

Canada is Calling You to her Rich Wheat Lands

She extends to Americans a hearty invitation to settle on her FREE Homestead lands of 160 acres each or secure some of the low priced lands in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

This year wheat is higher but Canadian land just as cheap, so the opportunity is more attractive than ever. Canada wants you to help to feed the world by tilling some of her soil—land similar to that which during many years has averaged 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Think what you can make with wheat around $1 a bushel and land so easy to get. Wonderful yields also of Oats, Barley and Flax. Mixed farming is fully as profitable an industry as grain growing.

The Government this year is asking farmers to put increased acreage into grain. Military service is not compulsory in Canada but there is a great demand for farm labor to replace the many young men who have volunteered for service. The climate is healthful and agreeable, railway facilities excellent, good schools and churches convenient. Write for literature and particulars as to reduced railway rates to Superintendent Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or to

A man walked into a barber shop and removed his hat and coat. He was evidently in a hurry. "Can you shave me if I do not remove my collar?" he asked impatiently.

"Yes, sir," said the obliging barber. The man took his seat in the chair, and the barber prepared for business. As he surveyed his customer he noted that the hair had all gone from the top of his head and that his hirsute adornment was limited to a fringe of hair above the neck. Then the barber spoke, as he drew the cloth around his customer's neck and fastened it at the back:

"And I think I could cut your hair if you did not remove your hat."—Columbus Dispatch.

OVERWORK AND KIDNEY TROUBLE

Mr. James McDaniel, Oakley, Ky., writes: "I overworked and strained myself, which brought on Kidney and Bladder Disease. My symptoms were Backache and burning in the stem of the Bladder, which was sore and had a constant hurting all the time—broken sleep, tired feeling, nervousness, puffing and swollen eyes, shortness of breath and J. FINISHING YEARLINGS IN THE DRY LOT

Shorthorn Champions.

(By PROF. J. H. SKINNER.)
Several years ago Professor Cochel, who was then my associate in the department of animal husbandry, assisted me in an experiment in finishing yearling calves in dry lots as compared to the pasture. The results obtained may be briefly summarized as follows:

Calves given a full feed of grain from November to May made more rapid and cheaper gains, obtained a higher finish, sold at a higher price and returned a greater profit fed in a dry lot than when finished on the pasture.

The full-fed calves when turned on grass shrunk so much during the first ten days that it required from two to three weeks to bring them back to their original weight.

Steers fed in the dry lot consumed a greater amount of concentrates than while on the pasture. The beef of the future must come from the farms of the middle West, and the feeder who, in the fall of the year, buys calves with a view to finishing them for market in such condition that they will sell as prime yearlings should realize that he is entering into a feeding proposition that will require from nine to twelve months for its completion.

In order to make the greatest financial success from the venture he should select calves showing pronounced beef types, quality, early maturity, large capacity for feed and the "milk fat" which has been secured by having suckled the dam until placed in the feed lot.

The calves should, if possible, be taught to eat grain before weaning in order that there may be no loss in weight or condition when required to depend entirely upon themselves for sustenance. These two factors are only under control of the man who finishes calves of his own raising and who should logically follow the production of yearling beef in the corn belt.

For him who makes a business of feeding cattle rather than producing them, the western ranges must furnish the material for the feed lot, which means that the calves will necessarily have lost much of the "bloom" carried at weaning time and also be entirely unaccustomed to the feeds used for production of beef in the corn belt, both of which will result in a longer feeding period where prime yearling beef is produced.

When calves are first placed in the feed lot they should be given the most palatable feed that can be obtained until they have learned to eat. Most excellent results in starting them can be secured from a grain mixture of shelled corn bran and oats mixed in equal proportions by weight, adding one part of linseed meal to ten parts of the grain mixture.

For roughage, good, bright clover or alfalfa hay and corn silage are most useful. After they have learned to eat grain, the expensive feeds such as

USE FOR LEFT-OVER TURKEY

Probably There is No Better Way Than by Converting It Into a Salad.

Generally there is quite a bit of the turkey left over, not enough perhaps for a full meal again but quite sufficient for an excellent salad for an evening function, high tea or a course luncheon. If the white turkey meat does run short it is an easy matter to supplement it with some of the dark meat or even roast veal or fresh pork and no one will be the wiser. Cut the meat into dice, then measure and allow an equal quantity of celery, cut in fairly good-sized pieces. If you have any walnuts, butternuts or almonds cook them in a little stock or boiling salted water for twenty minutes, then chop fine. At serving time mix together the turkey or other meat, nuts and celery and allow to each quart of the mixture, a teaspoonful of salt, a quarter teaspoonful of paprika, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and if you like it a tiny piece of clove of garlic, just enough to give a suggestion to the palate, without the odor. Toss and mix well and having lined your salad bowl with crisp lettuce leaves, put in the salad mixed with a little mayonnaise, heap up, mask with more mayonnaise and serve. A pretty garnish for this is the stuffed olives or bits of the sweet red peppers that come in cans. Chicken salad is made in the same way. A few spoonfuls of the stock in which the chicken has been boiled, makes a richer salad.

YEAST FOR THE QUICK BREAD

Its Proper Preparation Has Much to Do With the Success of the Baking.

Two hour bread is mixed, kneaded, raised, and baked in two hours. But first there is yeast to make for it. To make yeast for the two-hour bread boil six potatoes until soft. Take out mash them, and add them to the water (there should be one quart of this) with four tablespoonfuls of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of salt, two tablespoonfuls of shortening, either lard or butter, and set all aside until lukewarm. Add, then, half a cake of yeast which has been dissolved in half a pint of lukewarm water; stir in half a cupful of flour and let the yeast stand 30 hours. Use one and a half cupfuls of this liquid for each loaf and just enough flour to keep the dough from sticking to the board. Stir in with a spoon, then knead on the breadboard for 20 minutes and shape into loaves. Let these rise again until they are the size you wish the loaves to be, put them into the pan, and bake 30 or 40 minutes.

Lamb Souffle.

Melt one tablespoonful butter, add one-half tablespoonful flour and stir until well blended; then pour on gradually, while stirring constantly, one cupful of milk. Bring to the boiling point, add one-quarter cupful of soft stale bread crumbs, one-half teaspoonful salt, one-quarter teaspoonful celery salt, few grains of pepper and a few drops of onion juice. Remove from the range, add one cupful finely chopped cold cooked lamb, yolks of two eggs, beaten until thick and lemon-colored; then put and fold in the whites of two eggs, beaten stiff and dry. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve with tomato sauce. Beef, veal or chicken may be used instead of lamb. This dish is easily prepared and a splendid way to use leftovers.

Clam Broth en Bellevue.

Take a dozen large cherry-stone clams. Wash them well and place them in a deep pan, covering them with a pint of water. Let them boil for ten minutes; the hot water will open the clams. Remove the clams and strain the broth through a cloth. Cut up the clams in tiny bits and put them in the soup. For company you can add a little chicken broth to the clam broth and a touch of whipped cream on the top of the individual cups.

Cleanse Sweeper.

When a carpet sweeper gets full of dust, remove all waste collected, take out the brush and carefully pick out all lint, etc. Then apply kerosene on a woolen cloth and rub the ends of the bristles thoroughly with the cloth. It prevents dust rising when the sweeper is used, and brightens the carpet. A drop of machine oil in the holes where the ends of the brush revolve will do as much as any one thing to preserve your sweeper.

Temper Savers.

Every housewife should have an asbestos glove to wear in handling pots and pans that are hot. This convenient glove would save many burns, for even if a pot holder is hung conveniently close to the kitchen stove it is always out of place when something is boiling over and quick action is necessary.

Walnut and Pecan Creams.

Beat the white of an egg and a tablespoonful of cold water into a pound of confectioners' sugar. Add three spoonfuls of vanilla. Shape the cream into balls, and into each ball press two walnut or pecan meats. Perhaps more or less sugar will be needed to make the paste of sufficient thickness to melt easily.

Ventnor Pudding.

Mince some cold roast beef, and to every pound add one-half pound of breadcrumbs soaked in a little stock, a spoonful of butter, pepper, celery salt and an onion chopped fine. Mix well, pour into a dish, cover with two whole eggs well beaten and seasoned and bake until brown. Serve hot.

When Making Cakes.

A quick way to clean currants when making cakes is to put the fruit into a colander with a sprinkling of flour and rub round a few times with your hand. It is surprising how quickly the stalks are separated and come through the small holes.

USE OF ALFALFA FOR HORSE FEED ORGANIC MATTER TO HARD-WORKED SOILS

Because of Its Palatability, Mature Animals Are Apt to Eat Too Much of It. Additional Supply of Plant Food Is Furnished and Bacterial Activity Increased.

Alfalfa is a splendid horse feed, but must be fed with judgment and care. Because of its palatability, mature horses are likely to eat too much of it, if permitted free access to it. The average farm horse at hard work is allowed to eat much more alfalfa and other roughages than he really needs to maintain his weight. One pound of alfalfa or other hay and about one and a fourth pounds of grain per day of each one hundred pounds of horse flesh makes a good ration for the work horse.

Horses like alfalfa stems. Refuse from the cattle racks is very acceptable to horses. Feed mature horses first and second cutting alfalfa which is free from mold and dust. To make allowed to stand until well out in bloom. In curing horse hay, it is well to keep in mind that the dust which is present in so much alfalfa is largely a result of the presence of foreign moisture, such as rain or dew, at making time, rather than the presence of a little moisture within the plant. Never feed wet alfalfa hay to horses.

A sudden change of feed deranges the horse's digestive system. Horses accustomed to alfalfa as a regular part of their ration are seldom troubled from its use.

Alfalfa in Rotation.

If alfalfa is grown as one of the regular farm crops in rotation, to obtain best results, it should be let lie for five or six years, while the productivity of the other fields in the rotation is maintained by cropping to clover and using barnyard manure.

Keeping Apples.

Apples will keep better wrapped in paper and stored in a cool cellar.

Leaving a Gate Open.

Sometimes we leave a gate open about the farm, thinking the stock won't find it till we come back, and very frequently we pay dearly for our folly, in one way or another.

Soldiers in Silk.
There is a serious proposal to clothe the British army in silk, and an order has been given for cloth for a battalion of the Yorkshire regiment. It is a homely-looking material, made from tussah yarn, wool and worsted, which the silk trade wants the army authorities to accept. It is said to have the great advantages of lightness and durability, the strain it will bear being nearly double that of the material now used.
