

Something New!

The FIRST NATIONAL BANK of Loup City hereby gives notice that they have purchased one of the world famous "TISCO" Manganese Steel Safes, recently tested at Canton, Ohio, in the presence of one of their officers by experts cunning in the art of Burglary.

Also, that they have ordered a new system of SAFE DEPOSIT BOXES to be placed in their strictly fire proof vaults as soon as received from the factory.

Further notice will be published in this space within a few weeks that this new equipment has arrived and we then promise to show our friends and the public one of the best protected banks in the state of Nebraska.

Yours respectfully,

L. HANSEN, Cashier.

Adamless Wedding

On the eve of Halloween at the Minshall home in this city, occurred the marriage of Miss E. W. White to Mr. O. U. Imp, in the presence of a number of intimate young lady friends. Descending at the sign Jack-o-lantern, the guests were received in the basement to await the hour of the ceremony, when they were ushered into the parlor. At 8:30 to the strains of the wedding march, the bridal party in wicker costumes entered the room and the contracting parties were made "one" according to the rites of the witches and the imps. After congratulations the guests were seated at a table most beautifully decorated with Jack-o-lanterns, witches, etc., and a three-course luncheon served. Entertainment appropriate for the occasion was furnished, and methinks if Halloween prophesies come true, Loup City will have more weddings in the near future than ever in its history. Student's Narrow Escape
Erwin Leach, of Arcadia, a student of the Lincoln Business college, narrowly escaped a terrible death when struck by a car at 13th and O streets Thursday. He was dragged for fifteen feet under the fender and emerged from the catastrophe without serious injury. His clothes were badly torn and damaged. Leach was hurrying across O street with a crowd of students. Apparently he did not see the car approaching until he had started across the tracks. He then attempted to step back, but his feet slipped and he fell directly in front of the fender. He made a grab at the side of the fender but missed it and was dragged under. The motor-man applied the brakes and reversed the motor, but the car slid along for twenty feet before it could be stopped. The boy was rolled under the car for fifteen feet and was then pushed out on the opposite side of the track. The front trucks of the car carried him ahead and kept him from being thrown under the wheels. Leach jumped up immediately and started to walk, his clothes were badly torn and damaged. He was then pushed back to the car by the conductor who took his name and looked him over to see if he was hurt. The boy refused an examination by Dr. A. E. Carr, who happened to see the accident. Motor-man E. B. Jackson said the street was unusually crowded at the time and while trying to watch both sides of the street at once he did not notice the boy until he had fallen in front of the car. Leach's room mate, Max Wall, said he did not see the boy fall under the fender, as he had crossed the track ahead of the others. Leach, he said, was in the habit of standing in front of street cars until they had almost touched him and then stepping off the track. Dr. Carr took the boy to his room where he examined him. The doctor said that Leach showed every sign of a great shock, but that otherwise his injuries were not serious.—Lincoln Daily Star.
