BECHTHOLD FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

Pursuant to the call for a Republican convention, the same was held in the Walworth hall last Saturday. S. J. Fair, chairman, of Rockville repped the convention to order and after the roll call by Secretary G. H. Gibson the convention proceeded to business.

On motion an informal ballot was ordered taken for nominee for representative which resulted in bring out the following names: Louis Bechthold, A. Wall and W. H. Conger. A formal ballot was then taken and Mr. Bechthold had a handsome majority and was declared the nominee.

At this point in the proceedings speeches were indulged in and considerable enthusiasm manifested. W. H. Conger was then chosen as the nominee for county attorney.

These two nominations completed the republican ticket for this year and the republican party comes before the people with clean candidates, men with good past official records and ability to fill the respective positions.

It is not necessary to introduce Mr. Conger to the public. He is well known to all and has served this county as both senator and representative at the state house. He is a man of sound judgement, friendly to all and partial to none. He is a lawyer of ability and will make a county attorney that we can rely on when justice, liberty and property are at stake.

Of Mr. Bechthold too much in his praise cannot be said. He is a man of sterling worth to the community in which he resides. He is now serving his second term as supervisor of Loup City township. He is among the early day settlers having moved to Sherman county in 1878. He is a German by descent and is at present commander of the G. A. R. Post of this city. He has a war record that he may well be proud of. On the 17, of April in 1861 he enlisted in the 13th Indiana volunteers. After three years service he was discharged and immediately reenlisted without leaving the room. When he served one year and seven months. He was in all the engagements that his command was in, including the battles of Ft. Fisher, Cold Harbor, Wilderness, Petersburg and Richmond, some of the worst known battles recorded in the history of the civil war. He also went with his command to New York, to put down the riot in that city.

We have no reason to doubt that Mr. Bechthold will make as good a record as representative as he has a soldier. We are all proud of him as a soldier, and believe he is the man to represent us.

The way Norris Brown is lambasting Congressman Bill Green in this district is the marvel of the campaign and excites the admiration of friends as well as foes of good government. When Mr. Green accepted the invitation to talk over the issues of the campaign in a friendly, neighborly way he said: "I am willing in my humble way to make the effort to defend populism in the fullest and broadest sense of that term." The meaning set forth in the above was very ambiguous to the keen analytical mind of Norris Brown and he wants to be shown. What is populism in its fullest and broadest sense? Is it the abstract or real concrete article, the revised and accepted creed of Nebraska populists in this year of grace 1898? These are questions that add greatly to Mr. Green's embarrassment, and which he in his "humble" way has been making an effort to explain and defend at every public debate since the trouble between him and Mr. Brown began. In the meantime very few are able to get any clear understanding from Bill Green's incoherent and unintelligible definition of populism in his "fullest" and "broadest" sense.

Yeterdays dispatches say that General Bacon and his entire command has been wiped out by the Indians in northern Minnesota. An uprising was feared and he was sent there with a small command to put it down. A number of private citizens accompanied him. They are reported to have been ambushed and the entire lot massacred. Particulars are not in yet but the worst is feared. Troops are being hurried forward to put down the disturbance.
