

A PASTOR WHO WAS BEFRIENDED BY AN EMPEROR SAVED BY PE-RU-NA.

REV. H. STUBENVOLL

Rev. H. Stubenvoll, of Elkhorn, Wis., is pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran St. John's Church of that place. Rev. Stubenvoll is the possessor of two bibles presented to him by Emperor William of Germany. Upon the fly leaf of one of the bibles the Emperor has written in his own handwriting a text. This honored pastor, in a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, says concerning their famous catarrh remedy, Peruna:

Gentlemen: "I had hemorrhages of the lungs for a long time, and all despaired of me. I took Peruna and was cured. It gave me strength and courage, and made healthy, pure blood. It increased my weight, gave me a healthy color, and I feel well. It is the best medicine in the world. If everyone kept Peruna in the house it would save many from death every year."—H. STUBENVOLL.

Thousands of people have catarrh who would be surprised to know it, because it has been called some other name than catarrh. The fact is catarrh is catarrh wherever located; and another fact which is of equally great importance, is that Peruna cures catarrh wherever located.

IN GUERRILLA DAYS

JOHN S. MOSBY TELLS OF SOME OF HIS EXPLOITS.

Was Often Near Washington During the Fighting of the Civil War—How He Sent a Lock of Hair to President Lincoln.

John S. Mosby, well known as the commander of a guerrilla band in the service of the Confederacy during the war of the States, who is now a special employe of the Department of the Interior, showed a willingness to talk about his war-time experience to a reporter a day or two ago. The latter inquired into the truth of a story that he had entered Alexandria in disguise and had engaged in some dare-devil trick.

"Oh, that story is all nonsense," said Col. Mosby, "I never went to a place in disguise in my life. These stories arose because of the rapid movements of my command. Why, there is an official telegram on file in the War Department stating that I was in Washington in conference with Wilkes Booth the night of the killing of President Lincoln. It is needless to say that the statement was known to be false by most of the Federal generals.

"Yes, I frequently got close to Washington during the war. Many a time I would ride up to the hill up yonder across the Potomac and look down upon the city. I might have one or two men with me, and we would soon disappear. Just over on the Virginia side early one morning I met a Mrs. Barlow on her way into Washington with a wogan full of vegetables. Her husband was a Federal soldier and she was a Northern woman. She had a pass to go in and out of Washington and drove into the city often from her farm. I used to go to her house often and get a cup of good coffee. Of course, she gave it to us, knowing that we rather had charge of things all along that side of the river. Well, on this particular morning Mrs. Barlow had a pair of scissors hanging from her apron. After I had talked with her awhile I said:

"Mrs. Barlow, lend me your scissors." "She handed them to me, and I reached up to my head, got hold of a bunch of hair, cut it off and said: 'Mrs. Barlow, please take this lock of hair right into Lincoln, and say to him that I am coming in to see him soon, and will expect a lock of his hair in return. She looked much puzzled, but she said she would do it.

"I found out afterward that she rode straight to the White House and gave the hair to the President personally, refusing to give it to any one else. The President was amused and laughed heartily. No, I was not afraid to do this, because I knew that by the time the President could attempt to catch me, I would be thirty miles away. President Lincoln never made an attempt to catch me, because he knew that I would be somewhere else when his men arrived. Many people took information of me into Washington for the purpose of trying to bring about my capture.

"I covered the entire south side of the Potomac for many miles each way, and the largest number of men I had was in 1864, when Sheridan was in the Shenandoah valley, was five troops of cavalry, a total of 250 men. With that command we captured all the arms we needed, all the ammunition, food and clothing, and had a wagon train running to Lee's army frequently with supplies we had captured. No, I was never a general. I was a private in the First Virginia Cavalry for the first two years of the war, and began raising my command after that time, beginning with one troop of cavalry. Each man was armed with two pistols and a sabre. We had no carbines."

A Higher Position.

A Scotchman had reached the summit of his ambitions, in attaining to the magisterial bench. The honor seemed to be a great one, and he tried to live up to it.

With his head high in the air he swaggered along till he went bolt up against a cow which had not the manners to get out of the way, but continued to browse by the roadside in mild unconcern.

"Mon," cried the indignant owner, "mind my cow!" "Woman," he replied, with fine dignity, "I'm no longer a mon. I'm a bailie."

Jokers in Debt to Sydney Smith.

When the celebrated physician Sir Henry Holland told Sydney Smith that he had failed to kill either one of a brace of pheasants that had risen within easy range near the latter's home, the witty divine asked: "Why did you not prescribe for them?" One day Sir Henry was engaged in a ho argument with "Bobus" Smith, a bar rister, concerning the merits of their respective professions. "You will admit," said Sir Henry, "that your profession does not make angels of men." "No," retorted Smith, "there you have the best of it."

Satisfaction.

Admiral Sir William Kennedy of the British navy tells a story of a boatswain who, when he left the navy paid a boy sixpence a week to wake him every morning at 4 o'clock. "What did you do that for?" asked Sir William. "Well, sir," said the boat swain, "it's for a bit of satisfaction. I gets the boy to tell me 'The captain wants you,' and I say: 'Go and tel the captain to be d—'"

It Never Feared Her.

When Professor Adolf von Menzel is at Kissingen in the summer for his annual "cure," says the London Telegraph, he is bound to have his nerves agitated by the vagaries of some of the other sex. The famous painter cannot tolerate women, yet many of them do not know it. On the other hand, he is very fond of music. He is always in the "Kur" garden when the band plays, and one day, while listening to the strains of his favorite march, a couple of ladies in his neighborhood upset his equanimity by a loud talking. "I wish those geese would not cackle so loud," remarked Menzel to his friend, who was sitting at the opposite side of the table, whereupon one of the geese seized the opportunity for introducing herself, and, stepping up to him, said in a tone that showed she was not in the least offended: "Might I ask you to give me that in writing?"

Napkins.

Napkins became popular in France sooner than in England. At one time it was customary at great French dinners to change the napkins at every course, to perfume them with rose-water and to have them folded a differ- way for each guest.

SYRUP OF FIGS

Acts Gently;
Acts Pleasantly;
Acts Beneficially;
Acts truly as a Laxative.

Syrup of Figs appeals to the cultured and the well-informed and to the healthy, because its component parts are simple and wholesome and because it acts without disturbing the natural functions, as it is wholly free from every objectionable quality or substance. In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal virtues of Syrup of Figs are obtained from an excellent combination of plants known to be medicinally laxative and to act most beneficially.

WHEN YOUR GROCER SAYS he does not have DeLancey Starch, you may be sure he is afraid to keep it until his stock of 12 oz. packages are sold. DeLancey Starch is not only better than any other Cold Water Starch, but contains 16 oz. to the package and tells for same money as 12 oz. brands.

After counting the cash on hand the receiver of a New Jersey salt company came to the conclusion that he had been preceded by an evaporator.

WHY IT IS THE BEST is because made by an entirely different process. DeLancey Starch is unlike any other, better and one-third more for 10 cents.

No Evidence of Rotation Here. Of the 350 and odd members of the present national house, 283 have renominated and are running for re-election. This does not indicate the existence of any pronounced disposition on the part of the people to apply the rotation principle.

Hundreds of dealers say the extra quantity and superior quality of DeLancey Starch is fast taking place of all other brands. Others say they cannot sell any other starch.

It is always better to concede something than to insist on a demand that is both just and merciless.

He Started Penny Journalism.

The originator of halfpenny journalism in Paris, M. Marinoni, who has just retired owing to old age, has had a most picturesque career. In his young days he was a printer with no money, but... It was with the intention of proving what a novel printing press of his could do rather than of becoming a newspaper proprietor that he started the Petit Journal, the first son paper ever published in Paris. The Petit Journal, however, prospered beyond all expectations and its circulation soon exceeded 1,000,000 copies a day.

$100 Reward $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Chop-Suey Becoming Popular.

Chop-suey, the national Chinese dish, is growing in popularity in this country. Over sixty Chinese and some American restaurants in New York serve it. The "base," so to speak, is of pork and chicken livers and gizzards, Celery, mushrooms, green peas, chopped string beans and asparagus tips are placed in a frying pan with the meat and covered with a gray of peanut oil, heavily spiced.

Maintaining the Queue.

The Chinese representative at Washington, in a recent dispatch to Peking, stated that some of the Chinese students in the United States had begun to cut off their queues and to assume foreign coats in lieu of the flowing garb of the Celestial empire, as a matter of convenience while residing in the great republic. His excellency was instructed that the queue was the badge of their nationality and its abolition an infringement of the laws of the Manchue dynasty. As the result, the students have been ordered to resume the wearing of the queue, on pain of being sent back to China to be punished.
