J. W. BURLEIGH, Ed. and Pub.

The state republican ticket pulled through, but too mighty close for republican comfort.

The support of Gibson proved a greater frost to Weare than the dirt-throwing of the Times.

The vote in Sherman county was the highest in its history, but, oh, the scratching was simply awful.

Is the Lincoln Daily Star flirting with democracy? Or is the darling really in love with the ancient dame? are some of the questions arising in republican minds.

The election news from all quarters is not very encouraging to republicanism. A little more Cannonism, some more reform-primary business in Nebraska, and a few other points of like kind here and elsewhere and democracy stands a pretty good chance of getting a good firm seat in the saddle.

The rotten primary law is responsible to a large extent for the apathy of voters the past two years. The voter reasons, not altogether without good grounds, that candidates, not being made so by parties proper, not endorsed by conventions, nor standing upon avowed party platforms, are merely individual vote-getters, and that the adherents of the parties are not as a body responsible for their nomination, which is made by a primary law that allows one party to select the candidates for another party, and practically wipes out all partisan pride in their election. A measly $5 bill will not take the place of the work of the party convention, and the voter does not feel bound by it. Shoot the illegitimate primary offspring.

We notice in the Times last week the action for divorce, at which we were a little surprised. We thought from the "broad" editorials in the Times that Walt Weare and Gibson were married, and now he says Weare was married to the seven west side representatives. Is it possible that Weare is a polygamist? However, he ran a great deal better than Mr. Dieterichs accordingly. Mr. Dieterichs lived on the side of the county which is the thickest populated, is an old resident and had the Times howling for him and misrepresenting Weare. Then he only got a little over 100 majority. Look at Hendrickson's majority. The Times did not electioneer for him, yet look at his vote. Well, Charley did not deny the wedding, nay, may. Do you suppose she (Charley) will have another as hard a time in two years to get her old man (Dieterichs) in office again.—CONTRIBUTED.

Uncle Lou Williams seems to prove a better sprinter each time he runs.
