DEATH FROM POISONING

Gus Shultz, a Farmer of Bristol Township the Victim.
About 9 o'clock Wednesday morning Dr. Main, coroner of this county, received a message from Rockville that Gus Shultz, living in Bristol township, about four miles southwest of Rockville, had died suddenly and the circumstances were such that his presence was needed. Accompanied by Sheriff Williams, Dr. Main drove immediately to the home of deceased, where he summoned a jury and found the following facts: Gus Shultz had purchased a keg of salt herring and on Monday night had prepared some of the fish for supper, by simply pouring hot water over the same and serving. The family ate a portion and set some of it away for a future meal. At noon on the Tuesday following Mr. Shultz ate a small portion of the fish remaining, but refused the rest, saying it was spoiled. He then ordered one of the boys to hitch up his team, that he was going to town, and at the same time carried a bucket of slop to the yard when he was taken suddenly ill with severe cramps, which grew rapidly worse and inside of an hour and a half, or by two o'clock was dead. The jury, composed of Thos. Lay, A. B. Fletcher, Geo. W. Woten, Frank Moritz, H. F. Tangerman and Oscar Wickstrom having all the facts before them by three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, failed to bring in a verdict till seven o'clock this morning, owing to certain facts placed before them by witnesses leading to suspicion of his death by suicide rather than by accident, but at the hour named brought in a verdict that Gus Shultz had come to his death from ptomaine poisoning, caused by eating salt fish. So questionable in their minds was the cause of the man's death, that the inquiry was continued to Rockville and lasted the many hours mentioned. According to the evidence, Shultz had previously threatened suicide on account of family troubles. Deceased left a family of wife and eight children.

Wedding Bells.

Last Wednesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Gee of Webster township, occurred a very pretty wedding when their daughter, Lela A. and Romeo S. Conger were united in marriage. At 9:30 the young couple, attended by Miss Hilga Falk as bridesmaid, and Arthur Conger as best man, took their places beneath a canopy of green and white, when Rev. G. H. Wise of the M. E. church performed the ceremony that made them one. The bride was daintily attired in cream silk mull and orange blossoms, with the groom wore the conventional black. Immediately after the ceremony a bounteous wedding supper was served to about forty guests. These young people are well and favorably known, having been reared among us and they have a host of friends, including the Northwestern, who wish for them a long and happy life.

Dedicatory Services.

The new Presbyterian church which was dedicated last Sunday morning, is one of the most modern and artistically arranged church buildings of the state and would do credit to any city. The audience room is forty feet square with an alcove, 12x18ft, for the choir. To the left of the auditorium is a large lecture room, connected by flexible rolling doors, and to the rear of the lecture room is a parlor or class-room connecting with the lecture room by folding doors, thus making it possible to throw almost the entire building into one room, when it has a seating capacity of six hundred persons. Back of the rostrum, which forms a half circle, half of which is in the auditorium and half in the lecture room is the pastor's study opening directly on to the platform. The main entrance is through the vestibule on the southwest corner. Other entrances are on the west through a hall which opens into the auditorium on the east, and the lecture room on the south, and the parlor on the north. The southeast entrance leads down to the basement and up to the choir loft, and the northeast entrance is to the pastor's study. The ceiling of the building is finished in steel and the walls tinted pale green with maroon trimmings. A magnificent sixteen-light chandelier occupies the center of the auditorium and floods the room with light. The pews are circular with quarter-sawn oak ends, and high backs and in point of comfort will materially add to the pleasure of church going in Loup City.

The windows are of cathedral and gothic glass and are most artistic, the colors blending beautifully and shedding soft light which is most restful to the eye. The large window on the south has for a center-piece a large painting of the Good Shepherd, which is a magnificent work of art. The large two-manual pedal pipe organ is a good substitute for the genuine pipe organ and adds materially to the sweetness, variety and volume of the tones produced.

Notwithstanding the disagreeable weather, the dedicatory services last Sunday morning were well attended, the edifice being comfortably filled, and all indications pointed to the fact that had the day been propitious the building could not possibly have held nearly all who wished to attend, as reports from the country were to the effect that goodly representations would have been present from various parts of the county. As the hour approached for the services, Miss Ernie Odendahl took her place at the grand organ and gave a beautiful voluntary, followed by the old familiar doxology, this followed by the metrical hymn by Pastor West, of the Methodist church and an invocation by Pastor Wold of the Baptist church, and then after an anthem came the sermon by Rev. Dr. Thos. L. Sexton of Lincoln, a deep, earnest, thoughtfully worded gospel talk. At the close of the sermon, the audience was treated to a beautiful solo by Mr. B. P. McKimmie, after which the church debt of $1,856 was lifted in the short time of 25 minutes, leaving the beautiful temple of God free of incumbrance, and causing the people to rejoice over so successful an ending of what was in reality a great load upon the shoulders of the little band of Christians. From the inception of this splendid addition to the religious interests of Loup City, each succeeding step to the present has been one of unexampled success, and to the pastor and his membership only the greatest happiness can be felt. It is less than a year now since the Presbyterian congregation was formulated in our city, and it was on the 20th day of last March that the congregation unanimously called Rev. L. C. McEwen from Fonda, Iowa, to the pastorate, and the unexampled prosperity attending the church is not only a matter of congratulation to pastor and society, but to our people as a whole community. Since the coming of Pastor McEwen, some 20 members have been added to the church and property valued at almost $10,000 has been accumulated. The church is well organized, has a young man for pastor who is one of the most earnest men of God as well as talented ministers, has for church officers among the best of Loup City's business men, a splendidly equipped choir, a membership among our best people, and starts out with all things favorable for a long career of usefulness. We wish them God-speed.

Married, at the Presbyterian manse, at 10:30 o'clock, Wednesday morning, Oct. 24, 1906, Rev. L. C. McEwen officiating, Mr. A. J. Bills and Miss Barbara Prettyman, both of Comstock, Neb.

That at said election in the year 1906, on the ballot of each elector voting thereat, there shall be printed or written the words: "For and against the amendment with reference to State Railway Commission," and "Against Constitutional Amendment, With Reference to State Railway Commission." And if a majority of all votes cast at said election, shall be for such amendment, the same shall be deemed to be adopted.
I, A. Galusha, secretary of state of the state of Nebraska, do hereby certify that the foregoing proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Nebraska is a true and correct copy of the original enrolled and engrossed bill, as passed by the Twenty-fifth session of the legislature of the State of Nebraska, as appears from said original bill on file in this office and that said proposed amendment is submitted to the qualified voters of the state of Nebraska for their adoption or rejection at the general election to be held on Tuesday, the 6th day of November, A.
