The circle wolf hunt takes place today. All firearms are barred, as the hunt is arranged on the plan of the late Bryan panther hunt in Texas. If you have any tame coyotes you are respectfully requested to turn them loose so that they may enjoy the days sports. Colonel L. N. Smith has charge of the Loup City Division who will break cover at the B. & M. crossing south east of town.

Wm. Knutzen, of Ashton, was a pleasant caller Tuesday. He informs us that he intends building a bowling alley in the center of his park near Ashton. Mr. Knutzen has spent a large sum of money on this park and has given it considerable time and attention. It is a credit to the little city of Ashton, and much appreciated by the people in that community. The park consists of a beautiful lawn, flower garden, lake and shade trees, and its amusements are chiefly boat racing, merry-go-round riding, and dancing. The bowling alley will be a valuable addition to the list of amusements. Mr. Knutzen's plan of building is to issue amusement tickets to those who desire to assist him in the purchase of material to build the alley. This material is to cost about $20,000, and all those who will contribute 50 cents can get that amount in amusement tickets.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures dyspepsia because its ingredients are such that it can't help doing so. "The public can rely upon it as a master remedy for all disorders arising from imperfect digestion."—James M. Thomas, M. D., in American Journal of Health, N. Y.

L. T. Travis, Agent Southern R. R. Selina, Ga., writes, "I can not say too much in praise of One Minute Cough Cure. In my case it worked like a charm." The only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. Cures coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, and all throat and lung troubles.—Oden Dahl Bros.

Mr. Albert Scott, a former resident of this city who moved his family to Gage county last spring, and he, himself went to Wyoming to engage in the stock business, passed through town Tuesday going to visit his family. He is traveling on horseback and has been on the road 30 days.

"I am indebted to One Minute Cough Cure for my health and life. It cured me of lung trouble following grippe." Thousands owe their lives to the prompt action of this never failing remedy. It cures coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, pneumonia, grippe and throat and lung troubles. Its early use prevents consumption. It is the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results.—Oden Dahl Bros.

Tuesday night at 10 o'clock, our quiet little city was waked up by what appeared from a distance to be a disgraceful row in front of Peter Slobodny's saloon. Much cussing was indulged in, and from the words caught by ye scribe, there must have been a little fighting. Such an atmosphere as that was, at that time, is not congenial for an increased crop of lice when spring time comes.

Rev. Jenrichs and family will leave next week for their new appointment in Missouri. The Rev. gentleman and family have been with us but a year, but in that short time they have endeared themselves to all who made their acquaintance, and their removing from among us is very much regretted.

The ladies of the Degree of Honor initiated one candidate into the order last Thursday night and also installed their newly elected officers, a list of which we published two weeks ago. After the installation exercises a supper was served to all present. The supper was good, a first-class spread and made the writer feel all the more thankful to be a sister. We don't want to say too much about the work in the lodge room just because we are in a position to let the cat out of the bag or the goat out of the closet, but we do want to compliment the ladies on the way in which they executed the team work in their initiating exercises. Wm. Hancock, the last candidate or victim will doubtless remember the incident and so will the goat.

A pure whiskey agrees with any food, in fact aids digestion. It tones the stomach, increases the flow of the gastric juices and so promotes strength and flesh. A pure whiskey like HARPNER Whiskey—SOLD BY T. H. ELSNER, Loup City, Neb.

David Kay, ex-county Judge made this office a pleasant call Monday morning. He is in the city making arrangements for a stable for a pony which his daughter Elizabeth will drive to and from town to attend the Loup City High School. She will attend regularly the balance of this term and next, or until she reaches the graduating exercises.

The K. of P. lodge gave a public installation Wednesday night, to a goodly number of invited guests besides their own families. They interspersed their work of installing, with treats of music and song, delectated with fruit. A delightful time is reported.

My son has been troubled for years with chronic diarrhoea. Sometime ago I persuaded him to take some of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. After using two bottles of the 25-cent size he was cured. I give this testimonial, hoping some one similarly afflicted may read it and be benefited.—THOMAS C. BOWER, Glenwood, O. For sale by Oden Dahl Bros.

Mr. Milebrandt, the traveling collector for the McCormick Co. and a brother of the proprietor of the hotel at Arcadia, died very suddenly at the above named hotel Monday night. He was jovial and apparently in his usual health when he retired to his room and a few moments later a noise was noticed coming from the room, and upon investigation Mr. Milebrandt was found lying on the bed with his hand pressing his heart. He never rallied and died in a very few moments. He lived in St. Paul.

All day Sunday the patrons of the Loup City high schools were filling in and out of the new school building and taking a good look of the different departments. Many of them were heard to say "that even the basement was well lighted and would if finished would make good class rooms. The classrooms on both first and second floor are thought to be large enough for all purposes and seemed to give general satisfaction to all who inspected them. They are handsomely finished and conveniently arranged."

WE DID NOT REPORT the following marriage last week as the facts concerning it, were not reported to us in time for publication, but as the parties are two of our most highly respected young people, we cannot refrain from giving it space in this issue.
Mr. Wellington Hawk and Miss Minnie Chase were united in marriage Wednesday evening Dec. 27, 1899, by Rev. S. Miller, of Grand Island, Neb., at their future home three miles south of Loup City, which had been previously furnished and prepared for them. The mother of the groom and the brothers and sisters of both the contracting parties were present. A bountiful supper was spread and the following parties partook of the repast: Mrs. Hawk, Nellie her daughter and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Chase, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Chase Jr. The ceremony was very beautiful and impressive. The bride was elegantly attired in cream brocade and satin with a bouquet of marchiel siel roses in her hand. The groom was dressed in the conventional black Mt. and Mrs. Hawk are among our very best and most highly respected young people and the best wishes of the entire community goes out to them.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers did me more good than all blood medicines and other pills," writes Geo. H. Jacobs of Thompson, Conn. prompt, pleasant, never gripe,—they cure constipation, arouse the torpid liver to action and give you clean blood, steady nerves, a clear brain and a healthy appetite.

He Was Scared. The doctor looked at him. "You are a dyspeptic," he said. Then he put his ear to the patient's heart and gravely added: "A high liver." "Heavens!" cried the startled patient. "'Tain't as high as that, is it?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"A young man came into our store yesterday suffering from a severe attack of cramp colic," writes F. H. Hess, miller and general merchant, Dickey's Mountain, Pa. "He had tried various home remedies without relief. As I had used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I gave him a dose and it soon brought him out all right. I never saw a fellow so rejoiced." Sold by Oden Dahl Bros.

THE SCALING LADDER.

How it is Used at Fires in Very High Buildings.

The most promising pupils among those admitted to the school of instruction at the New York fire headquarters are said to be those who have served an apprenticeship in professions that have called them aloft. Sailors, painters, roofers and steeple climbers have the advantage of their preliminary training. The first thing that a neophyte is called upon to learn is how to handle the scaling ladder.

This bit of apparatus is a long, well reasoned tongue of timber with short crosspieces passing through it. It terminates at the top with a long hook, which has three or four ratchetlike projections on its undersurface and weighs from 20 to 45 pounds. There is a special knack in handling it dexterously, and many a time a man who is slight and small of stature can manage a ladder which a Goliath would find difficulty in handling.

"There is no piece of apparatus in the fire department," says one who has made a study of its methods, "which, skillfully handled, can be made to serve more purposes than this scaling ladder. The longest extension ladder in the department measures 90 feet, but the man with the scaling ladder can go up 14 or 15 stories without becoming exhausted. At fires before an extension ladder can be put in position one fireman can push a scaling ladder into a second story window, scramble up and go from story to story to the very roof. He is followed by a second fireman, who takes his ladder with him story by story, and this fireman by a third, until by the time the first man has reached the top there is a completed chain behind him, down which the rescued may be carried and the fireman himself escape."—New York Tribune.

SMITHERS' RETORT.

His Sarcastic Reply to the Private Boarding House Landlady.

Mr. Smithers is a somewhat fastidious young man who is looking for a new boarding place. Smithers can't abide the regulation boarding house, and always tries to live with a private family. He is now convinced that an "ad," which solicits boarders for a "nice private family" is often a snare for a stuffy double flat, inhabited by one small family and 24 boarders.

Smithers called one day last week at a place with a glowing description just on the flank of Michigan avenue's aristocracy.

"Hail! Suspiciously like a boarding house," thought Smithers as he took in the dimensions. A callous negro servant who opened the door confirmed his suspicions, but he had gone too far then to back out. A sharp, snippy landlady came in with a top lofty air. "Er—ah, I believe I am mistaken," he began. "I supposed I should find a private family. By the advertisement—hu-m."

The laughter and the familiar boarding house hum of 14 clerks and ten lady stenographers came up from the dining room in the basement. The mistress of the conglomerate "private family" drew herself up proudly. "You are entirely mistaken, sir," she asserted in a grasping, $7 a week voice. "This is not a boarding house, although we have a few friends living with us." Smithers sniffed the air. There was a distinct odor of prunes and corned beef.

"Well, I must say," he remarked as he turned up his coat collar and fed down the steps, "that it smells like a boarding house, madam."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Tempted by Fishes. The Koran gives a story of some very naughty fishes in David's time. Knowing that the Israelites were forbidden to catch fish on the Sabbath, the wicked creatures came out of the Red sea in unusual numbers and kept in sight of the people all throughout the day in order to tempt them. On the approach of night they returned into the sea again.

In a fatal moment some of the Israelites yielded to the piscine blandishments, caught several of them and had them for dinner, whereupon David cursed the Sabbath breakers, and God, to show his displeasure, changed them into apes and pigs. For three days they remained in this unpleasant condition, when a violent storm arose and swept them into the sea.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Human Eye Faster Than the Pen. "You read 1,000 miles," is the calculation of a clever individual fond of details. The eyes of the average busy man, in reading alone, travel 1,000 miles, which is equivalent to an "ocular trip" a third of the distance across our continent. Even the busiest man probably travels with his eyes 19 miles of type yearly, and there are doubtless many readers who travel six times the distance. If you read a yellow backed novel, your eyes have traversed from a mile to a mile and a half of type. The busiest pen cannot keep up with this pace. With ordinary use, your pen has not traveled as far as from New York to Albany.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Bad Statement. "It's hard to be happy once you've got a reputation for saying sarcastic things," remarked the sad eyed man. "What's the trouble?" "I've lost another friend. I complimented him on being the most cool headed person I ever saw. He took it as an allusion to the fact that he is totally bald."—Washington Star.

Have You Heard of It?
You may have heard about SCOTT'S EMULSION and have a vague notion that it is cod-liver oil with its bad taste and smell and all its other repulsive features. It is cod-liver oil, the purest and the best in the world, but made so palatable that almost everybody can take it. Nearly all children like it and ask for more.

SCOTT'S EMULSION
looks like cream; it nourishes the wasted body of the baby, child or adult better than cream or any other food in existence. It bears about the same relation to other emulsions that cream does to milk. If you have had any experience with other so-called "just as good" preparations, you will find that this is a fact.
The hypophosphites that are combined with the cod-liver oil give additional value to it because they tone up the nervous system and impart strength to the whole body.
