Borrowed and Stolen

The Fremont Tribune is running a daily feature entitled "Farm Notes Not written for Farmers" By H. L. Rann whose writings are humorous and witty as well as refreshingly new in style. Following is an item from his column: The alleged milked spring chicken is a bigger joke than the civil service laws. The man who attempts to bring up his chickens on the bottle will need more rubber tubing than a fountain syringe and as many points of contact as a mechanical milker. While it is true that a diet of lobbed milk has steered many a pulping pullet safely through the teething period, its use is not to be recommended as it is liable to introduce licecoughs into the henery. Stick to the good old bill of fare of sharp sand and ground glass.

The Fremont Commercial Club has issued a neat and attractive little booklet telling all about its commercial and industrial activities and the leading firms so engaged. The Grand Island Independent finds fault with their claim to being the third in Nebraska in business and shows that G. I. has Fremont beat at several turns of the road.

The Custer County Fair is on at Broken Bow this week, with a big list of attractions headed by an aviator. In a year or so more at the present rate the milk or vegetable man will make his rounds in a machine and we will be hunting for a new thriller.

Superior won the pennant in the Nebraska state league and talk about a slugging match. In the closing game they batted three home runs, four three-base-hits and a few twos. The town celebrated the victory with bon fires and things.

The crowds at the Nebraska State Fair this year broke all records and it must not be forgotten that a former Loup City man is responsible for the high merit of the attractions offered. Yes its W. R. Mellor we are hitting at.

The congregation of the Rev. Dr. Lambert, the minister who performed the Astor-Force marriage ceremony are all fussed up over the matter and want to oust him. And the fee was $5000—who could blame him?

Jack Curley, Hackenete's manager, received more than twice the money the money that Hackenete did from the gate receipts of the recent match. Pretty good to make on a looser.

Aviator Power left San Francisco Monday on his proposed trans-continental trip in a wright biplane.
