Whew! Is it Flour or Gold Dust?

New York, Jan. 15.—(By Associated Press)—The price of flour soared to the highest point in many years today, some of the fancy grades in jobbing lots being quoted as high as $8 per barrel. On the flour produce exchange there was a general advance of about 20 cents a barrel on all grades.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—(By Associated Press)—An immense export business has caused a fresh upheaval in the price of wheat and flour and even more so in rye and corn. Foreign buying of wheat and corn was counted in the millions of bushels. Wheat went to $1.45 for May against $1.43 yesterday. Flour jumped 23 cents a barrel and corn and rye respectively 3 1/2 cents and 5 cents a bushel.

Liverpool, Jan. 15.—(By United Press)—Following further sharp advances in America, wheat jumped 9 cents today and flour advanced 2 1/2 per sack.

Care of Cream and Separator

Cream being an article of food, it should be kept perfectly clean. The separator should be washed, scalded and sunned after each separation, and the milk pail should be treated likewise. Cream should be cooled immediately after it is separated by stirring it so the animal heats will get out. If the cream is not stirred and is set away in an air-tight can it would smother the animal heat in the cream and it would become strong and bitter. Cream should not be where there are odors of any kind as cream will absorb any odor quickly.

OBITUARY OF ROBT. JOHNSON

The Northwestern has been handed the following obituary of an old and respected pioneer of Valley country, father of our valued citizen, Mr. James Johnson, and who was most well and favorably known by the older residents of Sherman county:

Robert Johnson was born in New York state June 24th, 1837, and died at his home on Davis Creek Tuesday, January 12th, 1915 aged about 77 years and 6 months, after an illness, which in some form or other, covered a period of years.

Both his parents died when he was cared for in the home of his grandfather. When quite young in 1858 he drifted westward, going with many others to the vicinity of Pikes Peak. After spending some time here in a search for gold he became ill and returned to Jasper county, Iowa, where he was united in marriage to Mary E. Turk, March 3rd, 1861. In the fall of 1878 he moved with his family to Hall county, Nebraska, where they lived till 1881 when they came to Valley country settling on the farm on Davis Creek which was his home till the time of his death.

When living in Iowa, in 1866, he and his wife were converted and became members of the Mt. Zion Methodist church. Here their church membership remained till the organization of the church of their faith near their home on Davis Creek when they became constituent members of that church and in its faith he lived and died, always consistent, always with a hope and belief in the life eternal.

Probably no one in the southern part of the county was better known than Robert Johnson, especially might that be said of him before failing health kept him close to his home. His home was known far and wide for its hospitably, friends and strangers always finding a royal welcome within its walls. He was always interested in everything that looked to the betterment of conditions and affairs in the county and the community.

Robert Johnson is gone and in his going he leaves a wife, six sons, three daughters and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his going. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the church and the body was laid to rest in the cemetery near his home. The services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. Mr. Crist, and the building was filled with relatives and friends.

"Old Time" Printer Passes Away

An "old time" printer passed away last week in Blair and when we read the account of his death we wondered how many of the species remained for, be it known, that the "old time" printer is a race that is fast becoming extinct. Those of us who have been fortunate enough to have enjoyed at one time the friendship and even perhaps the comradeship of an "old time" printer possess a memory that we would not part with for any of the treasures of earth. Even his habits—and they did not always conform to the best of social usages—bring back memories that we would not forget and in the light of his many superlative virtues they do not seem very bad. Under a battered old hat he carried a store of wisdom that would crack the skull of the majority of swell heads that now pick up a little mechanical knowledge and then draw salaries as printers. To one of a liking for things literary, an evening with a gang of "old timers" was a rich treat. You would not hear much relative to sartorial effects but you would hear more from the classics than you will today in a year about a composing room. Byron, Keats, Shelly and Shakespeare were living realities to them and if one lapsed in a quotation another was ready to supply the word instantly. He was in a constant state of financial depression because of his improvidence, but this seldom brought to him anything like mental depression for he knew—did the old time print—that his word was good in any composing room in the land for either a drink or a bite to eat and what more could a man desire. We are pleased that in our career we have known and been intimate with many of the vanishing race. The "men who worked with Dana" are due for extinction but we hope that on the other shore they may find permanent sits where all takes are fat and where the size of one's string has nothing to do with one's meal ticket.—Clay Center Sun.
