So far, two candidates for the republican nomination for governor have filed—Ross P. Hammond, editor of the Fremont Tribune, and Senator J. H. Kemp of Fullerton. So far as the Northwestern is concerned, it can heartily support either of these gentlemen, whichever may succeed in securing the prize. Editor Hammond we have been acquainted with for over 15 years, both personally and as editor of the Tribune, which paper has been a welcome visitor to our exchange table during that time, and we may be pardoned if we have the most earnest desire to see him receive the nomination and subsequent election, knowing as we do his eminent fitness for the office. Senator Kemp, we know only by reputation as one of the ablest men in the state, who was president pro tem of the last senate and who has served two terms as state senator from his district, and been a leader in the party in the state, but from what we know of him are well satisfied that he like Ross Hammond is splendidly equipped for the office of chief executive of the state.

Roosevelt is said to be suffering from an affection of the larynx, as a direct result of the hardships he endured in his recent trip to South America, which had been overtaxed in presidential campaigns, and which will effectually prevent him from taking part as an orator in the political campaigns in the United States this fall and compel him to exercise the greatest care for some months to come, is the report coming from London, where the ex-president is at present Gee, what would Bryan do were he afflicted the same way? Mirabile visu.

Will Maupin in his Midwest Magazine says: "Ab-salom, the first baby-kissing, handshaking politician, wore long hair. It caught in the forks of a tree and he hung there until he died. Nebraska ought to compel all politicians to wear long hair and then pay a premium for the propagation of forked trees." Why has Maupin got it in for Edgar Howard so badly?

Ex-Gov. Shallenberger has filed for the democratic nomination, for congress in the Fifth district. There are already six republicans filed for the nomination, while with Shallenberger about the same number have filed for the democratic nomination.

The republicans and progressive have fused in Franklin county on a county ticket.
