THE NORTHWESTERN. PRESIDENT ASKS FOR TIME

Party Leaders are Disposed to Wait Awhile Yet in Hope of Settling Difficulties.

MEMBERS ARE BECOMING RESTLESS

It is Now Belived that the Limit for Action Cannot be Extended Over Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, Apr . 4 .- The opinion almost universally held in Washington at this writing by leading public men and diplomats is that the crisis will reach its climax this week and that the question of war or peace will be determined within the next seven

Senators and representatives met and conferred yesterday about the gravity of the situation and at the White House the president consulted with several members of his cabinet and other confidential advicers regarding the mesage which he is preparing to send to congress. At the state, war and navy building active work was going on and altogether it was a day o. supressed feeling. Nothing has been announced as to the day the message is to be sent to congress and it is believed it will not go in today. It is believe I that more probably Wednesday or Thursday will be the day selected. Besides the physical work of preparing the comprehensive document upon which the president expects to rest his case with the world, there are other reasons why those in charge of the war preparations will welcome every hour's War material which we -ave ordered abroad is not yet supped and the factories in this country will work day and night making powder and projectiles and are anxious for delay. Some of the factories in Connecticut with contracts heve telegraphed Representative Hill urging all delay possi-They say every day is now pre-

Indeed there seems to be a question as to whether the president will make any specific Some of his most recommendations. intimate friends, however, assert emphatically that his recommendations-will be specific and vigorous and such that his party and the country could willingly follow when he points the

One on these said that the president in his strong desire for peace and earn-est hope that war might possibly be avoided, was yielding somewhat to the sentiment of the leaders of his party and the country. He has not given up hope yet that hostilities may be averted. There are those who believe the president has not yet made up his mind as to the exact course he will pursue, and there seeme to be a question as to whether the consular reports and the diplomatic correspondence is to be transmitted with the message.

The suspense caused by the nece sary delay in the preparation of the message is very trying upon member of both houses, and the most universally discussed question in Washington is whether congress can be restrained until the message is transmitted. All recognize the task of preparing our case for the world's inspection and the care which must be exercised, and unduly hasten the president.

The party leaders are extremely anxious to avoid a breach with the executive, such as would occur if congress were to take the initiative. After a careful canvass of the situation today they believe the radical republicans can be held in line a few days longer, until Wednesday, at least.

The conference of republicans of the house who have been insisting upon prompt action hold another meeting tonight. While many of them are now in favor of giving the president more leeway than they were last week, it is realized that twenty five republican votes in the house would. with the democratic and populist votes, be sufficient to act.

It can be pretty confidentially aserted that all the republicans of the house, with possible exceptions, which could be counted on the fingers of one hand, can be controlled until Wednesday. After that what might happen if the president asks for further delay is problematical. Mr. Bromwell. of Ohio, for instance, who says he opes he will not be obliged to part company with the president, says he will vote with the democrats if necessary to overrule the speaker after Wednesday, Mr. Cooper of Wisconsin has made a similar statement. #### WORKING ON THE MESSAGE.

President is Preparing the Document With Great Care.

WASHINGTON, April 4 .- On Sat urday a cabinet officer said there was no change from that shown by previous developments, and that he expected events would move along the present lines until the president's message was sent to congress, probably Monday. The preparation of the momentous message was begun by President McKinley at a comparatively early hour Saturday, after conference with his cabinet advisers and public men on the lines it should take in order that the position of America in this crisis may stand forth in a clear, intelligent and justifiable way before the present and future generations. The advice proffered most urgently upon the president has been recognition of the independence of Cuba and intervention at once to end the horrors of the situation. course has been urged especially by senators and members of the house. The president has listened to all these views, but has not expressed his own Appreciating the wish of congress that the message be transmitted to that body at the earliest practicable moment and the fact that a document of its grave significance and its historical character requires the utmost deliberation and consultation with his official advisers, he has decided to put aside all but the most important matters until the message has been put shape for transmission to the tional legislature. With this end in view, he denied himself a long line of callers, but saw quite a number of rsons whose knowledge and experience might be of service to him in his task.

Throughout Saturday there were rumors of all kinds in circulation, and there was much subdued excitement among those who formed the throng of visitors. Reports were even in circulation that a special session of the cabinet had been hastily called held during the early morning hours. but its falsity was proven quickly. At 11 o'clock there were no indications of a cabinet meeting, but it was intimated that it might be decided to call the cabinet in session during the afternoon.

Assistant Secretary Day was a privileged visitor at the White House and was with the president by 9 o'clock. He had a long, close conference with the president and made a number of suggestions as to the treatment of the discussion of the matter to be incorporated in the forthcoming message He was the first person to see the president, and soon after his arrival, Major Easton, the president's military aide, slipped in for a brief interview Abner McKinley came in from New York on an early train and stopped at the White House for a few min-utes' chat with the family. Shortly utes' chat with the family. after his departure, Mrs. McKinley, she is entertaining, went off in two of the White House broughams for a drive. Secretary Gage same over from the treasury about 10 o'clock and for considerably over an hour remained in important consultation with the president. Meanwhile a large party of congressional callers had assembled. Among them were representatives Lacey of Iowa, Pitney of New Jersey and Low of New York, who, however, refrained from interrunting the president.

Senator Frye of Maine, however, had a personal interview that lasted a few minutes.

Secretary Gaze was one of the first callers at the White House. Senator Frye of the senate committee on foreign relations immediately followed. It is believed that Senator Frye called to ascertain when the message of the president might be expected so as to guide the senate committee on foreiga relations in its work. It is known that Senator Frve is for vigorous action and would like to see the coming message take strong grounds, which will unite congress and the administration in a firm policy to secure the independence of Cuba by intervention at once to that end.

FOR CUBAN INDEPENDENCE.

Committee Decides Upon the Poliicy to Be Pursued.

WASHINGTON, April 4.- The full senate committee on foreign relations has practically agreed to accept the recommendations of the sub-committee for a resolution recognizing the independence of Cuba and recommending intervention if necessary to secure it. This conclusion was reached after a sesion that did not continue for more than an hour, and so far as can be learned there was no division of opinion expressed in the committee as to the propriety of this course. Senators Gray, Daniels and Turpie were absent, but the expression was made that none of them would be heard from until the reporting of the resolutions. The general lines of the Foraker resolution will be followed out. The full committee Saturday gave most of its attention to the text of the report which will be made to accompany the resolution which has been prepared by Senztor Davis.

After the committee had been sitting for a brief time, Mr. Davis called carriage and made a hurried trip to the White House for the purpose of comparing views with the president on some of the points to be made. The committee also had Admiral Irwin before them for some time examining him as a torpedo expert on the Maine disaster and also on the strength of the Spanish torpedo flotilla and the best course for the country to pursue in meeting it. There is reason to believe from what can be learned that there is a disposition to make direct reference in the resolution to the Maine disaster as a cause for our resentment. Whatever the phraseology of the resolution itself, the report accompanying it will dwell largely upon the incident. Some of the members of the committee are disposed to regard as positive the proof of Spanish duplicity in the Maine affair and to resent it as an act of war, and there is good reason for believing that there has been more or less discussion in the committee on the advisability of a declaration of war on account of the explosion, rather than a recognition of Cuban independence merely. At any rate, the Maine incident will be thoroughly exploited and made the basis of much that may be said. The committee feels this the safe course. In view of Spain's recent action concerning the reconentradoes.

Senator Frye saw the president on behalf of the committee before the meeting and gave the members the benefit of the views of the chief ex-

A Statement From Woodford.

MADRID, April 4.—In answer to a equest from the Associated Press General Woodford, the United States minister, has made the following statement:

The obligations of my diplomatic position absolutely forbid my granting an interview or giving the slightest intimation as to the present condition of the diplomatic negotiations entrusted to my care. I came to Spain under instructions from President McKinley to secure peace in Cuba, with a permanent peace between the United States and Spain, a peace that should be built upon bed-rock conditions; conditions of justice to Cuba, with assured protection to the great American interests in that island. I have labored steadily to obtain this result. I have never lost my faith and, doubtful as conditions may seem today, I still believe this great and good purpose of my president may yet be secured. I shall not desist from my labors for a just and honorpeace until the guns actually open fire, and my faith is still strong that war, with all its horrors, can be averted.

Enough blood has been shed in Cuba already, and I cannot believe the closing bours of the nineteenth century will be reddened by a conflict between Spain and the United States. My country asks for conditions that will make peace permanent and I have faith that Spain will do what is necessary to assure justice in Cuba and with justice peace is certain.

Program of the House.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 4 .-There is little in the way of a program for the house this week. Everyhing awaits upon the president's message in the momentous events that are to follow its presentation. Tomorrow the bill for the reorganization of the army is to be called up. Chairman Hull of the military committee, be-lieves it will be passed without opposition. It is considered a part of the war preparations and as such its urgency would preclude the opposition which it might encounter in ordinary times. The senate District of Columbia naval batallion bill is on the speak er's table, and it too, may be passed. Tuesday and Friday are private bill days. ### CALLING ON THE PRESIDENT.

The Administration Simply Awaiting Orders From Madrid. WASHINGTON, April 1.-Representatives Kirkpatrick and Butler of Pennsylvania called together at the White House and went over the situation with the president. President McKinley stated the situation to the members of congress substantially as

The administration is simply waiting definite responses from Madrid. Negotiations are in progress and all will depend upon the effect of these. The administration desires to avoid anything tending to precipitation and undue haste in a matter so fraught with the gravest consequences. It is struggling for peace so far as national honor and dignity will permit. It is hoped that the issue will come to a definite, early adjustment. If it can be settled peaceably it will be gratifying, and if satisfactory conclusions cannot be reached within a day the administration will still hope for it to be effected before the week closes. Meantime he advised them that in his opinion there should be no rabid and excited talk; cool judgment should dictate action in all matters which involve national honor and which will either bring the country out of the crisis peaceably with credit plunge it into war. The president further expressed gratification that the sentiment of congress favored giving a little longer time for the administration to act, and he cited the necessity for awaiting the final effect of the dispatches in process of communication between the two governments. Representative Hopkins of Illinois, one of the committee appointed at the republican conference last night. had an early interview with the president. His call, however, was independent of the committee's mission, that body not calling until later in the day. Mr. Hopkins said he felt that the republican party would stand together in the present crisis. The administration had indicated its intention to act as speedily as possible and he believed those who favored Cuban intervention would wait a proper time before acting in advance of the president.

The committee of eleven appointed by the conference of the republicans of the house who are insistent upon prompt and aggressive action for the complete independence of Cuba will call upon the president and place before him their views.

Representative Hopkins added that he believed that the house, although by an immense majority in favor of intervention and Cuban independence, would wait the action of the president for a proper time. His early visit had no connection with the pending situation and he explained that the committee appointed for the purpose would call in a body in the afternoon to manifest to the president the general desire and almost unani-mous judgment of the republican representatives that there should be quick, decisive step to secure 'he immediate independence of the Cuban republic.

Congressman Beach Warlike. WASHINGTON, April 1 .- Representative C. B. WOMAN AND THE WHEEL.

From the Gazette, Delaware, Okio.

The healthfulness of bicycle riding for women is still a disputed question between eminent physicians and health reformers. Used in moderation it surely creates for women a means of out-door exercise, the benefit of which all physicians concede. Used to excess, like any other pastime, its effect is likely to be dangerous. The experience of Miss Bertha Reed, thaseventeen-year-old daughter of Mr. J. R. Reed, 335 Lake St., Delaware, Obio, may point a moral for parents who, like Mr. and Mrs. Reed, have experienced some content for their daughters who are fond of wheeling. In the fall of '90 Miss Bertha who had ridden a great deal, began to fail in an elarming manner. She gray steedily units alarming manner.
