The usual fatalities to bird men seem to continue. It is a remarkable day when the death of one or more is not recorded.

A handsome medal is forthcoming to the politician who can tell the people where they are in the coming campaign. The mix-up is certainly deplorable.

Monday of this week, began the boss Bull Moose convention in Chicago. In advance everybody knows the outcome—Teddy for president and whoever he wants for a running mate.

In fifty-one counties in the state the state board of assessment will increase values, while in seven other counties the assessments will be cut down. The remaining counties will have no change made. Sherman county is among the latter.

Theodore Roosevelt says no self-respecting man can remain in the republican party under existing conditions. If that be so, why should he try to capture the republican organizations in various states? Why not start a new party in all the states and leave the republican organizations alone?

C. B. Manuel, one of the leading heads of the almost defunct pop party, owner of the St. Paul Pioneer-Press and by the grace of Gov. Aldrich superintendent of the reform school at Kearney, has come out as a full-blown Bull Moose. It would seem that Bro. Manuel is something of a political octopus, whose tentacles embrace everything within reach. He himself is at once a pop, democrat, former supporter of a republican gov-

About fifteen needle specialists met at Grandma Gilbert's carpet-rag here last week Wednesday. Merry tongues set the pace for busy fingers, and nearly twelve pounds of the precious material was made ready for the weaver's hands. Thanks to generous neighbors, only a few were driven by the pangs of hunger to return to their own larders for sustenance. To those who remained, or returned, ice cream was served. Grandma thanks all whose presence made the day a pleasant memory; also several who left lasting reminders of the occasion—her 75th birthday.

"The crowning glory of woman is her hair," is a precept propounded by a man of Wisdom in the Ancient Times, and to us come down thru the mist of past ages as an accepted Truth. Imperative duty it is, that Woman should preserve and promote in the best possible manner, the beauty and growth of her "Crown of Glory." More Improvements

The Loup City Cement Block Co. has certainly been doing a rushing business this season. They first put up the Mason farm implement house east of The Milburn, 40x80, from May 9th to June 6th. On the day the company finished that they began the erection of the fine new postoffice buildings, 30x60, with basement, completing the building above the basement by July 1, so Uncle Sam could get moved on that date and finished the basement, now occupied by the Times, by the 12th, making one of the best buildings in the city for the postoffice and for Bro. Beushausen's newspaper plant. The first of this week they began the building of a fine cement office building for Drs. Bowman & Bowman, on the A. L. Zimmerman residence grounds, south of the home, which is to be 26x36, 6-room, equipped with lavatory, bath, furnace, electric lights, city water and everything up-to-date, with office, consultation rooms and living apartments. This the company expects to have completed about Sept. 1st, when the doctors will have one of the most convenient, complete and well equipped offices anywhere in central Nebraska. While the new office will not be quite completed by the time Dr. Bowman's wife reaches home from her European trip, where she has been perfecting herself as medical companion as well as home-maker for our genial physician, yet it will be so nearly so as practically say it will be ready for occupancy by that time.

First District.

The only remaining districts are the two districts from Texas. Of these the first district was composed of eleven counties, each county having one vote, except Cass county, which had two. The executive committee, composed of one representative from each county, made up the temporary roll, and in the contests filed from two counties seated both delegates with one-half vote each. The convention elected the two Taft delegates, giving them ten and one-quarter votes. Each county was represented in this vote. A minority representing one and three-quarters votes bolted the regular convention and held a rump meeting. The national committee by unanimous vote decided the contest in favor of the Taft delegate.

Second District.

In the second Texas district there were fourteen counties. Two counties were found not to have held conventions and one county to have no delegate present. The convention was then constituted by the delegations that held regular credentials. The report of the committee on credentials was accepted upon roll call, and then the representatives of five counties withdrew from the hall. The representatives of four of these counties held a rump convention. The regular convention remained in session several hours, appointed the usual committees, which retired and made their reports, which were accepted, and elected two Taft delegates to the national convention and certified their election in due form to the national committee, which without division asked for, held them properly elected.

Fourth District.

The Fourth Texas district consists of five counties, each having one vote in the district convention under the call. One county, Bains, came an uncontested delegation, and that one was for Taft. The other four counties sent contesting delegations. The contesting delegations appeared before the congressional executive committee to present their claims, but the committee arbitrarily refused to hear anybody. Having exhausted every effort to secure a hearing, the four contesting delegations, together with the only uncontested delegation of the convention, withdrew to another place and held a convention and elected Taft delegates to the Chicago convention. The congressional convention which elected the Taft delegates was composed of more than a majority, and, indeed, of practically all the regularly elected delegates. The national committee held the title of the Taft delegates to their seats valid by viva voce vote without calling for a division.

Fifth District.

The Fifth district of Texas is composed of Dallas, Ellis, Hill, Bosque and Rockwall counties. Dallas county cast more Republican votes than all the other counties of the district put together. The call for the congressional convention allowed each county to send not to exceed four delegates, but made no reference to the basis of representation of the respective counties composing the district. There was a contest from Dallas county, but the Taft delegates were seated. Taft delegates were seated on the temporary roll from two counties, and Roosevelt delegates from the three counties, and the representation in the convention was fixed at one vote for each county without regard to the number of delegates in the convention or the number of Republican votes cast in such county. A minority report of the district committee was presented, protesting against the ratio of representation adopted. The chairman of the convention objected to the presentation of this minority report. Failing in this he abandoned the platform and left the hall.

The convention thereupon elected a new chairman and a new secretary, appointed a committee on credentials, which recommended the seating of the Taft delegates from Hill county and the adoption of the minority report of the district committee as to the basis of the representation in the convention. Both these recommendations were adopted, and Taft delegates to the national convention were thereupon elected by a vote of eight to three. The Roosevelt men thereafter retired to the south end of the hall, where they organized a meeting at which it was claimed the Roosevelt delegates to the national convention were elected. The Republican vote for the district for 1908 was as follows: Dallas county, 2,698; Ellis, 294; Hill, 414; Bosque, 203; Rockwall, 28. Both the national committee and the committee on credentials sustained the Taft delegates.

Seventh District.

The seventh congressional district of Texas is composed of the following counties: Anderson, Chambers, Galveston, Houston, Liberty, Polk, San Jacinto and Trinity. Polk, San Jacinto and Trinity were without proper party organization. In Texas county chair men must be elected by the voters in each party. No such election was held in any of these three counties. In two of them Colonel Lyon assumed to appoint chairmen, which he had no right to do. Lyon himself had claimed these three counties as his own and with his party organization.

The convention met in Galveston. The executive committee met prior to the meeting of the convention to make up the temporary roll of delegates. The executive committee had before it the question of having the three unorganized counties represented in the convention. The executive committee refused to recognize them. When this action was taken by the executive committee a delegate from Houston county and the alleged representatives from the three unorganized counties withdrew from the meeting and proceeded to organize another convention, and upon this is based the contest, which was rejected by both committees, the national committee and the credentials committee.

Eighth District.

In the eighth congressional convention a split occurred over the majority and minority reports of the executive committee as to the temporary roll. The Roosevelt followers controlled the executive committee, but did not have a majority in the convention, which adopted the minority report and gave Taft two and one-half votes and Roosevelt two and one-half votes. This resulted in the election of the Taft delegates, who were seated by both the national committee and the credentials committee.

Ninth District.

In the Ninth district the district committee was called by Mr. Speaker, a member of the committee, and not by the chairman. The chairman refused to convene the committee because he claimed that all the delegates from Texas to the national convention must be elected in the state convention, that Colonel Lyon, his superior, had thus directed him. The district committee was called. Seven members attended the meeting. The district convention was called on May 15. Eleven counties out of the fifteen responded to the call and took part in the convention. Three counties were not represented, and in one of these there was no election. After this convention had been called the chairman of the district committee changed his mind and called a meeting of the committee for April 17. This committee called a congressional convention to be held on May 18. But there was no publication of the call, which had to be thirty days before the convention, until April 21. The Taft convention seems therefore to have been duly and regularly convened, while the Roosevelt convention was not. The Taft delegates were seated.

Tenth District.

In the Tenth district the decision turned largely upon the bad faith with which two members of the district committee voted in the seating of delegates and upon the bad faith with which one of them used the proxy entrusted to him. The Taft delegates in this case bolted and left the hall and immediately in the same building organized another convention which consisted of delegates from six counties. Proceedings were regularly held; a permanent organization effected; the report of the committee on resolutions adopted and delegates pledged to Taft were elected. The undisputed evidence indicated that a flagrant attempt had been made to deprive Taft of this district, to which he was justly entitled. The national committee sustained the title of the Taft delegates and alternates by a practically unanimous vote.

Fourteenth District.

In the Fourteenth district there were fifteen counties in the district. When the executive committee met at San Antonio to make up the temporary roll there were ten members of the committee present whose right to act was undisputed, of whom six were for Taft and four for Roosevelt. There were four other Roosevelt men present whose right to vote was disputed and who were clearly not entitled to represent their county at that meeting. One of them held the proxy of the committeeman from Kendall county, who was dead, and the proxies from three other counties were held, two by postmasters, while under the election law of Texas no one who holds an office of profit or trust under the United States shall act as a member of an executive committee either for the state or for any district or county. The temporary roll was made up by Taft members, having a clear majority without permitting these men to act under their proxies. There was a contest over the delegation from Bexar county, which contains the city of San Antonio. Full consideration was given to this contest, but the testimony was overwhelming that Taft carried the county by a vote of four or five to one. On the proper basis the total vote in the district convention was sixty-seven, of which the number instructed or voting for Taft was thirty-seven and one-half, the number voting or instructed for Roosevelt twenty-eight and one-half, not voting one. The Taft delegation was therefore seated at Chicago.

CONCLUSION.

The purpose of this resume of the contests in which there was any shadow of substance has been to inform those who have not time or inclination to read the longer and more detailed account of them contained in the larger pamphlet. It is not essential to make Mr. Taft's title indisputable that all men agree on every one of the issues raised. They were decided by the tribunals which uniform party usage had made the proper tribunals to decide such contests. If those tribunals acted in good faith mistaken judgment would not invalidate their decisions. As a matter of fact, an examination of the facts show that the tribunals were right in every instance. There is not the slightest evidence that they were moved by other than a mere desire to reach a right conclusion. On the other hand, the action of the Roosevelt men in bringing 100 contests that, properly abandoned strongly tended to show the lack of good faith in the prosecution of all of them. Those who support President Taft can well afford to stand on the record in this case and to associate without fear of successful contradiction that the delegate whose seats were contested were as fairly seated in this convention as in any in the history of the party.
