

OF NEW YORK

savage manner.

CONTRACT, 1923, by STRETE STIL

CHAPTER XV.

Chapter XIV .-- Continued. "You go in a carriage, of course?" asks Dick, in a matter-of-fact voice strangely at variance with the tumult raging inside.

'Certainly; I have spoken to the driver."

"Who may he be?" carelessly. "That man over yonder; the one with the rather respectable figure and dress. He has a good vehicle.' Dick gives the fellow a keen glance.

"Humph! I guess he will do." he ries up to their room in the best of mutters, as though his thoughts are | Mexican hotels, and inside of fifteen far away.

"What time are you to leave?" he asks, again.

"At eight."

"It is seven now-an hour hence plenty of time, plenty of it. Miss Pauline, have you any objection to telling me where this house you are about to visit may be situated? You see, if you are heard of no more, we would like to have a clew to work upon."

She is amused at his tone, and laughs, though Dora looks a little alarmed.

'What's that? not heard from again? I hope Miss Pauline doesn't mean to run any unnecessary risks. I really feel too well satisfied with life. as I find it, to hanker after another Dr. Girard's select establishment," Dora speaks up.

"Don't be alarmed, my dear. I hope his ability to win. we will not get into any such trouble. As to the address, let me see-it is somewhere on the bank of the La made of strange material-for a Mexi-Viga Canal, near the beautiful ha- can-to be able to resist the alluring cienda of Don Juan Corona, the re- influence of jingling reals and pesos, tired bull-fighter, who has made such when offered in temptation. a paradise of his home. I believe I Dick discovers the vehicle at the wrote it on a slip of paper to tell the curb, but the man himself is non est driver, and found he already knew the |-only conspicuous by his absence.

Drew a Black Cross Over the Document.

place well. Ah! there you have it, Struck by an idea, and knowing the Senor Dick," and she hands him a habits of New York cabbies, Dick adniece of paper. vances to the vehicle and discovers gentlemen; do not the fellow inside, feeling very com- what I wanted, and I told him to just carrots, onions and mace; rub butter quarter teaspoonful of vanilla. Put "Good-night,

He knows the way-thanks to previous visits to the Mexican capital Around can be seen many moving figures, numerous lights, and the sound of music is almost as general as the odor of rare flowers, coming from over the garden walls in the night air. Here is the band that discourses to hundreds on the Alameda -there some entertainment is in pro-When Dick has read this be gress, while anon the voice of a crumples the note in his hand and maiden or the sweet notes of her manquite surprises his comrade with his dolin can be heard as she sits upon the flat roof or azotea, with ner lover, "Now I know there is some treachit may be, for company.

ery afoot, and I'll checkmate it, as All this is very pleasant to ears ac sure as I live. Take another squint at customed only to the harsh sounds of that man, Bob, and then make me a Northern city after nightfall-the look as much like him as you can, for rumbling of street cars, the rattling of I'm in this game for keeps-it's diacarriages, the rush of elevated trains mond cut diamond now!" he says. -all are here almost unknown, and in their place come these notes of music, laughter, song, that speak of a different life, one of more indolent

The Hacienda on the La Viga Canal. ease Dick keeps his course and heads With some men to conceive an idea for the Calle del Apartado, whence he is to carry it into execution-such is can readily reach the street upon the nature of Dick Denver. He hurwhich the Morales house is located. It is one of the finest houses in the city and adjoins the wonderful la Viga minutes has effected radical changes Canal, upon which may be seen the both in his personal appearance and famous floating gardens. Perhaps. dress, so that with the assistance of after all, he is foolish to believe harm the driver's hat and coat he can can come to Pauline Westerly under readily be taken for the man himself. this roof, but some instinct warns him Meanwhile he and Bob have come to beware, and certain circumstances to a good understanding regarding point that way. Besides, Dick is one things-the latter individual, well of those men who believe in the old armed, and carrying wrapped around adage that "forewarned is forearmed." his person the very rope that Dick His life has been a roving one, and he brought to the hotel, the lasso with has seen the time more than once which he was thrown, intends to when it paid to be cn guard. hover around the Morales place, and

Those who ride inside the carriage take advantage of any opportunity have, of course, no idea that the that may come to effect an entrance. young American drives the horsesby climbing over the garden wall. that is Dick's secret, and he plays his Once within he will be in a condition part to perfection. to come to the relief of the others

They arrive at the Morales houseshould his assistance be needed. there is a break in the wall-a colored It is now approaching half-past lamp hanging above shows what apseven. Dick at once sallies forth to finish his conquest, nor does he doubt pears to be a gate or great door, at which Dick must kncck.

Drawing his horses in, he descends The driver of the vehicle must be from his perch, and, finding the knocker, causes an alarm to be sounded through the place that would arouse the dead. In less than half a minute he hears voices within

-then the gate swings open. Dick takes his horses by the head and leads them through into the lighted garden. He hears the huge gate clang behind, and knows they are shut within the walls. As he fully expected this, it does not give him much concern. He is ready to play his part in the game; if the ladies are threatened with no harm, well and good, he can drive them back to the hotel, and no one be the wiser for his little escapade; but should Senor Lopez attempt to spring one of his little games, he will find in the American a rock that may dash his craft to pieces.

(To Be Continued.)

GOT IN THE WRONG CHAIR.

Oklahoma Caller at the Capital Took the President's Seat at Cabinet Meeting.

John Abernethy, who was appointed United states marshal of Oklahoma by President Roosevelt, came pretty near attending a cabinet meeting unawares. In telling of his trip, Abernathy is quoted by the New York Times as saying: "A man stepped up and asked me

Albert Douglas, of Chillicothe, O., who defeated Representative Grosvenor for renomination to congress.

SOUPS WITHOUT MEAT.	DESSERTS FOR THE SICK.
in the Warm Weather Such Dishes Welcome—Quite a Number Given Below.	Very Good Ones Made of Irish Moss -Recipes for Four Kinds of Custards.
Barley SoupTwo tablespoonfuls	Irish Moss Blanc Mange-Pour one

pearl barley, one quart of stock, salt and one-half cupfuls of cold water and pepper to taste. Wash the barley over one-quarter cupful of Irish moss in cold water, then immerse in soiling and let stand 20 minutes; drain from water, boil up once and drain; cover water; pick over moss, discarding disagain with boiling water and simmer | colored pieces; add to one and threeit for two hours. Drain and add the quarters cupfuls of milk and cook in stock.

Dried Bean Soup Without Meat .of water, one tablespoonful of butter, beans, cover with water and let stand all night; drain next morning and put over to boil with two quarts of water, and as soon as they boil drain this water off and pour away to prevent the soup from being too strong. Now cover with two quarts of fresh boiling water, and a pinch of soda and a pinch of sugar and boil un il reduced to a pulp. Now return to the kettle. after having pressed through a colander, add water enough to make about the thickness of cream, or less if you wish it so, season well with salt, pepper and butter.

Macaroni Soup .-- One ounce of macaroni, one quart of stock, salt and pepper to taste. Break the macaroni into pieces about two inches long, stew in a quart of boiling water for about 20 minutes, melt the stock, bring to a boiling point; add the macaroni and let simmer for a few minutes; add calery salt and common salt to taste, pepper also, and serve. Rochefort cheese may be served with the soup if Cream of Cheese Soup .- One quart of onion, a stick of mace, two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of flour, three heaping spoonfuls of ful of scalded milk, the yolks of two grated cheese, yolks of two eggs, sait eggs, three tablespoonfuls of granu-is a Hoosier, and Has Been a Preacher and Beligious Worker Since He Was Sixteen Years Old.

THE

PERSONALITY AND HISTORY OF LEADER OF ZION'S REVOLT.

Chicago.-The imagination which originates is always succeeded by the matter of fact management, if ruin is Alexander Dowie and the inauguration is an exemplification of the rule. The two men contrast abrolutely-physically, temperamentally, mentally. his portrait in oils; a marble bust is The exuberant Dowie, massive in to be made of him for the Chemical frame, redundant in speech, magnetic and dominant in personality, enveloped and swept away by the power of his own visions, recognised in his moments of wisdom and judgment, in his secret communings in his closet, that in the young disciple Voliva existed the sanity, the sense, the prudence, the righteous and sure faculty which would most avail Zion when the influence of its founder was withdrawn

Spare, pale, ascetic, cool, intelligent, unaffected by dreams, resolute to ac complish the task immediately under his eye, Voliva is no conqueror to found communities, to convert the world, to gain riches in Mexico, and spiritual dominion in the islands of the sea. He could never invent the pageantry, the Hebraic ceremony, the oriental splendor. But he can and he will put the business of Zion upon a substantial footing. He can organize, he can eliminate waste, he can practice economy. In a word, he can transform a struggling, half bankrupt community into a thriving, prosperous, well to do American municipality.

Voliva is 36 years old. His hair is dark and piercing. His shallow cheek is the aesthetic's; his thin, close-set the matter in hand. lips are the disciplinarian's, not only of others, but of his own spirit. He only one: sometimes not at all. He Steamed Caramel Custard-One cupclothes himself in white tie, frock coat, low cut waistcoat. He never smiles, not because he is oppressed by his own dignity, but because he sees no occasion for mirth. He does not NEW GERMAN LEADER attempt to impress his visitor. Voliva is an American, a Hoosier who is so entirely an American that Prince Hohenlohe - Langenburg May he is ignorant of what is his racial

(Deputy General Overseer of Zion Who Has Repudiated the Authority of Elijah II.)

MAUVE DISCOVERED BY HIM

Scientific Men in England to Celebrate in Honor of Dr. W. H. Perkin.

London .- Among the romances of science few appeal more strongly to the imagination than the discovery, 50 years ago, by Dr. W. H. Perkin, when a youth of 18, which started the great coal tar industries that now absorb many millions of dollars of capital and afford a livelihood to thousands. Unlike many inventors who have made vast fortunes for others, Dr. Perkin reaped a substantial reward from his discovery. He is still living, hale and to be averted. The ousting of John hearty, happy and prosperous. He soon will celebrate his sixty-eighth of Wilbur Glenn Voliva in Zion City brithday anniversary. To commemorate the occasion and the jubilee of aniline dyes, he is to be presented with society, and a fund is to be established.

DR. W. H. PERKINS.

(He Discovered the Process of Making Dyes Fifty Years Ago.)

to be known as the Perkin research fund, for the promotion of chemical black. His eyes are deep set, shrewd, research. Many of the most famous scientific men in England have taken

Dr. Perkin's father was a builder and wished his son to be an architect eats but two meals a day, frequently but the lad wanted to go in for chemistry, and, fortunately, his father let him have his own way. When 15 years old he entered the Royal College of Chemistry, and made such rapid headway there that two years later he was appointed assistant tc Prof. Hoffman, who had charge of the college. One day the professor suggested to him that he should endeavor to produce quinine by artificial means He failed, but his experiments led him to treat sulphate of aniline, a product resulting from the distillation of coal tar, with yellow potash bichromate, and thus he obtained the dye stuff called mauve. For many years after its discovery mauve pervaded the ribbons of civilized womanhood, and under the names of lilac and heliotrope is still recognizable among the latest triumphs of the print works and the looms. It is still the favorite color of Queen Alexandra. But, its chief title to distinction is that it was the first of the long series of coal tar colors, more than 100 in number, and rivaling the hues of the rainbow which have utterly revolutionized the dyeing trade. Dr. Perkin patented his process, and with his father and brother established works near Harrow.

desired.

of milk, one slice of carrot, one slice strain at once. Chill and add a quar-

and pepper. Boil the milk with the lated sugar, a few grains of salt, one-double boiler 15 to 20 minutes. Milk should be but very slightly thickened; One quart of dried beans, two quarts the tendency is to have it over-cooked, and when chilled the dessert is unpalsalt and pepper to taste. Wash the atable because too stiff. Strain and add a few grains of salt and one-third teaspoonful of vanilla. Strain a second time into molds or egg cups previously dipped in cold water. Serve with sugar and cream. Sliced fruit makes an agreeable accompaniment, or garnish with a candied cherry and anglica.

Chocolate Irish Moss Blanc Mange -One-quarter cupful Irish moss, one and a half cupfuls of cold water, two cupfuls of milk, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla, a few grains of salt, threequarters of a square of Baker's chocolate, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of boiling water. Made same as Irish blanc mange. Melt chocolate over hot water, add sugar and gradually boiling water; then pour on slowly the strained mixture. Mold, chill and serve with sugar and cream. Steamed Custard-Yolks of two eggs, sugar and a few grains of salt; stir constantly while adding gradually one cupful of hot milk. Cook in double boiler, stirring until mixture thickens and a coating is formed on the spoon; ter teaspoonful of vanilla.

may see us home-he is a diplomat, can. high up in the confidence of President with which Miss Pauline Diaz." vanishes inside the hotel. Dora only lingers to say a few parting words to her Bob, and then she, too, flits up the his finger in a way that would beat stairway.

Left alone, the two gentlemen of yer. He manipulates the man just as course proceed to light cigars as consolation.

"I reckon we're left this time, Pick," remarks Bob, moodily, for the pletely at his mercy, and could gain prospect of music just beyond his reach makes him irritable.

You may be, but I don't intend that it shall fit my case," returns the other, coolly, while Bob removes his cigar and stares at his comrade blankly.

"Now what does he mean?" says the Sheriff of Secora county. "Why should it apply to me and not to Dick Denver?"

The other does not answer save by another question. He is evidently driving at something, and probably knows what he is about, which is more than Colonel Bob does.

"Cast your eyes over yonder-notice that fellow lounging there-what d'ye think of him, Bob?"

"Bless my soul! that's the driver of the vehicle Miss Westerly has engaged."

"Exactly-that is, he is the one who was to drive it. He has been succeeded."

"Eh! you don't mean, old man, that vou-" "I am competent to look after the festive steeds as well as the next man, since horse-taming was once my occupation," is the cool rejoinder.

"But the fellow may object." "Let him. Silver will buy him, body and soul, I should judge from his looks. In most of these houses, you know, the vehicle goes in through a large gate or door, to the court, and you are virtually inside the house. If harm is intended Miss Pauline, some one will be near to protect her." "And my charming Dora will call in vain upon her Bob to come to her assistance." says the man from New Mexico, in despair.

"They don't mean her harm. At any rate, you can hover by, and if there is a chance, make your presence felt." "I will, by the Eternal, I will! A!- low me to make a note of the ad- Pauline and Dora across the pavement dress, and you can bet your boots Bob to the carriage door, meaning to as-Harlan will be on deck when the sig- sist them in, but he is unceremoniously nal is given."

So Dick takes out the piece of naper and reads off the address which might hardly expect to discover in a Pauline marked thereon. While so doing his eves note some writing on the other side. He bends down and tires to his den muttering evil threats reads:

"I may be able to put you on the track of some one who owns certain shares of stock in your mine. At any rate, do come, and we will have music in plenty. Bring Dora-I remember well-such a vivacious creature. her "Your friend, worry about us. We will return be-fortable, no doubt. His nap is dis-turbed by the entrance of the Ameri-wanted to see him. "Hola!" he exclaims, rubbing his eves. Thereupon Dick Denvertakes him the eloquence of a Philadelphia lawing there.

ISA MORALES."

he pleases; first he excites his fears, and then plays upon his cupidity. Between the two he has the fellow comanything that it might be in the other's power to grant.

Thus an exchange is made: the Mexican gives up his hat and coat and receives in return others that suit him just as well, besides a handful of reals, with a Spanish doubloon or two thrown in, that would about buy his entire equipage, which, he is assured. will be returned to him without harm.

when the night's business is over. He then and there heats a masterly retreat, with more real wealth in his pockets than he has perhaps known for many a day. It matters nothing to such a fellow that he has sold himself twice in the same day; his conscience will scarcely trouble him, nor does he look far enough into the future to foresee any difficulty on account of double dealing.

Thus Dick is left in possession, and the first fruits of victory are his. He bears his honors meekly; at the same time chuckles at the thought that although he has received no invitation to the Morales house, he will have an opportunity of seeing what its interior looks like.

There are still nearly twenty minutes to wait, and this time Dick puts in with serious thoughts. He scrapes up his knowledge of the Mexican language, and, being a fair Spanis scholar, feels quite at home. If Miss Pauline should ask him a question, he wishes to be able to answer it like one to the manner born.

Ah! a clock strikes-is that eight? He comes out of his vehicle and is busily engaged in arranging things when a call from the door attracts his attention-it is a clerk of the hotel inquiring if the carriage is ready, as the American ladies are waiting.

"Si, senor," he replies, cheerily, whereupon the clerk escorts Miss jostled to one side by the driver, who does the honors with a grace one person of such humble life, while the baffled clerk grates his teeth and re-against Carlos, the wretch, who anticipated him in gallantry. Now the carriage door is closed, the bogus driver mounts to his box, and they are off. Whatever may be the result of the adventure. Dick can at least congratulate himself that thus far he has done nobly, and accom-lished all that was possible.

and flour together; remove the vege- sugar in a smooth saucepan, stir co

"'Is this John Abernathy?' asked another man, and when I said I was, he took me by the arm and led me into another room, where around a fine in hand and winds the fellow around table were seated a number of finelooking men. He told the men present my name and then he left me stand-

> "Looking around and seeing only one vacant chair, I sat in that. Then the door opened behind me and two powerful hands slapped me on the shoulder, and looking up I recognized President Rooseve't. He grabbed my hand in his and shook it like a brother. Then he laughed and said: "'John, you're getting up in the world-occupying the president's chair at a cabinet meeting."

"I started to spring out of that chair but the president just pushed me back into it and laughed. He then excused himself to the other men nd took me to another portion of the White House, where he introduced me to Mrs. Roosvelt.'

BEARS CHAMPAGNE SCARS.

The Workman in the Cellars of Rheims Is Exposed to Constant Danger.

The Frenchman's face was hacked and notched, says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Have you been a duelist?" one asked.

"No, no," the man replied. "I have been a champagne maker." He touched his face. "These honorable nicks," he said, "are champagne scars.

"Champagne scars," he went on, decorate the visages of all the workers in the underground champagne mills of Rheims. They are caused by the bursting of the bottles. About one bottle of champagne in every ten oursts.

"There are miles and miles of chamonly pagne caves in Rheims, caves cut in the solid limestone rock, where in a constant temperature of 45 degrees millions of bottles of wine refine and ripen.

"The workers down there smell nothing but champagne all day long. champagne escaping from burst bot tles. And as the turners move alon: the racks-each turns 35,000 bottles daily-they are continually saluted with explosions. Bang! And the glas. splinters fly and a little fountain o champagne perfumes the damp air.

"Day after day each bottle must be turned, turned 50 times altogether, til the sediment in it has all mounted u, and concentrated itself around the cork. Then the corkers remove the corks, let the sediment-thickened wine in the neck of the bottle blow off an. skillfully replace the cork again.

"The corkers' and turners' work is dangerous. These men are nearly all scarred like me."

tables from the milk, add the butter stantly over a hot fire until melted and and flour and stir constantly until it discolored, add milk to it and as soon yolks of the eggs and pepper and serve. Clam Soup .- Fifty clams, one pint of clams and put the liquor to boil; chop the clams fine; skim off the scum as it pepper, and simmer for a few minutes: add the butter and then the milk: make it hot, but don't let it boil; take from the fire, add the crackers and ful of vanilla and chill. serve at once .- N. Y. World.

FOR THE LITTLE ONE.

Menage May Be Built Up by Child's Fancy.

A blank book-some old magazines, a pair of scissors and a pot of mucilage will prove the open sesame to nursery joys on days that are too hot or too cold or too rainy to permit the little daughter of the house to seek her pleasures out of doors. The size of the blank book depends upon the height of the paper doll who is to be given a home witin its pages as walls. For the paper doll measuring bix cheting or otherwise evolving useful inches a scrapbook about 10x13 inches should be provided. In these days of magazine and newspaper articles with photographic ilustrations of the homes of celebrities, furniture is easily obtained in any industrious hands, were portieres; size. The different rooms should be made by cutting out the appropriate furniture and pasting it on the blank cades and velvets and silks, no longer pages. It is well to make the corners fit to do duty as gowns or wraps. of the room first, and fill in the center afterward, putting everything in place carpets made to leave as heirlooms for before pasting to see how it looks and their children, and to descend to pasting surface as smooth as possible, satin and silk pieces, cut from the and paste on one side of the page assortment of dinner and evening of a furniture advertisement a per- time yellowed and ruined them. fectly plain bureau; in perhaps another magazine she will find a brush into half-inch strips, the ends sewed and comb and pincushion and other together and the whole woven into articles; in a third she may find can- portieres or carpets that no money dles or electric lights to place at can buy. As such gowns are of abso each side. By this time her bureau lutely no use to the class of women is more than a bureau. All the rooms in the house may be seems a sensible fashion; soft, richly represented and furnished, each on its falling hangings and rugs are easier own page. its delights of scenery, and further on Globe-Democrat. the lady's doll's travels and stopping places, and thus the book becomes an education to the imagination. Familiar nursery tales could be illustrated in history from beginning to end-or stand his discourse, so strong is his original adventures be composed .-Chicago Tribune.

Improves Stove Polish. strive polish.

thickens; add the cheese and stir three as sugar is dissolved add gradually to minutes; take off and add beaten yolks of eggs slightly beaten, and salt. Cook the same as steamed custard. Steamed Coffee Custard-One cupful milk, one pint of water, two table- of milk scalded with one tablespoonful spoonfuls butter, one dozen water of ground coffee. Strain. Beat the crackers, pepper to taste. Drain the yolks of two eggs slightly, add one and a half tablespoonfuls of sugar, a few grains of salt. Stir constantly boils, then add the water, clams and while adding gradually the hot coffee milk. Cook in double boiler, stirring until mixture coats the spoon: strain at once, add a quarter teaspoon Baked Custard - Beat one egg slightly, add one and a half tablespoonfuls of sugar and a few grains of salt. Pour on gradually two-thirds Five Suggestions on the Way a Doll of a cupful of hot milk, strain into small buttered molds, sprinkle with nutmeg or a few grains of powdered cinnamon, set in pan of not water and bake in slow oven until firm.

FINE SILK-RAG CARPETS.

Use Silk and Violet "Scraps" to Make Up Into the Beautiful Woven Rugs and Portieres.

Not so many years back there was sensible fashion of knitting, crothings out of scraps that had formerly been pieced with many stitches into quilts and comfortables.

The most useful, as well as handsomest articles so manufactured by now there is a chance to go farther and make beautiful rugs of fine bro-Wealthy women are having "rag"

if it can be improved upon. Place the grand and great-grandchildren. book sideways in order to make the "rags" are rich, stiff brocades, velvet, gowns, heretofore packed into cedar-The child with resource will cut out lined chests and left in repose until

> Now these lovely fabrics are cut that cannot afford them new, this to care for, and never go out of style. Beyond the house is the garden and so the fad is commendable .- St. Louis

The Pope's Accent.

When the pope received the French bishops recently, they could not under Venetian accent. But it is the thing now in the Vatican to speak with a little of that accent. Venetian disher are in vogue, and in the houses of rich I always put laundry bluing in my Romans Venetian antiquities are made prominent.

stock. He has been heard to say that he fancies his peculiar name may be French, but he doesn't know The family life of Voliva has been was born, in 1870.

was a student at Miron college. While at college he met Miss Mollie there. In 1891, after his graduation, Princess Alexandra, daughter of the he married Miss Steele. He and his wife moved to Irvington, Ind., where they both entered Butler college to continue their studies. While there a child was born to them. Four years later they went to Hiram college, Ohio, to continue their studies. While they were there the child died

In 1900, Dr. Voliva became associated with Dowie's church. In February of that year, Ruth, the child shown in the picture, was born. A few months later he went to Cincinnati. where he remained six months, and in October, 1901, he went to Australia, after being ordained as an overseer. Dr. Voliva returned from Australia to take charge of affairs at Zion City a few weeks ago.

Tough Luck. Merchant (to applicant)-Yes, I ad-

Boy-At Blank's store.

prompt.

Merchant-That's queer. Promptness s an admirable trait. Boy-Yes, but the boss said I was oo prompt about goin' home evenings .- Chicago Daily News.

Same Old Story.

Mrs. Smith-Oh, dear, I'm completethe night with a toothache. Mrs. Jones-That's too bad. Did you go to the dentist this morning? "Oh, my, no! It was my husband's News.

They Never Meet.

"So you've been calling on Mr. Gayman's daughter for over a year. It's a wonder he has never asked you your intentions."

"Well, you see I never get to his house until after eight and I always leave before two in the morning."-Philadelphia Press.

Oh!

Miss Elder-I believe people are be ginning to call me an old maid. Miss Younger-Oh, no, dear! Miss Elder-Thank you, dear-I-Miss Younger-They began that ars ago .- Clevelan ! Leader.

Be Made Chancellor in Von Buelow's Place.

Berlin .- The advanced age of Count Von Buelow, chancellor of the German filled with romance. He received his empire, coupled with opposition in education in Newton, Ind., where he some quarters to his policy, makes it When only 16 certain that before long he will retire years old, he preached every Sunday from office, and it is probable that in a church at Linden, Ind., while he Prince Hohenlohe-Langenburg will be his successor. The latter was until a year ago regent of the Duchy of Saxe-Steele, daughter of a physician of Pal- Coburg and Gotha. He was born estine, Ind., who also was a student September 13, 1863, and 1896 married vertised for a boy. Where did you The Prince Home New Chancellor of the German Empire.)

Merchant-Why did you leave there? late Duke Alfred (Duke of Edinburgh) Boy-I got fired for being too of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, and niece of King Edward of England. In 1897 the prince was honored with the British decoration of Knight Grand Cross of the Bath. His full name and title are His Serene Highness Ernest William Frederic Charles Maxmilian, Hereditary Prince of Hohenlohe-Langenburg. The alleged diplomatic failure of Count von Buelow in the Moroccan conference and the miscarriage of y worn out! I was up more than half colonial affairs will, it is believed, lead to his retirement.

Largest Life Policy.

The most heavily insured man in the tooth that ached."-Chicago Dally world is probably Mr. L. Rodman Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, who carries $2 .-000.000 in the Mutual, in addition to insurance in other companies. Mr. Wanamaker first took out his insurance in the Mutual, amounting to $200,000, at the age of 34. At 36 he increased it by two additional policies of $100,000 and $500,-000. Five years later, at 41, he took two additional policies, one at $1,000,000 and the other of $200,000. This makes his total insurance in the company $2,000 -000, on which he pays a yearly premium of $63,226.-World's Work.

Suspend Judgment.

A Chicago woman chose a cell in a police station rather than go with her husband. We will have to suspend judgment until we see the husband .--

Chicago Journal.