"JOHN, we want you to come over and attend our Chautauqua."

Hundreds of business men will invite their friends from the country to the Chautauqua in the hundreds of cities and towns where Redpath-Horner Chautauquas will be managed this summer.

It is one of the fine things about the Chautauqua--this bringing town folks and country folks a little closer together for five days or a week.

Nels Darling, in his Chautauqua talks, is preaching the gospel of a closer union between town and country folks. He believes too often they lack in the spirit of co-operation.

He says that the smaller cities and towns, together with the farmers that live adjacent to them, must work together to save the small town from being swallowed up by the big cities in their tremendous growth.

Darling will speak here on the fourth day of the Chautauqua and you will do well to hear him. He has a practical talk on community and city development that should have the closest attention of the men and women of the community.

And come to the Chautauqua as often as you can. You will find it both interesting and decidedly profitable.

There is a world of satisfaction in carrying a nice handbag. Schwaner has the finest ever shown in the city.

Last Thursday, while the 15-year-old son of Mrs. Andy Gray of Wiggle Creek was engaged in sharpening a hoe, he in some manner cut a gash in the left wrist just above the bone of the wrist, severing an artery, from which he bled profusely before the injury could be bound tightly and the flow of blood stopped. Dr. Main was hurriedly called and attended the injured boy. At this writing he is getting along as well as the nature of the injury will allow.

Only one accident from the the deadly firecracker occurred in this city, and that fortunately did no damage. A little son of A. B. Young was shooting a firecracker, placing it in the end of a toy gun, when in exploding it broke the barrel of the gun in two pieces down to the breech, the pieces flying wickedly in different directions for some distance, the boy being uninjured, but either piece of the barrel, had it struck anyone, would have caused either death or serious injury, the force was so great.

Nice new line of souvenir spoons at Schwaner's.

We received a pleasant call last week Wednesday from Mr. Peter Kaminski, who came here about a year ago from near St. Libory and and is engaged in tilling the soil in the Wiggle Creek country. He expresses himself well pleased with this Sherman county and glad he has come among us. He is a lover of good horseflesh and boasts of a fine 1600 pound mare from which he has two of the finest mule colts in the county, one a two year old 17 1/2 hands high and a perfect beauty, and the other a coming yearling that promises to be even a better specimen. It pays to raise good stuff.

Some very fine hand leather bags now on display at Schwaner's.

Plenty of crepe paper napkins, lunch sets, and paper plates at the West side 10 & 25 cent store.
