Republican State Ticket.

A telegram from Editor Burleigh received at eleven o'clock this mornnations as follows: For U. S. Senator, Norris Brown of Buffalo county: Governor, Geo. L. Sheldon of Cass; while I don't quite understand the Lieut-Governor, Hopewell; Railroad Commissioners, Winnett, Conell and Williams; Sec. of State, Geo. Junkin of Gosper; Auditor, E. M. Searle; Treas., L. G. Brain of Boone; Attorney General, W. T. Thompson of Merrick; Land Commissioner, E. M. Eaton of Dodge; Supt., J. L. McBrien of Filmore."

Congreseman Kinkaid was re-nominated for the third term at Kearney Tuesday of this week.

A scientist says "if the earth was flattened the sea would be two miles deep all over the world," After due meditation a Kansas editor gives out the following: "If any man is caught flattening out the earth, shoot him on the spot. There is a whole lot of us in Kansas that can't swim," stand this tax matter now than when Gibson was holding his indignation meetings, and they will understand the better when they pay their 1906 tax. I don't quite understand why our populist friends did not take the self-designated SAVIOR of the people in when they had a chance to get him free of charge.

The Modern Dreyfus.

Last week, Mr. Gibson, the selfappointed and self-nominated Dreyfus, attempted to draw a parallel between that persecuted French Major and himself, but the following quotation iting F. A. Pinckney, returned home from Champ Clarke in his address on last week Monday. Aaron Burr would make it appear Mr. Fowler has a great piece of perusal of that checkered life—of so much glory and so much shame—with the settled conviction that there was but one thing needful to have made him one of the most resplendent figures in American history—a moral sense. Of that he was as destitute as the beasts which perish. And for this fatal deficiency nothing can compensate—neither brilliant talents nor lofty eloquence, nor protound learning, nor leoning courage, nor winsome perusal of that checkered life—of so Get your postal cards and paper ing, not leaning courage, nor winsome manners, nor sparkling wit, nor handsome presence, nor amiable qualities, nor renowned ancestry. With all these—good within themselves and universally coveted by the children of there being from two to five ears on men—Aaron Burr was lavishly endowed by Nature in her most prodigal of moods; but she withheld from him of moods; but she withheld from him the most precious of her gifts—a pread honest heart. On the contrary, she placed in fils because it may things and desperately wicked," or as the law books say, "regardless of social duty and fatally bent on mischief." That he did many things which were right there can be no cavil; but after reading all the biographies ever written of him and all that history has to tell, it do not believe that he ever did anything because it was right or left anything undone because it was wrong. To fill a long-felt want, the lawyers have invented the phrase "moral insanity;" the incurable defect in Burr's make-up was "moral idiocy" trees along the road. If they realized the search, that is to say he was "trees along the road. If they realized trees along the road. in Burr's make-up was "moral idiocy" so to speak; that is to say he was constitutionally and utterly void of moral principle and windly incapable of discerning or appreciating it in others. Morally, he was totally color.

Far better for him and those who loved him had he died while President of the most august body on earth before the evil days came which linked his name indissolubly with Judas Iscariot and Benedict Arnold."

Loup City, Neh., Aug. 21, 1996, fiditor Northwesters: In your comments on the petition filed with the state board of equalization, in the issue of your paper of two weeks ago, you call for a further explanation of the high rate of taxation for the years 1904-5, and suggest that C.
