DEATH FROM LOCKJAW

Perry Vanscoy, Formerly a Bristol Township Farmer, Dies From Injuries Received by a Fall from a Haymow

Perry Vanscoy, who for many years was a well-known Bristol township farmer, living a few miles northeast of Ravenna, died at his home in North Loup, Neb., Saturday morning, at 6 a. m., Oct. 21st 1911, and was buried in the North Loup cemetery last Sunday.

Mr. Vanscoy and family have been living at North Loup during the past summer. He made frequent visits to his farm in Sherman county, and on the occasion of his last visit, a little more than three weeks ago, he fell from the hay mow of his barn through a hole in the floor, alighting head foremost in one of the mangers below. He was alone at the time, but he got out of the manger, and spent the night alone, not thinking that he was seriously injured. The next day he went to the home of his neighbor, and afterwards to the home of his son-in-law, Rudolph Schmaljohn, where he spent a couple of weeks. He did not improve and finally went to his home at North Loup, where he died a week later. He died of lock jaw.

The funeral, which was held on Sunday, was attended by his brothers J. L. Isajah and Wm. Vanscoy.

The deceased leaves a wife and three daughters, two of whom are married, the youngest daughter being about twelve years of age.—Ravenna News.

Gard from Prof. Currier

Rockville, Neb., Oct. 21, 1911.

To the Voters of Sherman County: As I cannot leave my school duties at Rockville to see each of you personally, I wish to make you just a short talk through the columns of this paper.

Although I made an extensive canvass before the primary, there is a large number of voters that I have not had the pleasure of meeting. I would like very much to meet all of the voters of the county, but my school duties require all of my time and attention, and as I will be in school work here until the first of the year, I will have no time for driving.

I desire to thank those who, without regard to political affiliation, spoke kindly of me before the primary and urged my nomination.

I wish to repeat a few of the statements that I made before the primary in regard to my qualifications for the office of county superintendent.

I completed the high school course at Sioux Falls, S. Dak. I received my normal school education at Madison State Normal, Madison, So. Dak. and at the Nebraska State Normal at Wayne, of which school I am a graduate.

I have had several years' experience as teacher in the country schools. I taught as principle of the Litchfield Schools one year, as principle at Ashton two years, and principle of the Rockville schools three years and I also taught as principle of schools in Iowa and South Dakota before coming to Nebraska.

Having taught in both country and graded schools, and I am in a position to judge of and also to be in sympathy with both graded and rural teacher.

I am married and have four children and am thus better enabled to study childhood, and to work for its development into useful citizenship.

It also enables me to see the situation from a parent's standpoint. The office of county superintendent is one of the most important among county offices, and one to which one is qualified only by actual experience.

One significant circumstance is the fact that I received the strongest support from the people among whom I have been working, as shown by the votes in the primary election.

Thanking you in advance for any assistance you may render, and assuring you if elected I shall do my best for the children of the county and for the upbuilding of our entire educational system. I am

Very respectfully,
L. H. CURRIER.

Careful Men; those who have made a financial success of their business, will tell you they started an account with their town bank when they were just boys. Some of their companions took no interest in "a bank account" and today amount to practically nothing. Young men, if you expect to become successful business men, save part of your earnings and lay them away in a strong bank and you will have made an excellent start for a bright future. Come in and get acquainted with us.
