It will be two or three weeks yet before E. S. Hayhurst will be able to move into his big ware-room. The building will be one of the most rooms in central Nebraska, all on one floor, the space being 50x100 feet. The building is of brick, the ceiling of galvanized iron and will be practically fire-proof. Mr. Hayhurst may well be proud of his new store-room, as the people of Loup City assuredly are.

Bert Severson, who was convalescing from a sick spell, went over to Ord last week, and later symptoms of typhoid fever showing, Mrs. Severson and baby were sent for and are with him now. Mr. and Mrs. John Mason came over from Ord Saturday after Mrs. Severson, bringing her sister to stay in the restaurant for the present. Mr. Fellows and Mrs. Ledington, father and sister of Mrs. Severson, who have been visiting here for some time, returned home to Ord with her.

Wedding Bells.

Last evening at the St. Elmo hotel, before a small company, for the most part intimate young friends of the contracting parties, occurred the nuptials of Miss Zula Maude Lundy, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lundy of the St. Elmo, and Mr. Harry A. Hinman, formerly of St. Edwards, Neb., but now of this city. The ceremony was performed in the northeast corner of the parlor, Mrs. R. P. Starr presiding at the piano, with Rev. L. C. McEwen of the Presbyterian society, of this city, in a short but beautiful ceremonial, pronouncing the words that made the happy couple one for life. At the close of the ceremony and after congratulations had been showered upon the newly-made husband and wife, small tables were spread in the parlor and dainty refreshments were served the assembled guests, followed by an hour or more of music and conversation, when the guests departed for their several homes, leaving with the bride and groom best wishes for a long and happy life. The remembrances from friends and relatives at a distance, and from those present, were many, elegant and costly, and gave evidence of the esteem in which the contracting parties are held by those who know them best. We understand Mr. and Mrs. Hinman will make Loup City their home for the present, and will not indulge in a bridal tour, at least not for a season. THE NORTHWESTERN speaks for them much joy and happiness. Those present, outside the immediate members of the bride's family, were: Mrs. A. D. Hinman, Miss Hinman and Miss Edna Hinman, mother and sisters of the groom; Rev. L. C. McEwen, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Burleigh, Mrs. R. P. Starr, Misses Sadie Swanson, Ella Taylor and Gladys O'Bryan, and Messrs. C. C. Carlson, A. F. Elsner, M. L. Miller, John O'Bryan and Joe Thompson.

At the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning the pastor will speak on "Life's Hidden Force." The anthem "Jesus Came the Heavens Adoring," by Shepherd, will be rendered by the choir. "The Talk of the Town," is the topic announced for the evening service at 7:30. The special music will consist of the anthem, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," by Dyke, and the solo, "Gethsemane," by Barri, will be sung by Miss Beth Zimmerman.

Best of the Bunch.

After being actively in the Methodist Episcopal ministry since September, 1874, a period of 32 years, at which time he joined the Des Moines conference at Indianola, Iowa, the editor's oldest brother, Rev. C. H. Burleigh, last week took a supernumerary relation from the Northwest Nebraska conference and will engage in secular affairs, probably going into the newspaper business. He is a better printer and abler editorial writer than any other Burleigh boy and wherever he locates the people may be assured of excellence in all lines. He was secretary of his conference for 15 consecutive years and will not be free from conference work until he gets out the edition of the minutes. Rev. Burleigh was pastor of the Tingley charge in 1875.—Tingley (Ia.) Vindicator.

Sherman County All Right.

Lincoln News: Attorney Howard J. Whitmore has recently returned from a visit to Sherman county and was greatly impressed with the great prosperity of the farmers, business men and other classes.

"Litchfield is in Sherman county and I was amazed at the rapid advancement of this place," said Mr. Whitmore. It contains much less than a thousand inhabitants, yet there is tremendous activity in the building line—new modern business blocks and residences going up fast. The banks are full of money. At Litchfield the bank carried over $80,000 of deposits much of it belonging to the farmers. I was told by a banker that farmers held a great deal of gilt edged paper on which they had loaned their surplus money. The soil of Sherman county is rich and deep. I never saw finer corn. I was told that there was plenty of corn that would go sixty bushels and over to the acre. Cattle and hogs were to be seen on every farm. Some of the finest cattle and hogs I have ever seen were in the pastures and meadows. Great fields of alfalfa were seen. Few farmers in the county there are who do not raise sizable crops of alfalfa. Sherman county is rather broken, there are many high places within its borders, yet the soil on the highest points was capable of yielding big crops. Much of the upland is used for pasture. While a few sod houses are yet to be seen, they are fast disappearing. Farmers are erecting good substantial houses and outbuildings and the improvement is very marked over the county. The farmers come to town driving fine teams and riding in first-class vehicles. There is much fine stock of all descriptions in Sherman county. In the towns that I visited I was surprised to see several business blocks and dwellings erected of artificial stone. In Litchfield, artificial stone pavements are supplanting board walks very fast. Land in Sherman county is growing more valuable rapidly. Improved land sells as high as fifty dollars an acre. The poorest and most unimproved does not sell for less than $15 an acre."
