VOL. XVI.

LOUP CITY, SHERMAN COUNTY, NEBRASKA, FRIDAY, JULY 28, 1899.

NUMBER 38

ASHTON LOCALS.

Mrs. Fred Hapke arrived home from Grand Island, on Wednesday afternoon, where she has been for medical treatment. She seems to be in a great deal better health than when she left.

The church picnic social held on Wednesday evening in Knutzen's park was a success, and about $20. was raised thereby. A good time was enjoyed by all who attended.

Mr. Fred Behrens of Rockville, was seen on our streets Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Wilson of Seward, arrived on Friday evening for a visit with relatives in this neighborhood.

The Reading dated for last Friday evening by Prof. Wilson, was postponed till Tuesday evening, August 1st. Don't forget the date as this will be a rare treat which does not often befall the lot of the Ashtonite. Mr. Wilson comes to us well recommended, and is a specialist in his line, and all should turn out and hear him, as he is certainly a fine speaker. The price will be 20c.

Mr. Samuel Rayner of Marquette arrived Saturday afternoon and spent Sunday with our family physician, Dr. S. Howard. Mr. Rayner returned to his home on Monday morning.

Mrs. Thos. Bly, one of Ashton's old residents, arrived Friday evening for a visit with relatives near here.

DIED.—Mr. Julius Koslicki died very suddenly at his home near this town on Saturday night. Mr. Koslicki is one of our earliest settlers. All day long Saturday he drove a hitched team to a binder, and when he retired he seemed in his usual good health, and in the night he made a slight disturbance which awoke his wife, who thinking that all was not right, arose and lit a lamp only to find that he had departed from this terrestrial ball.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Smelser drove over to Rockville Saturday evening and spent Sunday with relatives.

Harvest is here and in full force and a number of our farmers are making plans to begin threshing yet this month.

Quite a delegation of Ashtonites accompanied the two nines wearing Ashton Uniforms to Rockville last Sunday where they went to cover themselves with glory on the diamond. In the forenoon Ashton's second nine met the Rockville team and at the end of the ninth inning the score was 32 to 33 in favor of the Rockville nine, and as both teams desired to prolong the battle, they played three innings more and then the score was 44 to 47 in Ashton's favor. In the afternoon the principal event of the day was called, and Ashton's first nine crossed bats with the Revuena team, and after playing six innings Revuena boys "threw up the sponge" and left with a score of 12 to 24 in favor of the team from this place. The teams both did their best and played lively ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Rowan Sutton of Loup spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Wilson.

A. U. Dann of Burwell was seen in this town on Monday shaking hands with old friends.

Mrs. J. F. Zellinger left Monday morning for San Francisco, Cal., where she goes to meet her husband Capt. Zellinger of Co. E., of the gallant First Nebraska.

A. N. Conklin drove down to St. Paul Tuesday evening.

Master Foster Lamphere left on Wednesday morning for a three weeks visit at Milford.

Raymond Reyes Lala, a full blooded Filipino, and an educated intelligent man who is at present in this country, gives some wholesome advice to such men as Bryan Atkins and company, who are trying to belittle every thing the administration does. He clearly points out the duties of the United States to his country in no uncertain terms. He says this government must not resolve, that its honor compels it to maintain the stand taken and suppress the insurrection and establish a stable government for his people. He contends that, if left to themselves, the jealousies among the different tribes will ruin the country and destroy his people if they are given their independence, and says in so many words that Aguinaldo bases his hopes upon the assistance he expects to receive from the copperhead element of the democratic party. This must be gratifying news for an American to hear.

An Erratic Writer.

When Thomas Bailey Aldrich was a small salaried clerk in George W. Carleton's book store on Broadway, Fitz James O'Brien was in the habit of dropping in to see him, and one day came in rather more than half sane over. Aldrich decided to take him across the street to a hotel and put him to bed. Cautiously and carefully he led O'Brien, but before he had got half way across a friend stopped him and asked: "Why do you go to bother with the fellow. Let him go." "I will not," replied Aldrich. "He borrowed a dollar from me a few days ago, and I can't afford to let anything happen to him."

At another time, when he was not strictly sober, O'Brien found himself out of funds. He wandered into a publisher's office and asked for $25. This was refused him. Angrily seizing a placard O'Brien reversed it and made in big letters on the blank side: "One of —'s authors. I am starving." Tying a string to the card, O'Brien placed it around his neck and paraded up and down the street, to the great amusement of a large crowd. He was of course requested to desist, but nothing stopped his mad course until a $5 bill was presented to him as a compromise. —San Francisco Argonaut.

The Devil Tree.

The devil, dragon or octopus tree, as it is variously called in the different stories told of it, is one of those travelers' myths which by dint of repetition have worked their way into public belief. The man eating or devil tree is, according to the story, a huge plant somewhat resembling a palm, save that the central fronds are provided with sharp teeth, which, when the leaves are folded over toward the center, grasp with a death grip the man or animal unfortunate enough to be inclosed within. In some of the stories this tree is also provided with long arms, which reach out and seize unwary travelers, raise their bodies in the air and drop them into the center of the circle of devouring leaves.

It is hardly necessary to say that there is no such tree and that the story has its origin in the dangers of traversing a tropical thicket, where travelers have received serious injuries from falling over vines and among thorny plants, where men are frequently attacked and killed by serpents. The devil tree is located in Sumatra and in the forest recesses of other tropical islands, and whenever inquiry is made for it it is to be found somewhere else. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Panama Hat.

"The life of a panama hat—that is, if it is a good one to start with," remarked an admirer of that style of headgear, "compares somewhat with the life of the owner of it. One can run through either in a hurry or hang on for a long time if it is desired. If carefully kept, a panama hat should last all the way from 10 to 40 years. I know a gentleman who resides in east Washington who has owned and steadily worn during the summer months a panama hat for nearly 40 years. It has been bleached every couple of years since and retanned and relined, and it is today at all intents and purposes as good as when I first saw it 30 years ago. "I know of another panama hat, now worn by a physician in this city, which has had almost as long a life. Long before he got it his father wore it. I know dozens of them which have been in use from 10 to 20 years. The lining wears out, but the body of the hat keeps good. Of course care has to be used to keep them such a long time, but the panama itself is almost indestructible. The original cost of the hats that I refer to was not exorbitant, none of them costing over $14." —Washington Star.

Our baby has been continually troubled with colic and cholera infantum since his birth, and all that we could do for him did not seem to give more than temporary relief, until we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Since giving that remedy he has not been troubled. We want to give you this testimonial as an evidence of our gratitude, not that you need it to advertise your meritorious remedy.—G. M.
