FEDERAL INHERITANCE TAX.

Washington, June 14 (Special Correspondence)—The plans for raising the enormous sums of money required to make up for the democratic deficit and to provide for the necessary plans for national defence are not yet wholly matured. The democratic leaders in congress must wait until the full measure of their party's porcine folly has been taken—and then, under cover of a plea for preparedness they will formulate the taxation bills.

But one thing they already seem determined upon. They intend to try force through a national inheritance tax.

Thus far, the inheritance tax has been regarded peculiarly and justly as something belonging to the individual states—and many states have made use of it to their great benefit. If now the federal government is to invade this field of taxation in the states, it will be necessary for the legislatures of next winter to look around for something to take its place—because to retain this form of taxation in the states at the same time that it is put into operation as a national measure would mean double taxation—which is in itself unconstitutional in several states and which is repugnant to a sense of fair play in any event.

The proposal, however, illustrates again the straits of the democratic party in its management of national finance and the incapacity of the leaders in congress who struck down a protective tariff which at one and the same time secured to our own people the markets of our own land and sent a golden stream of revenue into the national treasury." The democratic tariff has robbed the American workman of his home market and has deprived the treasury of the money which is so sorely needed. To make up for the deficit and to enable a democrat congress to continue appropriating money for all sorts of purposes, it is now proposed to invade the taxing field of the states and leave the latter organizations to get out of the trouble as best they may.

There are probably enough members of congress from states which employ the inheritance tax for themselves to defeat the project—but no one can tell what a democratic congressman will do when confronted by a situation like this. It may be that the plan will carry. If so, it will be another in the long list of things which the incoming republican administration and congress will have to rectify.

THE FARMER AGAINST FREE TRADE.

The injury suffered by American farmers under the democratic tariff, and the beneficial effects of the war, were commented upon recently by Representative Andrew J. Volstead of Minnesota, who said in part:

"The chief appeal for public favor made by the party now in power was based upon its promise to reduce the cost of living. The slogan of its leaders has been free food products, which means free farm products. It set out to carry this policy into effect by passing the Canadian reciprocity treaty act, which offers to Canada a chance to sell all its farm products in our markets without paying any tariff while it retains a tariff upon nearly everything the farmer must buy, and since then it has passed the Underwood tariff act, which is based upon the same idea. Throughout these acts discriminate very unfairly in favor of the cities and against the farmers. As prosperity or failure depends upon whether the American farmer can obtain a fair market for his product, it is not necessary to argue that this is a discrimination that can not be offset by passing laws aimed to increase production by combating the chinch bug, suggesting remedies against smut, or the like. As long as the European war lasts, the Canadian reciprocity treaty, or the Underwood tariff, may not seriously affect us, but we all hope that this war will soon end, when the effect of these discriminations will become apparent. We are all interested in building up this country, and it can only be done by working together. No class should be specially favored or discriminated against."

HUGHES FOR PRESIDENT.

The choice of Charles Evans Hughes by the republican convention as candidate for president of the United States had been so convincingly foreshadowed that no surprise is felt at the outcome. From the time his name was suggested the drift of sentiment toward him was steady, and in the final weeks before the meeting of the convention it was irresistible. None of the aspirants for the office was able to make any appreciable headway against the continually growing demand of the party for Hughes. While the nominee at no time took any action that might be construed as even remotely seeking the office, he would be more than human were he not sensible of the expression of faith in his character and confidence in his ability shown by the request from his fellow citizens that he become a candidate for the presidency. The final ballot in the convention set its seal of full approval on the choice of the voters.

Mr. Hughes will go before the electorate with a record of service that is notable. As a member of the New York legislature, and as governor of New York, he was energetic in the work of bettering the government of the Empire state, and showed then untiring zeal and energy and splendid capacity for dealing with public affairs. His years on the supreme bench have served to ripen his intellect and mature his judgment and to more fully prepare him for the great work that is before him. His unblemished character and unusual mentality will qualify him in every regard as an ideal candidate for president.

His personality will appeal not alone to the republicans, who will be solid behind him, but to democrats who are weary of the mistakes and bickerings of their incapable leaders, and to the far greater proportion of the progressives, who have found that the chief difference between their party and the republican party is in an individual and not in principles.

Hughes' election now seems as certain as did his nomination at the beginning of last week. It only waits the fullness of time.—Bee.

THE CHURCHES.

Methodist.

Next Sunday at 10:30 o'clock a. m., a sermon will be preached to the O. O. F. and Rebeckah lodges. 8:00 o'clock p. m., regular services. The men's meeting continues every Tuesday evening as does the mid-week prayer meeting every Thursday. The Children's day exercises were very well rendered on last Sunday. Thanks to Miss Hattie Hayhurst and Mrs. Nettie Steen as well as all those taking part.

The Sunday school had another record breaking day last Sunday, there being 275 present. Let the good work go on. Let's boost for 300. Our slogan: 'Every member of the church in the Sunday school, and every member of the Sunday school in church.'

On the evening of June 26, Rev. N. A. Martin, representing the Methodist Hospital at Omaha, will present in the church a lecture on the 'House of Healing.' The lecture will be illustrated with both views and moving pictures. No admission will be charged, but a collection will be taken to defray expenses.

Mrs. Wm. Rowe is representing the church at the district and state Woman's Home Missionary convention this week held at Kearney.

Presbyterian.

The pastor will preach Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock from the subject: "Ephraim and His Idols," and Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock from the subject: "Seeking Help from the Wrong Source."

We will have an innovation in our music at both of these services. In the morning we will have a solo, "Just for Today" by Christina Miller, reproduced on one of the New Edison phonographs.

In the evening we will have a chorus of young ladies to lead the singing and also furnish some special numbers.

A cordial invitation to all. It is true, nevertheless, that a fool can get down on his knees in the street, paw up the dirt, and every wise man in sight will rush over to see what's in the wind.

A LOUP CITY WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE.

Can you doubt the evidence of this Loup City woman? You can verify Loup City endorsement. Read this: Mrs. Viola Odendahl, proprietor of The Frederic Hotel, Loup City, says: "I think Doan's Kidney Pills are well worthy of praise as a kidney medicine. I have used them only on two occasions and they have brought the best of results. I used to be troubled by my kidneys and at times my feet and ankles swelled up. I also had occasional attacks of backache. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Swanson's Drug Store, and I became better. I have had no necessity to use any kidney medicine of late." Price 50 cents at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Odendahl had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE FLAG'S BIRTHDAY.
In the shadows of the scepter,
In the gloom of doubts and fears,
In the gray uncertain morning
Of the fateful coming years,
The flag came into being,
Found its stripes of red and white
In the blood of sons and fathers
And the purity of right;
Took its field of blue from heaven,
Gemmed it with the stars that shone
As beacons guiding Freedom
From the terrors of a throne.

Gone today are all the shadows,
Gone are all the doubts and fears,
And the Starry Banner Triumphs
At the forefront of the years;
In the vanguard of the nations,
With its gleaming folds unfurled,
Into higher paths of progress
It has led, and leads, the world;
It stands today for something
That no other flag can claim,
And the freedom of the future
Is established in its name;
Going out unto all peoples
With its promise and good cheer,
Old Glory gives new glory
To the far as to the near;
The patriots give their spirit
To the flag that led them through
The wilderness to glory,
And their banner still is true.

Hurrah, then, for the birthday
Of the flag that is not furled,
And may its celebration
Extend around the world;
And may all men and nations
Know the stripes and stars to be
The gospel of salvation
And the emblem of the free.

"FIGHTING FOR FRANCE."
"Fighting for France," the greatest war film yet produced, and the only one to show the allies' side of the European conflict, will be presented at the Opera House, Saturday, June 17. These pictures, which have been the sensation of New York, Boston, Chicago and San Francisco, were authorized by the governments of France, Italy, Russia, Serbia and England.

Allies Shown Under Fire. From the Vosges to the Dardanelles and even into Russia and Italy, have the camera men gone for their pictures under the most dangerous circumstances. The fighting sons of England and France are shown under fire in the trenches and at play. The wonderful Italian sharpshooters are seen in action and the Moroccan troops, the daredevils of the French contingent, have been caught by the camera in one of their most noteworthy charges. Many prominent figures in the conflict were photographed on or near the field of action.

There are King George of England and the Prince of Wales. King Albert of Belgium is shown in consultation with General Joffre and President Poincare of France.

The French and English ships bombarding the Dardanelles and the destruction of Turkish forts and ships in this film will provoke enthusiasm for the wonderful results obtained by the photographer.

At the Opera House at 7:30 and 9:00 o'clock in the evening. These pictures will also be shown in the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Saturday, June 17. The democratic platform of 1912 declared it to be the determination of the democratic party not to injure any legitimate American industry. During the first year of the democratic tariff law our imports of merchandise and agricultural products were nearly $165,000,000 greater than during the last year of the republican tariff. Does any thoughtful business man, or any intelligent laboring man, believe for a moment that you can take $165,000,000 of good American money and send it abroad to buy foreign-made goods, and not injure the industries of this country?
