DEATH FOR CHINCHBUGS.

University Experts Ready to Fight the Pest.

The Kearney Hub says that a grain dealer of that town had an exhibition at his office a few days ago half a dozen boxes of chinchbug virus just received and obtained direct from the agricultural experiment station of the Nebraska university. The virus, or "infection" as it is called by Prof. Lawrence Bruner, will be used by a Buffalo county farmer to head off a threatened invasion of chinchbugs in his grain fields. The bugs have been abroad this spring in large numbers, but continued rains and cool weather have prevented them from doing any mischief, and it has been thought that the present early breed might die off before warmer and drier weather came. That is, however, a risky hope, and as it costs nothing more than the trouble for any farmer to secure the chinchbug virus and inoculate all the bugs in his immediate locality, there is no reason why he should take any chances or wait to have his grain attacked before doing anything.

Prof. Bruner states that every person sending for the "infection" must send some live bugs from the field in order that the supply of infected bugs can be kept up. Directions are to put the bugs in a tin box, a baking powder can will do, without soil, and with a supply of green wheat and corn. The box must have a tight fitting cover and no holes need be made. The bugs don't require air.

On receipt of a box of bugs from the experiment station a shallow box 18x24x6 inches should be provided, with tight joints and a lid. Spread half an inch of loose moist dirt on the bottom. Sprinkle whole inside of box with water and put in enough green wheat or corn to cover the bottom. Put into the box thus prepared the infected bugs, whether dead or alive scatter them over the bottom, then put in the box with them a large quantity of live bugs from the field, a pint not being too many for a box of this size.

After the bugs have remained in the box two days remove half of them, alive and dead, and scatter them over that part of the field where the bugs are the thickest, at the same time replenishing the infection box with more bugs from the field. Continue to scatter bugs from the infection box over the field at intervals of two days until it is seen that the bugs are dying rapidly all over the field. Keep the box moist by repeated sprinkling and change the green food as often as it loses its freshness. Prof. Bruner further says:

Careful attention to the directions will often insure success where carelessness of the infection would fail. Make daily notes on the appearance of the bugs in the infection box and in the field, and of the weather while the field infection is in progress. Note carefully the chinchbug conditions in neighboring fields. Keep a list of farmers who get infected bugs from your farm. These notes may be of much value in our future dealings with this insect. Save a quantity of fungus covered and non-fungus covered dead bugs in a tin box for use the following year. Put the infection box away for future use. Should the first lot of infected bugs from the station seem to fail in their purpose, send without delay for a new supply. There is but little use in trying to do anything with the infection until the outdoor temperature reaches 70 degrees Fahrenheit.—St. Paul Rep.

An unregenerate foot-pad undertook to swipe our governor the other night and got left. Foot-pads should remember that Governor Savage came from Sargent, and that Sargent is just 40 miles N. W. from Loup City, therefore they must expect to find him loaded.

The New Jersey anarchists claim that Bresci, the fellow that assassinated King Humbert of Italy last July, was murdered by the guards in attendance last week and have cabied a warning of vengeance to that country. They seem to consider the murder of the King all right, but to have the compliment returned upon the head of the assassin is all wrong.

LETTER FROM THE PENNSACOLA TRAINING SHIP.

San Francisco, Cal. May 24, '01.

Dear Mother, Father, sisters and brother: I received your kind letter which found me comparatively well and hope this may find you all in good health. Charley Cramer has been under the weather some, his kidneys are bothering him but he is getting along all right. "Bid" is pretty well, he and I have charge of the school room. I received the paper and was glad to get the news from home. We have four hours school. First thing in the morning the bugle calls us, we get up wash our hammocks, go down and take a bath then we go and get our breakfast. After breakfast we work till 9 o'clock then we drill two hours with five minute rest between each hour. At 11 o'clock we rest until noon, then we get our dinner. After dinner we have some sham fighting. At one o'clock we drill again until four, part of the time we have top-sail drill, wig-wagging, mast furling, school, compass, gunnery, military, and learn how to tie different knots, well we have everything. We were over to see the Ohio launched, say she's a daisy. We fired 250 shots with a one pounder in one minute. We will have a big ball game here Saturday between the boys from the Iowa and the Pensacola. We don't have anything to do on Wednesdays and Saturdays. The Alert left here yesterday with 130 boys on a cruise—so we will have a better time. Some fellow stole my cotton neckerchief last night. There will be 98 more boys here from Minneapolis, soon. We are learning to row also. We row four miles each day, that is lots of fun but pretty hard work. I have joined the Naval temperance league and have a nice badge, will send you one if I can get it. I cannot answer all of the letters I get, I do not have time. The chaplain has got my cuff buttons and watch for me. I will get some pictures taken soon and send you. The Pensacola will soon be taken away for repairs. One of the boys lost his voice being affected they say by climbing masts. It costs $125 a meal to feed all that are here, we get fruit three times a week, oranges. On Sunday we get fruit and chicken. I scrub my clothes three times a week. I am going to work hard for the next cruise which will come in about 6 months. One of the boys got a useless discharge Tuesday after being here 20 months. He got $150 pay, he had been in the brig for 15 days on bread and water. We had church Sunday. A number of people were over from 'Frisco.' The band comes over and plays every day, that makes me feel good. There is a whistle in 'Frisco' that plays naval music every day, it is grand. We have fire drill every week. We will get our dingy boxes pretty soon and then we can keep our clothing in better shape. Well I must close for this time. Good by to all.

It is claimed that the United States is far in advance of the world in explosives, which would give them a decided advantage in case of war. The composition of the new Maxite is a guarded government secret.

The invitation extended by Cozad to the association to hold their next meeting there in May, 1902 was accepted.

The closing service formed a fitting crown to a series of meetings that will be memorable for years to come.

A Very Remarkable Remedy.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "A lady customer, seeing the remedy exposed for sale on my show case, said to me: 'I really believe that medicine saved my life the past summer while at the shore,' and she became so enthusiastic over its merits that I at once made up my mind to recommend it in the future. Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smilingly informing me that he felt as well as ever." Sold by—Oden Dahl Bros.
