On petition signed by a number of the strongest men at Ashton, the assistant county attorney be appointed to see to the prosecution of those engaged in the game of arson at Ashton on the 20th of last month, the board appointed Attorney J. Bradford of the Kearney city school who conducted our teachers' institute here week before last, has accepted the principalship of the Nebraska State Agricultural school located at the University Farm in the suburbs of Lincoln at the initial salary of $2,300 per year, increasing $200 at the end of each year. We congratulate the professor over his unsolicited preferment.
 The electric light company have now some twenty of the street lights in active operation and the company's men are rapidly at work setting the poles and stringing the wires for the balance, and soon the city will have lights on fifty-five street junctions. Besides this work, electricians are at work daily wiring new stores and residences, and soon Loup City will be one of the best lighted towns in central Nebraska. It is expected to have the street lights all in operation in time for the Harvest Festival. Additional linemen began work this morning rushing street light and other electric work to completion. The company is not charging for street lighting until that service is completed. Pretty good of Mr. Taylor.

Through the kindness of W. D. Zimmerman, the editor accompanied him in his auto Monday afternoon up into Logan county, some 60 miles northwest of Broken Bow, Mr. Jack Downs joining the party at the Bow and enjoying a splendid ride up into the sand hills. The writer was happily surprised to find the excellence of the crops to the north, the corn, wheat and rye crops even up in the most arid portions of the Kinkaiders looking marvelously well and wonderfully advanced and heavy, that section of the country having been copiously supplied with rains. The trip was a revelation to one who rarely gets out to see such sections of the country as were visited in the long but most pleasant auto ride in what easterners have been taught wrong was simply a sandy desert. A trip up into that country shows some of the most beautiful and productive valleys within this or any other state, and the scenery from a thousand view points is simply grand and inspiring. If you are in the chance of making a like auto ride into that comparatively unknown section, hop to it, and you will return home with new and far more complete knowledge of a country so mislabeled in the past and at present.

Some mills cut prices and offer new wheat flour to their trade as soon as it is threshed. We prefer to hold old wheat on hand and have our merchants sell old wheat flour until the new wheat is in condition to grind. This is one reason our flour trade is increasing about 100 per cent each year. You better buy a few sacks of old wheat flour and keep the housewife happy. Special prices on 500 pound lots.
