The Mellor Mandamus Case.

Upon hearing that the Supreme court to indicate that the opponents to the had denied the Mellor writ of Man- Roosevelt idea are muchly in the damus against the County Board, we minority. took it upon ourselves to go over to Practices in all Courts Mr. Mellor's office and ask him what he thought of the decision, and his anwer struck us with such force, that we thought it would be a matter of interest to the general public as well as is Mr. Mellor's statement:

While possibly the Supreme Court is heart. not to blame for the decision, upon the facts as presented, still the injustice to thinking citizen of Sherman county to support of this assertion, I herewith append the following figures which more fully explain my position than

The close political race in Ohio shows what the republicans may fairly ex-Best of Service pect when they depart from the party's rdained path of rectitude. It is a political organization that has always stood for the highest standards. But in Ohio it could not be successully contended that it had measured up to the occasion or met the expectation of those who had wished it to justify its record. Unquestionably the state administration had been guilty of some entang Poland China Swine ling alliances with the disreputable ments. This set the church people of the state by the thousands against it. The Methodist conference and other religious hodies resolved to offer a protest. The protest was registered at the polls. It brought the party vote down to a decided defeat. It ought to
