HIS SECOND ANNIVERSARY

LOUP CITY WINS GAME

Local Team Puts Up Classy Game Against Farwell Sunday.

It is certainly a satisfaction to chronicle the fact that the home team, after quite a layoff, has again been able to win a game. It was a good game, too, the score being 2 to 1. The boys went into the game full of pep and Farwell would not have had a run but for an error of the umpire. A high wind was blowing and carried a fair ball outside of the foul line, but not until Umpire Lay had made his decision and called it a fair ball, as it undoubtedly was at the time of the decision.
This run went for a homer and the Farwell aggregation failed to come anywhere near scoring the remainder of the game. The Farwell boys are a clean lot of ball players and it is hoped that these teams may meet again and before the size of crowd that good ball playing merits.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

Just why is it that some people always oppose the industrial development of this town and community? Why is it they use their influence to throttle every scheme that promises for the upbuilding and commercial advancement of the community? What have they to gain personally through such a course?
True, they would pay a few cents additional in taxes, while their property would increase as many dollars in valuation.
One live citizen who has given the subject considerable thought suggests that people who oppose local commercial advancement have a selfish motive at heart. He thinks they fear a loss of personal prestige through the bringing into our midst of new blood and new industrial enterprises. He believes the reactionists can see a possible waning of their power through the introduction of new and up-to-date methods, and that rather than retire to the rear they seek to muzzle the growth of the community.
This may or may not be true, but the fact remains that some hidden influence is constantly seeking to retard the commercial and industrial expansion of this town and this community, and it is the duty of every wide awake citizen to seek a solution to the mystery and put an end to it.
This town should advance with the rest of the state and nation, and to do so we must have the loyal cooperation of all citizens.
The hustling dog always has a full stomach, while the lazy and indifferent one eats when he has an opportunity.
Which class are you in?

PRIZE FOR BABY PORKERS.

An innovation in prizes at the Omaha Swine show will be a special prize for the best sow and litter of pigs. $300 in cash, of which Omaha gives $200, will be awarded under these conditions. All breeds may compete. The litter is to consist of not less than six pigs, farrowed after August 1, 1916. The exhibit will not be judged from a breed standpoint but from its uniformity and general attractiveness. Points that will be taken into consideration are: evenness of the litter; number of pigs; their general condition, and the way in which the exhibit is made.
Any one can enter exhibits in this competition.

The president, it is announced from Washington, will not "take the stump" instead, he will "accept invitations to visit different parts of the country to make addresses." There is a heap of difference between the two performances, as anyone can see.

A PLEASING EXHIBIT

The Busy Bee Hat Shop and Pizer & Co., entertained the ladies of Loup City and vicinity last Friday and Saturday, the occasion being the annual fall opening of millinery and ladies' ready-to-wear apparel. The store was tastefully decorated and a gramofone discoursed music to the guests. All of the newest and up-to-date fancies in the millinery line were on display and a large number of sales were made. The showing of fall suits was extremely strong and the line will appeal to all who wish to be clothed in the latest style.
Miss Froehlich has an enviable place in the millinery art, her creations appealing to all who view them, and even a mere man cannot help but admire them, although he is short on the necessary vocabulary to express his appreciation. We predict a most profitable fall and winter trade for these two firms.

RESOLUTIONS MEANS PEACE.

The outstanding facts in Mr. Hughes' discussion of foreign relations are these: He will keep us out of war if possible, but the peace that he values is peace honorable to the nation; his concern is the United States of America; his just demands upon foreign governments will be made as a matter of right and they will be made in terms unmistakable; his aim will be to prevent violations of American lives and property; he will exhibit the might of the country in time to avert humiliation and disaster, not when the damage has been done and a show of force is a vain parading of unused strength. Mr. Hughes will not "butt-in" a neighbor's affairs, but if he is compelled to adopt forceful measures in the interest of the United States he will not attempt to excuse a just action as in behalf of some phantasy, nor will he withdraw before his mission has been accomplished.
Resolutions means peace, not war, says Mr. Hughes. Mere discussion accomplishes nothing, as has been proven by the failure of Mr. Wilson's interminable exchanges of notes with those who have been guilty of aggressions against us. We know the character of Mr. Hughes. There can be no doubt that when he takes the reins of government from the feeble hands of Woodrow Wilson there will be an end of that condition which has brought shame upon our peace-loving nation, shame that such peace as is ours has been bought at the price of national honor. — Pittsburgh-Gazette Times.

THE WAY IT WORKED.

A small Iowa town had three general stores. One was the acknowledged leader, but all were enjoying a good business because the town was an important trading point for a large number of farmers and their families. The leading merchant soon outgrew the town, however, and moved to a larger place. The other two stores rejoiced because they felt it would mean more business for them to have their chief competitor leave. But it did not work out that way, because these two men did not hold the trade that the third had attracted to the town, and consequently each of the two stores left soon began to show a decrease in sales over months when there were three of them.—Exchange.

With the regular army and the National Guard on the border protecting us from the raids of a horde of blood-thirsty bandits we can not refrain from remarking that this is a mighty inopportune time for capital and labor to come to grips. Patriotism and common sense should prevail until we are free from the danger that menaces us from below.

PICNIC IS A BIG SUCCESS

Parade Not as Large as Last Year, But Well Represented.

Jimmy Conger's fourth annual picnic of his rural route patrons was held last Monday and was a success from start to finish. The event was not staged on as large a scale as last year, but there were many novel floats in the parade, the theme of the same being hard times.
According to Mr. Conger, there were nearly 500 took dinner at the park at noon. The afternoon entertainment consisted of various amusements, together with a broncho busting stunt and a ball game. Every one seemed to have an enjoyable time and no doubt this novel picnic and entertainment will continue to be a Labor Day feature in Loup City as long as Jimmy Conger continues to dispense mail on route two.

WILL PUSH NEBRASKA'S CLAIMS.

A land bank for Nebraska, with both Omaha and Lincoln putting the state to the front, was the agreement reached by committees from the two cities at a meeting held this week.
Both cities are to urge their claims and if it develops later that either city has a decided advantage over the other, then both cities are to support that one. The meeting was held in the Commercial club rooms, Omaha.
Nebraska is receiving a great amount of favorable publicity in the campaign for a Land bank. Its agricultural resources are being exploited from one end of the country to the other, and what state has better resources to exploit. Its cities are also being given recognition.
The hearing in Omaha, September 18, when the Land bank board will be here, will crystallize sentiment toward the state and give the members of the Board an eye full of Nebraska and her wonderful production.

A SUCCESSFUL SESSION

Some investigation show certain facts concerning the teachers' institute just closed at Loup City that are of general interest.

One of the most significant things is the increase in the number of teachers enrolled over that of a few years ago. Only five years ago the number enrolled was seventy, while last week the enrollment reached one hundred and twenty. It is evident that there has been an increase in the number of teachers required for the schools of the county and certainly a great increase in the per cent of teachers attending the institute.
The large attendance at the different sessions was an evidence of the general interest of the teachers in the work, and the close attention given to the County Superintendent and instructors was unquestionably a sign of good professional spirit. There is no better sign of growth in efficiency on the part of a teacher than the growth in professional interest. And the coming together of so large a number with the common purpose of improvement, creates enthusiasm and inspiration that results in better teaching and better work on the part of pupils.

To bring about the conditions seen at the institute there must be a leader, and the county superintendent of Sherman county has proved himself equal to such a work. He was educated in the high schools of Iowa, South Dakota, Wesleyan, and in normal schools in South Dakota and Nebraska, earning the degree of Bachelor of Science. He taught in county schools and served several years as principal and as superintendent of city schools. His large experience in school work leads him to know the problems that confront the teachers, and to help them in organization, methods, and management. His leadership since coming into the office has made itself felt, and teachers look to him for help in the experiences that arise in school life. We are fortunate in having at the head of the schools of Sherman county a man of such training and ability.

The instructors were selected with reference to preparation and competency along special lines. Miss Alice J. Henigan, instructor in primary methods, was educated in the high schools and at the University of Nebraska, and in a special school for primary supervision in Chicago. She is now supervisor of primary work at Lincoln, Nebraska, and is recognized as one of the best in the state. The teachers were enthusiastic in praise of her methods in penmanship, primary reading, and primary English.

Superintendent J. F. Duncan, of Osceola, Nebraska, was educated in the high school, and at the University of Nebraska, from which last institution he graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. He had experience in teaching country schools and was for years well known superintendent of city schools before going to Osceola where he has organized the most perfect system for normal training that is to be found in any city school in Nebraska. His instructor in arithmetic, reading and pedagogy was well received.

Superintendent J. H. Burwell is well known to the teaching profession in this county. He began his education in the public schools of Wisconsin and is a graduate of the Peru normal, with the degree of Bachelor of Pedagogy and of Avalon College with the degree of Master of Science. He has had experience both as city superintendent and as institute instructor. He proved proficient in orthography, English and school management.

C. W. Wood, of Aurora, Nebraska, talked to the teachers on Monday afternoon on the subject "Mistakes" and at night on the subject "Picked up on The Road." His lecture which was made up in part of original verses, was an inspiration to all. His experience on the road have given him more than ordinary insight into human life and a large sympathy for his fellow men. He is well worth hearing.

It was found that some who do not expect to teach were enrolled to have the benefit of the institute work. A few were enrolled from other counties. The Sherman county institute this year was a great uplift for the educational interest of the county, and Superintendent Currier certainly has reasons to feel satisfied with school conditions of the county.

A Teacher.

VISIT THE HALL COUNTY FAIR.

The people of Loup City and vicinity can rely upon the representation made by Grand Island with reference to the Central Nebraska fair to be held in that city on September 12-15 inclusive. The Central Nebraska Agricultural Association is composed of several hundred farmers of Hall county and business men of Grand Island, and is directed by a board of nineteen consisting of one director from each precinct in the county. While this will be only the third annual fair by this association, the organization owns its own eighty-acre tract of land upon which the fair buildings are located, has always been able to pay all of its premiums promptly, and the managements has been diligent in keeping more and more clear of concessions of a gambling nature and entertainment of the doubtful class. There is nothing of the fake nature about the fair, everything being conducted on the absolutely square deal basis, as regards the payment of prizes, racing moneys, and the other amusements offered. Last year's fair in Grand Island was regarded as one of the best in the state, and the directors set forth that this year's exhibition will eclipse the last.
Arrange to spend at least one day at the fair at Grand Island.

DISPLAYS NEW MILLINERY.

Mrs. R. N. Pritchard had many callers last Saturday to inspect her fall and winter stork of millinery. Mrs. Pritchard had no normal opening days this season, but her store was visited by crowds of Loup City ladies, who eagerly inspected the showing and expressed their admiration of the offering. Mrs. Pritchard enjoys a large patronage and will undoubtedly have a good season in this line.
