And now Nebraska democrats are talking of following the good example of Nebraska republicans and nominate their candidate from the U. S. senate in state convention.

Is the Republican state convention to name the proper material for U. S. senator again? They made a pretty good job out of it the last time. If not, why not?

According to figures so far the state will not be out so very much in their officers paying fare on roads instead of riding on passes, the amount showing to be less than $1500 per year at the present rate.

The way candidates for state offices are sprung up from every quarter of the state, Sherman county will soon have to dig up one or two, or be off by our own lonesome, as the only one not represented in the scramble.

If it were a race between Millard and Rosewater only, for U. S. senator, would you take to the woods? We wouldn't. We would try to yank Ross Hammond, Norris Brown, or some other good and competent man into the race.

Since Norris Brown won his decisive victory over the railroads in the tax case, a number of the state papers are falling all over each other in trying to chase him into the U. S. senate. The state might do a blamed sight worse than to place Norris there, but when we have a good thing in the attorney general's office let's not take any risks.

A great many of the state papers are giving it out that any man who carries passes over the various railroads cannot have their support for seats in either house of the state legislature. Just think of it, going to make senators and representatives pay their way or walk! Isn't it awful to contemplate?

Now that Alice Roosevelt has adopted the Japanese kimono as an article of wear, we may expect the president's daughter to be followed extensively in thefad. Undoubtedly if Miss Roosevelt were to adopt the Japanese method of fixing the feet, we might expect thousands of followers would be the result, and a mining step succeed the present dainty walk of fashion's darlings.

The big railroads in the east, such as the Baltimore & Ohio, Pennsylvania Central, and others, have given it out that the politician's passes must go. And now it is reported that congressmen, to whom the pass was a most pleasant perquisite, propose to harass these same corporations in various ways till they return to them those favors. Truly we live in strenuous times.

One day last week, a few miles north of Loup City, some of the farmers came across two deer, a buck and a doe, the first seen in that section for many years. Forgetful of the fact that the law protects these animals, a chase was organized by a few neighbors, which resulted in the killing of the female, but the male escaped. Later information reaching Lincoln of the occurrence, a state game warden hied himself to the locality to look after the matter, and while we have heard no results, the probability is that some one may have to pay de div for his sport. Later—we understand two of the participants, whose names we have not learned, were fined $100 each.

The report in the daily papers to the effect that W. R. Mellor, as newly elected secretary of the State Agricultural Society, will be obliged to move his family to Lincoln and take up his residence there, is without foundation in fact. The resolution passed was to the effect that the secretary must have his office at Lincoln, which he has established in one of the north rooms of the capitol building on the ground floor, but Mr. Mellor will not for does he have to move his residence to Lincoln, we are glad to note. By the way, the state papers all contain kindly mention and congratulations to our townsman over his elevation to that responsible position, which is also a honor to Loup City as well as to Mr. Mellor.

Died.

At the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Fisher, of this city, Mrs. J. L. Baillie departed this life on last Thursday evening, Jan. 18, 1906, at 10:20 p. m. Mrs. Baillie was born in Lanark county, Ontario, Canada, on the 5th day of November, 1837, and was, at her decease, 68 yrs. 2 months and 13 days old. She embraced the Christian religion at the age of 18 and until her death never lost sight of the Golden Rule. She was ever a faithful follower of the Master and when death closed her eyes and stilled her voice forever on earth, it was only to hear the master say, "Come up higher." She was married to James L. Baillie on December 30th, 1864, and in the spring of 1867 emigrated with her husband to Todd county, Minnesota. In 1876 they came to Nebraska and to Sherman county, where they took a homestead three miles west of Loup City, where they lived for 17 years, since which time they have resided at Shelton and Fremont. Last fall her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Fisher, visited her parents at Fremont and believing that she could better smooth the pathway of her few remaining days by so doing, persuaded her to return home with her, where she passed away as above stated. She was the mother of eight children, five of whom are still living as follows: W. L. Baillie and Mrs. F. M. Wickwire of Fremont, Mrs. Geo. Benschoter of Schull, Nebr., and Mrs. W. J. Fisher of this city, also her husband, J. L. Baillie, now of this city, who is left to finish life's course alone. The funeral was held from the Baptist church last Sunday, Jan. 21st, Pastor Wold preaching the sermon. The body was laid to rest in Evergreen cemetery.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks to the many good and kind friends who so generously and considerately assisted us in ministering to the comforts of our beloved wife and mother during her long illness, and whose labors in her behalf never ceased until the last act of kindness was complete.
J. L. Baillie and FAMILY.

Moral Philosophy.

Can we change our character? Yes, if we change our body. Character is formed of our ideas and our feelings. Now, it is quite clear that we neither give ourselves feelings nor ideas; therefore our character cannot depend upon ourselves. If it did so depend, every one would be perfect. When we do not reflect we think ourselves masters of all. When we reflect, we find that we are masters of nothing. If I have a wry nose and cat's eyes, I can hide them behind a mask, and yet I not do more with the character that nature has given me? Religion and morality may curb the strength of the disposition but they cannot destroy it. The drunkard in a cloister reduced to a pint of cider per meal, will never more get drunk, but he will always be fond of wine. If we could change our character we would give ourselves one and become the master of nature. Character is born in the individual, or his business and cannot be borrowed, bought, bribed or bargained for.

A LOCAL PLUTARCH

Cleora Notes.

Mrs. Vic Johnson of Aurora visited with Mrs. R. Warrick, Friday.

A son of Mr. John Warrick from Aurora is in the neighborhood.

Messrs. John Wheeler and Chris Zwink are entertaining relatives from Oklahoma and Ashton.

There has been two candy parties in this locality lately for the benefit of the preacher; one at Chris Zwink's and the other at the Foss home.

Mr. Clarence McLughlin has gone to Culbertson with a view of purchasing land if suited. His wife is visiting in Aurora in the meantime.

We have just learned why our minister was not here to fulfill his last two appointments. His mother who lives in the east died and he was called home.

Our Clear Creek correspondence unfortunately reaches us generally a day after publication day. Will he please mail same a day or two in advance of his present time.

In remitting the necessary for another year's subscription to THE NORTHWESTERN, A. J. Weidknecht of Pasadena, writes the following of sunny California: Editor NORTHWESTERN: "We have had a very good year since I wrote a year ago and quite a number of familiar faces have come here, some to stay, others only on a visit. We have just had a floral parade and it would be a wonderful sight for Nebraska folks to see. Flowers of all descriptions picked right from the gardens. No other city can make such a display on the first of the year. You can take the electric street car up to the foot of the mountains, and spend a very happy forenoon walking or riding up as a person desires; then take the car again for the beach—only one and one-half hours' ride partly through Los Angeles and the orange and lemon orchards. At the beach you can take a bath in the beautiful water of the Pacific and play with the breakers—a life-time remembrance. I will close wishing you all a happy New Year."

Patrick O'Brian, the man who was arrested at Loup City, charged with breaking into the postoffice and several business houses of Pleasanton several weeks ago, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Cleary at Grand Island and plead not guilty. He was bound over to the United States court, and being unable to give bond, was taken to Omaha and placed in the Douglas county jail to await trial.—Ravenna News.

It is said the Burlington and Union Pacific, having been beaten in their tax suit, propose to appeal to the United States Supreme court, the court of last resort.
