 Horace Easterbrook brought a load of road drags from Litchfield to the Wiggie Creek church last week. Now Clay township is equipped with nine good road drags three for each district. The drags that the road bosses use them right away while the weeds are just starting. If the road drag is used now until fall there will be no weeds to cut. Three times as much road work can be accomplished in a day if there are no weeds to contend with.
 To Route Patrons: When you are returning a package to a firm in the east or any where, be sure that you have your letter attached firmly to the package so that the package and letter will arrive at the same time. This will avoid a good many delays in your orders. Be sure you stamp your letter before attaching it to the package. Also be sure to write your return address plainly in the left hand corner. No package is allowed to leave unless your name and address is on it. Please see that your package is well wrapped.
 Elmer Johnson in company with Francis and Elnora Spencer and Miss Alice Johnson, were buggy riding last Sunday south of town when they met an automobile. One of the horses became frightened and the team ran away, but they were finally stopped before any damage was done except to the nerves of the girls. This happy bunch of trouble did not end here. For when they were opposite the new high school building, the team tried the running stunt again with more success this time. The tongue was broke out of the rig with no other damage except more shattered nerves.

They left Omaha, Saturday at 10 a. m., drove to Schuyler the first day, Grand Island the second and home Monday. The roads were in very bad shape, but she rambled right along. Ira is at work this morning.
 The Rev. Fred Johnson, after two weeks of successful labor in the meetings here, returned to his home at Hershey, Monday morning. There were 22 conversions and reconversions, and great spiritual interest revived in the congregation. They were altogether very successful meetings. A collection of $117 subscribed for his services, showing the interest was deep enough to reach the pockets.
 Celebrate Lodge Anniversary.
 The Odd Fellows of Litchfield lodge celebrated the anniversary of their order Monday night, April 25th, in the Plaza opera house. Their program was very good indeed. It was especially instructive to any one not thoroughly acquainted with the grand principles of the order. It certainly was inspiring to hear of their growth from so simple a start, and the many good and noble things they have accomplished not only for their membership, but for their fellow men, who can be astonished at their marvelous growth and who would not be surprised that the young men of the country should desire to associate themselves with such an order.
 The meeting was called to order by their secretary, H. E. Mallery, in a short and appropriate manner. The opening ode (America), was then sung by the audience to the accompaniment of Mrs. A. E. Barnett, then the invocation by Rev. Wagner, next came Mrs. A. E. Barnett with a piano solo that was masterly executed and highly appreciated. Mr. H. E. Mallery gave a very able address on the order, dividing his subject into two parts. The Brotherhood of man and odd fellowship which he kept the audiences attention in a masterly way. The recitation of Helen Lang, also of Blanch Engleman and Lulu Benson were out of my hearing, but were said to be appropriate and well rendered.
 The address by Past Grand Master, Mr. Frank John, of Grand Island, who ranks with the highest of them in the order, gave a very descriptive account of the commencement of the order by three laboring men at Preston, Yorkshire, England. Its progress and its introduction into this country and a very comprehensive account of the building of the Oddfellows' homes and schools, hospitals, etc., and the ways provided for the care of the unfortunate members in their old age, and also of their orphans and their care and education until they can graduate and care for themselves. The question arose in my mind, who wouldn't be an Oddfellow?
 The duet rendered by the Mallery sisters was exceptionally good and received well deserved applause.
 The song given by Miss Lillian Rydberg and Miss Lila Mallery was exceedingly well rendered and received loud and well deserved applause.
 The address by the Rev. Carl Knapp certainly clinched the statements of the previous speakers in a sound and able manner by able comparisons of both the Bible and New Testament, made some statements that even our church might profit by. He received marked attention and was well received.
 Closed by the chairman in a few appropriate words of thanks for the attention of the audience.
