noted practitioner, which combined the duties of a student with many menial affairs.

He ground the powders, mixed the pills, rode with the doctor on his rounds, held the basin when the patient was bled, helped to adjust the plasters, sew the wounds and run with vials of medicine from one end of town to the other.

It was a white day when such a young man enjoyed the rare good fortune of dissecting a half putrid arm. So great indeed was the difficulty of obtaining anatomical subjects that the medical school of Harvard college made a single body do duty for a whole year.

Under such circumstances the doctor's knowledge was practical, and derived from personal experience rather than from books. The advantages of study were sparingly enjoyed. Few physicians boasted of a library of 50 volumes.

His apprenticeship ended, the student returned to his native town to assume the practice of medicine. At that period, with the exception of the minister and the judge, the doctor was the most important personage in his community. His genial face, his engaging manners, the sincerity with which he inquired after the carpenter's daughter and the interest which he took in the family of the poorest laborer made him the favorite for miles around. He knew the names and personal history of the occupants of every house he passed. The farmer's lads pulled off their hats to him and the girls dropped courtesies as he passed. Sunshine and rain, daylight and darkness, were alike to him. He would ride ten miles in the darkest night over the worst of roads in a pelting storm to administer a dose of calomel to an old woman or attend a child in a fit.

The drugs were stowed away on the shelves of the village store, among heaps of shoes, Rohan hats, packages of seeds and flitches of bacon.

The physician was compelled to compound his own drugs, make his own tinctures and put up his own prescriptions. His saddlebag was the only drug store within 40 miles. Each spring the blood must be purified, the kidneys excited and the damsel who fainted profusely bled. Large doses of senna and manna and rhubarb and molasses were taken daily. It was safe to say that more medicine was taken every year by the well than is now taken by the sick in the same time.

Water was denied the patient tormented with fever. In its stead was given a small quantity of clam juice. Mercury was taken until the lips turned blue and the gums fell away from the teeth.

The writer has a vivid recollection, when about 8 years old, in a raging fever, pleading for water. The nurse handed the pitcher, and the child satisfied her burning thirst. Her brother, overhearing what was going on, rushed into the room, exclaiming, "You will kill her," but it was too late.—American Magazine.

KITCHEN RUN BY CITY.

At Grenoble, France, an Association Serves Good Food at Cost.

Housewives who think the co-operative kitchen is so far in the future that it would be absurd to look forward to it for relief from daily drudgery will be interested to hear that a kitchen with the same end in view as the co-operative has been in successful operation for nearly 50 years. The Association Alimentaire of Grenoble, France, is a purely municipal affair. The city owns it and supplies meals at cost in its own restaurant or delivers them at private homes.

Everything at the Association Alimentaire is as good as money can buy. The cooks are as clever as any in France, which is saying a great deal. The provisions are bought in the best markets and are carefully selected. The service is excellent. The dining rooms are of several grades, according to the furnishings and the attendance, so that all tastes may be accommodated. One may dine there for 3 cents on bread and soup and be satisfied or one may pay 12 cents and have a full course dinner. In the best rooms, which are marble floored and decorated with much elegance, there are waiters who look for tips as naturally as though they were in the swiftest of Parisian cafes.

Pure wines, which have been properly aged, are served at about 8 cents a liter.

There is no financial profit to the city in running this huge restaurant, which serves some 15,000 meals a day. The charges are based on the cost of the materials used, the employment of help and the amount spent in keeping the utensils, machinery and building in repair.—New York Press.

That Banisher's Wall.
There is considerable discussion in the English papers about the wall of the banisher which was said to have been heard in East Kerry before the fatal fog moved. A correspondent writes that the late Archbishop Whately, the celebrated archbishop's son, told him of a certain instance of the banisher's cry. The archbishop said that he distinctly heard the wall while in an Irish country parish administering the holy communion to a dying man.

"Chicago, Pa., 'Herald' Richard Vencil reports One Minute Cough Cure the greatest success of medical science. He told us that it cured his whole family of terrible coughs and colds, and all others so called cures had entirely failed. Mr. Vencil said, it assisted his children through a very bad siege of measles. One Minute Cough Cure makes expectation very easy and rapid. Odendahl Bros.
