CONDITION OF LABOR

A MASS OF INFORMATION ON THE SUBJECT.

What a Majority of Nebraska Farmers Reply to Commissioner Kent's Inquiry-Many Declare that a Reduction in Freight Rates is Absolutely Necessary.

Say Farming Does Not Pay.

A mass of information concerning the condition of labor on farms and the productiveness of that labor is being collected by Deputy Commissioner Kent of the bureau of industrial and labor statistics. One of the blanks recently sent out contained two questions, the answers to which afford interesting reading. One of these ques-tions was, "Does farming pay?" and the other was, "What legislation do you think necessary to relieve the condition of the farmer?"

These blanks were sent three to every county in the state. The representatives of the legislature were asked to name one democrat, one populist and one republican among the representative farmers in his representative district. The blanks were sent to these by the deputy commissioner.

The first hundred answers have been received. The republicans have proportionately answered more promptly than the democrats and populists, and the opinion of these answers may fairly be taken for the opinion of the several communities without regard to Several of those who are marked 'yes" say that exclusive grain farming does not pay, but that stock farming does. To the question of what legislation would be beneficial there are a variety of answers. A number think that anti-trust laws vigorously enforced would be a great benefit to the farmer. A majority believe that the free coinage of gold and silver at 16 to 1 is necessary to prosperity; fully one-half say that lower freight rates are absolutely necessary and legislation to se-cure that should be had. Nearly half say that government ownership and control of railroads would assist. eral favor an income tax, and one says a heavy import duty on all farm products would make things about as good as he expects to ever see them.
