

BRIEF ABOUT READY.

And Will Soon Be Filed in Supreme Court.

Arthur Muller has prepared a part of the brief which he will file in support of his application to the supreme court for a rehearing of the case of State vs. Hagan, in which the Donohoe non-partisan judiciary act was declared invalid. Thus far Muller has treated only the limitation of voters to 500 in each county. He points out that this provision is only in line with the general acceptance as a fact that the power of nomination is not as free as the power of voting. He also urges that this limitation was only in line with the accepted fact that the legislature may make necessary restrictions in election laws. He then points out that voters are restricted in all states where a certain percentage of the total vote must vote each ticket in order for the party to have a legal standing. In Nebraska a party must poll 1 per cent, in Minnesota 10 and in other states varying proportions.

He also points out that if the limitation of the Donohoe act is illegal the federal constitution which will not permit an elector to vote for a vice president and a president from the same state. Along this line he points out that six presidential electors are named in six congressional districts of the state and two at large. Consequently no voter in the state has a right to dictate the nomination of more than three of the eight electors in his state. He also urges that if the Donohoe act is invalid on account of its invasion of the bill of rights that the present convention act is out of line.

Companies Must Prove Themselves.

Companies which propose to begin the insurance business on a very strong basis may be required to prove the genuineness of their intentions in Nebraska, according to the statement made by State Auditor Barton, after his return from the meeting of state insurance commissioners at Denver. It is merely a question of whether the money received from stock sales is actually used to build up a surplus or to feather the nests of promoters.

A characteristic scheme for such promoters to use is for the promoter to approach one well up financially and assure him that there is a gilt-edged proposition ahead, wherein $100 share of stock is to be sold for $200, this extra $100 being turned into the company for a working surplus. This idea carried out, would provide the basis of a strong company. But it seems that this surplus is used largely for promoting purposes and that some of the more unscrupulous of such companies thus charge the subscriber $100 for taking $200 away from him with little promise to make good.

Australia Interested in Guaranty.

Richard A. Crouch of Australia, writing on a Parliament letterhead, has requested the governor to send him a copy of the Nebraska depository law enacted by the late legislature. Mr. Crouch wrote that he understood Nebraska had passed such a law and he desired full information concerning it.

Complaint Against Saloon.

R. D. Evans of Dakota county has written to the legal department of the state to the effect that he believes the Sioux City Brewing company and the Inter-State Brewing company of that city are violating the law both of Nebraska and Iowa. He said such companies haul their beer into Nebraska and ship it back to Iowa and by this way he says they violate the law of both states.

Object to Lowering Rates.

At Lyons the Home Telephone company concluded to reduce its rates and proposed that the state railway commission grant the authority. Before the commission got busy, however, the Lyons Independent Telephone company, which has not yet started business, appealed to the commission to permit it to show cause why these rates should not be reduced. The hearing will be granted.

Pullman Seats Free.

At the request of the Union Pacific and the Pullman company, the State Railway commission has modified its order relating to the sale of seat tickets on trains Nos. 7 and 8 of the Union Pacific. The new order issued following a conference of the commission and officials of the Pullman and railroad company, provides that no seats may be sold on these trains, but that when the local coach is full, passengers are entitled to any vacant seats on the parlor and sleeping car without extra charge. It is provided, however, the passenger who is riding in the parlor car without cost must return to the coach whenever there is a seat for him there.

Postmaster Appointed.

Edward Zink has been appointed postmaster at Sterling and Miss Dora Beuhler will act as his deputy. The places of the Burlington trainmen at Wymore, who were discharged for taking goods from cars in transit, are being filled by new men. In all, about twenty employees were let out.

Bid to Old Normal Board.

The Commercial club of Alliance showed its faith in the "old" Normal board by submitting to it a proposition for the new normal school. The Commercial club sent to Luther P. Ludden, secretary, an offer to give to the state eight acres of land, if the school is located there. Enclosed with the proposition were several petitions from neighboring towns asking that the school be located there, and also a statement signed by numerous business men offering a bond of $20,000 to guaranty title to the property.

Switch Wanted at Schuyler.

The Wells-Abbott Neilman company of Schuyler has filed an amended petition in its request to the state railway commission to compel the Union Pacific to construct a transfer switch to connect with the Burlington at Schuyler.

Bert Taylor Appeals.

Bert Taylor, the Minden murderer sentenced to be hanged, has appealed to the supreme court. His attorney, J. M. McPhee of Minden, filed the appeal in the supreme court.

The Diamond Boy

BY LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

"You—You Mean You Would Shoot Me?" She whispered.

"Mad" Dan Maitland, on reaching his New York bachelor club met an attractive young woman at the door. Janitor O'Hagan assured him no one had been with that day. Dan discovered a woman's finger prints in dust on his desk, along with a letter from his attorney. Maitland directed to the attorney, Dan set out for Greenfield to get his family jewels. During his walk to the country seat, he met the young woman in gray, whom he had seen leaving his bachelor's club. Her auto had broken down. He fixed it. By a ruse she "lost" him. Maitland, on reaching home, surprised lady in gray crawling the safe containing his gems. She, apparently, took him for a well-known crook, Daniel Anisly. Maitland explained, Maitland opened his safe, took therefrom the jewels, and gave them to her, first forming a partnership to crime. The road, Dan Anisly sought by police of the world, appeared on the same mission, Maitland overcame him. He met the girl outside the house and they sped on to New York in her auto. He had the jewels and she promised to meet him that night. Maitland received a "Mr. Smith," introducing himself as a detective. To shield the girl in gray, Maitland, about to show her the jewels, supposedly lost, was felled by a blow from "Smith's" cane. The latter proved to be Anisly himself and he secured the gems, masquerading as the latter. The criminal kept Maitland's engagement with the girl in gray. He gave her the gems, after falling in love at first sight. They were to meet and divide the loot. Maitland revived and regretted missing his engagement. Anisly, masquerading as Maitland, narrowly avoided capture through mysterious tip. The girl in gray visited Maitland's apartments during his absence and returned gems, being discovered on return. Maitland, without cashing up his home and heard a woman's voice expostulating. Anisly, disguised as Maitland, told her his real identity and realizing him, she tried to wring from her the location of the gems. Then he proposed marriage. A crash was heard at the front door. Maitland started for home. He found Anisly and the girl in his rooms. Again he overpowered the crook, allowing him to escape to shield the young woman. Dan himself narrowly avoided arrest. Janitor O'Hagan, about to show the officers of the law, Hickey, a detective, duped by Anisly, refused to partake and mused on his defeat. The girl in gray reached her escape, jumping into a cab. An instant later, by working a ruse, Anisly was at her side.

CHAPTER XIII.—Continued.

Bitter as poverty the cruel lash cut round the horse's flanks; and as the harness shot out at breakneck speed toward Fifth avenue, the girl covered back in her corner, shivering, staring wide-eyed at the man who had so coolly placed himself at her side. This, then, was that nameless danger that had stalked her on the stair-case, this the personality whose animosity toward her had grown so virulent that, even when consciously ignorant of its proximity, she had been repelled and frightened by its subtle emanations! And now—and now she was in his power! Dazed with fear she started up, acting blindly on the primitive instinct to fly; and in another moment, doubtless, would have thrown herself boldly from the cab to the sidewalk had her companion not seized her by the forearm and by simple force compelled her to resume her seat. "Be still, you little fool!" he told her sharply. "Do you think that I'm going to let you go a third time? No, till I'm through with you. And if you scream, by the powers, I'll throttle you!"

CHAPTER XIV. Retribution.

She sank back, speechless. Anisly glanced her up and down without visible emotion, then laughed unpleasantly—the hard and unyielding laugh of brute man brutishly impassioned. "This silly ass, Maitland," he observed, "isn't really as superfluous as he seems. I find him quite a convenience, and I suppose that ought to be touted up to his credit, since it's because he's got the good taste to resemble me. . . . Consider his thoughtfulness in providing me this cab! What'd I've done without it? To tell the truth I was quite at a loss to frame it up, how to win your consent to this giddy elopement, back there in the hall. But dear kind Mister Maitland, bless his innocent heart! fixes it all up for me. . . . And so," concluded the criminal with ironic relish—"and so I've got you, my lady."

He looked at her in sidelong fashion, speculative, calculating, relentless. And she bowed her head, assenting. "Yes—"

"You're dead right, little woman. Got you. Um-mmm."

She made no reply; she could have made none aside from raising an outcry, although now she was regaining something of her shattered poise, and with it the ability to accept the situation quietly, for a little time (she could not guess how long she could endure the strain), pending an opportunity to turn the tables on this, her persecutor.

"What is it," she said presently, with some effort—"what is it you wish with me?"

"I have my purpose," with a grim smile.

"You will not tell me?"

"You've guessed it, my lady; I will not—just yet. Wait a bit."

"She spurred her flagging spirit until it flashed defiance. "Mr. Anisly!"

"Yes?" he responded with a curling lip, cold eyes to hers.

"I demand—"

"No you don't!" he cut her short with a snarl. "You're not in a position to demand anything. Maybe it would be as well for you to remember who you're dealing with."

"And"—heart sinking again.

"And I've been made a fool of just as long as I can stand for it. I'm a crook—like yourself, my lady, but with more backbone and some pride in being at the head of my profession. I'll spend the rest of my days in the pen, if they ever get me. Twice to-day I've been within an ace of being nabbed—kindness of you and your Maitland. Now—I'm desperate and determined. Do you connect?"

"What?" she asked, breathlessly.

VALUE PAINTED ON.

Well painted is value added whether the house be built for one thousand dollars or ten thousand. Well painted means higher selling value, and higher occupying value—for there's an additional pleasure in living in the house that is well dressed. National Lead Company assist in making the right use of the right paint by sending free upon request to all who ask for it, their "Houseowners' Painting Outfit No. 49." This outfit includes a book of color schemes for either exterior or interior painting, a book of specifications and an instrument for detecting adulteration in paint materials. Address National Lead Company, 1902 Trinity Building, New York City, and the outfit will be promptly sent to you.

THE ANSWER.

Youngster—What's the most aggravating thing during married life? Older—Why, the woman.

LOW COLONIST FARES TO THE WEST AND NORTHWEST.

Union Pacific Passenger Department announces that Colonist Fares will be in effect from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15, 1909, to all points in the West and Northwest.

This year the West looks more promising than ever. Now is the time to secure land at low prices, and, at the same time, to visit the many interesting points in the West and Northwest, at which liberal stopover arrangements may be made.

A better estimate of raw lands can be made now than formerly, because these lands are in proximity to new farms that are producing wonderful crops.

Consumption Need Not Leave Home.

Consumption can be cured, or arrested, in any section of the United States, and the percentage of cures in the east and the west is nearly the same. Any physician, therefore, who sends a person to the southwest without sufficient funds, or in an advanced or dying stage of the disease, is guilty of cruelty to his patient. Renewed efforts are being made to stop this practice, and to encourage the building of small local hospitals in every city and town in the country. Attempts are also being made in Southern California and in Texas to exclude indigent consumptives or to send them back to the east.

Care in Preparing Food.

In recent years scientists have proved that the value of food is measured largely by its purity; the result is the most stringent pure food laws that have ever been known.

One food that has stood out prominently as a perfectly clean and pure food and which was as pure before the enactment of these laws as it could possibly be is Quaker Oats; conceded by the experts to be the ideal food for making strength of muscle and brain. The Quaker Oats Company is the only manufacturer of oatmeal that has satisfactorily solved the problem of removing the husks and black specks which are so annoying when other brands are eaten. If you are convenient to the store buy the regular size packages; if not near the store, buy the large size family packages.

Adjustable.

Aunt Anne, an old family dorky, was sitting with knees crossed in the kitchen, when the young daughter of the house entered and, impressed with the hugeness of the old woman's feet, asked what size shoe she wore.

"Well, honey," replied Aunt Anne, "I kin wear eight's; I generally wear nine's; but dese yer I've got on my twelve's, an' de good Lawd knows dey kin't me!"—Everybody's Magazine.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Willimantic, Conn.—"For five years I suffered untold agony from female troubles, causing backache, irregularities, dizziness and nervous prostration. It was impossible for me to walk upstairs without stopping on the way. I tried three different doctors and each told me something different. I received no benefit from any of them, but seemed to suffer more. The last doctor said nothing would restore my health. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see what it would do, and I am restored to my natural health."—Mrs. ETTA DONOVAN, Box 299, Willimantic, Conn.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from some other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. When a man "doesn't feel just right," when he doesn't sleep well, has an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach after eating, is languid, nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and SO GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

THE PROLIFIC QUEEN BEE

The queen bee is a great antagonist of race suicide. She strives to perpetuate the race with an ardor and an understanding that is worthy of the highest commendation. Some have been known to lay 4,000 eggs a day for a year, the number lessening after that to 1,200 and going forward at that ratio for another two years. With 50,000 bees to the colony that single praiseworthy queen laid enough eggs to establish 46 colonies. Bee keepers figure on a net income of three dollars a colony each year. If the owners of the bee under discussion profited from her labors to that extent the gain was $145. It is not to be presumed that any such results were obtained. To argue so much in favor of one bee would be to place belief in the statement that a man with ten acres of ground and two rabbits can become a millionaire in three years selling rabbit skins to glove manufacturers.—Technical World.
