The U. P. will make a 1-cent round trip fare to the State Fair at Lincoln.

Farwell had four inches of rain last Friday evening, and all the people of this section could do was to look in that direction and wish.

The jury has been called for the coming term of court, and all jury cases will be carried over to the November term, which meets the 30th.

Again this week the Ord Quiz failed to make any mention of the Loup City-Ord game of last week Wednesday, in which Ord were tail-enders with the longest kind of a tail. Why?

The primary farce in some precincts in Lancaster county cost at the rate of $2.50 per vote. In Custer county it cost as high as $5 per vote in some townships. It is estimated that the primaries this year will cost the taxpayers of Nebraska more than $100,000. Pretty costly experiment for the dear people. Oh, the love of a primary!

The motor was out of commission again this week, dying out between Austin and Rockville Tuesday evening and an engine dispatched to bring the plaguey affair into town, which was accomplished about 11 o'clock at night with a full complement of disgruntled passengers. It would be a pleasure to publish the obituary of the rotten service it gives.

The pyro-aero sensation of the century, Pain's stupendous thrilling "Battle in the Clouds." At the State Fair, four evenings Sept. 6, 7, 8 and 9. The most entertaining open air creation ever conceived. 250 performers, a great outdoor stage, massive realistic scenery. A fleet of fiercely contending air ships. A stupendous war spectacle. It is gigantic, thrilling, realistic. In front of Grand Stand.

The writer is grandpa again, for the third time. Last week his daughter, Mrs. Geo. A. Phipps, wife of the editor of the Meeteetse (Wyo.) Index, presented her husband with the third boy. That's all right, and we feel proud enough over our extended title of grandpa, but what we kick about is our information bureau. When the first boy came, we got a telegram. When the second boy came, we received a letter stating the auspicious event. This time we had to get the news from the Index, published by the boy's papa. If our son-in-law were not a giant in stature and weighed but little less than a ton, he would be called to account. But then his excuse would be that the arrival was on publication day, and being an editor, the writer sees a very good excuse.

OBITUARIES

Geo. W. Dinsdale

This community was inexpressibly shocked last Saturday by the news of the death of Mr. Geo. W. Dinsdale, which occurred that morning about 9:30, by a fall from a haystack at his home near Palmer, death being almost instantaneous. He was on top of the stack, which was being topped off, when in avoiding the sweep of the stacker he lost his balance, falling to the ground on his head and shoulders, crushing the upper bones of his chest as well as breaking his neck. The funeral occurred from the home at Palmer Tuesday, awaiting the arrival of his daughter who was visiting on the Pacific Coast, Rev. Taylor of the Episcopal diocese celebrating the rites of the church, followed by a sermon from Rev. John Henderson of Central City, former Methodist minister at Palmer. George W. Dinsdale was born in Gayle, Yorkshire, England, in April, 1850. He was married to Anna P. Greenwood in 1881, and in 1882, with his wife came to this country, first settling in the vicinity of Omaha, and about 27 years ago coming to near Fullerton, thence to Palmer, where the family has since resided. Four children have been born to this union—Robert, Thomas, Elizabeth and George, who with the wife and mother still survive him. Mr. Dinsdale was one of the most extensive stock feeders and shippers of the state, Loup City being one of his principal feeding points, and was considered one of the biggest land owners of this portion of the state, owning some 3,000 acres in Sherman county, and a number of thousands of acres elsewhere. He sold one lot of land recently for $44,000. He has been engaged in feeding from this point for the past seven years, and was one of the most satisfactory business men to deal with ever known here, and counted his friends by the number of those whom he met in social or business relations. The Northwestern, in common with our entire people, regret the untimely demise of this good man.

Fred Thode

On Tuesday morning of this week, August 31st, 1909, at 5 o'clock, occurred the death of Mr. Fred Thode, at the home of his son, Mr. Peter Thode, some four miles north of Loup City, of paralysis, aged 69 years, 2 months and 21 days. Mr. Thode was stricken with paralysis perhaps a year and a half ago and has been for the past few months a confirmed invalid. His wonderful constitution had battled successfully with the Grim Destroyer for a long time, and all that loving hands could do to relieve his sufferings, but tired nature at last succumbed on Tuesday morning and he passed to his reward. Mr. Thode was born in Germany and was one of Sherman county's oldest settlers. The funeral occurred yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon from the residence, under the auspices of the Germania Verein; interment in Evergreen cemetery. The family have the sympathy of their host of friends in their bereavement. We were promised a complete data of the life of Mr. Thode, but have failed to receive it in time for this week's issue, and will try and give the same next week.

Mrs. Julius Abolinski

Mrs. Julius Abolinski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Dembowski of Oak Creek, died early last Friday morning, August 27th, at the home of her parents where she had been taken the day previous after a prolonged illness. The funeral was held from St. Joseph's church Saturday, with interment in the Catholic cemetery. She leaves a husband and small son, besides her parents and several brothers and sisters who have the heartfelt sympathy of all in their irreparable loss.

Word was received here Tuesday of the death at Cheyenne of Mr. Jack Parsons of typhoid fever on the day previous. Mrs. Parsons was formerly a Miss Knapp of this county, sister of Mrs. Geo. Peterson and L. E. Knapp of Logan township. It will be remembered Mr. Peterson and two of Mrs. Parsons sisters were called from here a few days' since by the news of his condition. The stricken wife and relatives here have the sympathy of our people in their affliction.

Letter from Far West

The following letter is received from H. M. Walker and family, formerly of this city, and who moved to Washington last spring: Medical Lake, Wash., Aug. 27, 1909—Dear Editor: As has long been promised I will write you a letter concerning our new home. We live about an hour's ride on the electric from the center of the beautiful city of Spokane. We are located on a dairy farm. In our immediate neighborhood there is not so many trees although there has been a good many, but farther west there are great numbers of pine trees. Wheat is raised extensively here and from our door way we can see a combined harvester at work. Twenty-five horses are required to pull it. This is also a fruit district combined with dairying. This is a beautiful country, but if it were not for the pines it would not be so delightful. In taking a ride in the country in summer it seems as though nature had donned her most beautiful robe purposely for the occasion. But there is one thing that mars the beauty of the country and that is what they call "scab rock." In the pastures and wheat fields there are spots that are perfectly barren and covered with large rocks. Medical Lake is a suburb of Spokane, where thousands of people from the city come every summer. The lake is quite large and as its name indicates is used for medical purposes. It is said that the waters of the lake will entirely cure rheumatism, but for the majority of the people come out for enjoyment. Small steamboats sail on the lake, besides a few sailboats and many rowboats. Fish cannot live in the lake. The lake is almost the shape of a horseshoe and on the island in the center is located the State Insane Asylum, also the Home for the Feeble-minded is located there. I noticed in your paper that Rev. Hawk and family are to move to Washington. I hope that we may see them soon. Give my love to all my schoolmates and teacher. Yours sincerely, ELLA WALKER.
