their sockets. There across the sunlit stretch of water was Betty-the choking terrors. The whole fabric of crime by which he had been benefited in the past or had expected to profit

him, but his mind clutched one important fact. Hues, if he knew of Betty's disappearance, did not connect Murrell with it. Ware sucked in comfort between his twitching lips.

Stealing niggers! No one would believe that he, a planter, had a hand in that, and for a brief instant he con-for him, he could not know; and the

He smote his hands together in a hopeless, beaten gesture. And Murrell had gone weak-with his own eyes he had seen it-Murrell-whom he believed without fear! He felt that he had been grievously betrayed in his trust and a hot rage poured through him. At last he climbed into the saddle, and, swaying like a

When he reached the river road he paused and scanned its dusty surface. Hues and his party had turned south when they issued from the wood path. No doubt Murrell was being taken to Memphis. Ware laughed harshly. The outlaw would be free

He had balted near where Jim had turned his team the previous night impulse to act forsook him.

drunken man, galloped off.

before another dawn broke.

man drew rein at his side.

"Ware!" he cried.

the planter.

rington slowly.

ping his face.

of himself.

glance.

the library of an old worn-out shought of her brought him to quick The scene at the opening of the stery is faild in the history of an old worn-out southern plantation, known as the Bartony. The place is to be sold, and its history and that of the owners, the Quintards, is the subject of discussion by Jonathan Crenshaw, a business man, a stranger known as Binden, and Bob Yanny, a former, when Hannibal Wayne Hazard, a mysterious child of the old southern family, makes his appearance. Yanny tells how he adopted the boy. Nathaniel Ferris buys the Barony, but the Quintards deny any knowledge of the boy. Yanny to keep Hannibal. Captain Murrell, a friend of the Quintards, appears and asks questions shout the Harony. Trouble at Scratch Hill when Hannibal is hidnaped by Dave Blount. Captain Murrell's agent. Yancy overtakes Blount, gives him a thrashing and secures a | in the future seemed toppling in upon pears and sake questions shoul the hannibal is hidnaped by Dave Blount. Captain Murrell's agent. Yancy overtakes Blount, gives him a thrashing and secures the boy. Yancy appears before Squire Balaam, and is discharged with costs for the plaintiff. Betty Mairoy, a friend of the Ferrises, has an encounter with Captain Murrell, who forces his attentions on her, and is rescued by Bruce Carrington. Betty sets out for her Tennessee home. Carrington takes the same stage. Yancy and Hannibal disappear, with Murrell on their trail. Hannibal arrives at the home of Judge Slocum Price. The Judge recognizes in the boy the grandson of an old time friend. Murrell arrives at Judge's home Cavendish family on raft rescue Yancy, who is apparently dead. Price breaks jai. Betty and Carrington arrive at Belle Plain. Hannibal's rifle discloses some startling things to the judge. Hannibal and Betty meet again. Murrell arrive in Belle Plain. Is playing for big stakes. Yancy awakes from long dreamless sleep on board the raft. Judge Price makes startling discoveries in looking uplanter, who assists the judge, is mysteriously assaulted. Norton, a young planter, who assists the judge, is mysteriously assaulted. Norton informs Carrington that Betty has promised to marry him. Norton is mysteriously shot. More light on Murrell's plot. He plans uprising of negroes. Judge Price, with Hannibal visits Betty, and she keeps the boy as a companion. In a stroll Betty takes with Hannibal they meet Bess Hicks, daughter of the overseer, who warns Betty of danger and counsels her to leave Belle Plain at once. Betty, terrified, acts on Bess' advice, and on their way their carriage it stopped by Siosson, the lavern keeper, and a confederate, and Betty and Hannibal are made prisoners. The pair are taken to discovered, budge Price, hearing of the abduction, plans action. The Judge takes charge of the situation, and search for the missing ones is lastituted. Carrington visits the judge and allies are discovered. Judge Price, hearing of the story and the pudge

CHAPTER XXV. (Continued.)

"Hues!" cried Murrell in astonishment, for the man confronting him was the Cinn's messenger who should have been speeding across the state. "Toss up your hands, Murrell," said Hues quietly.

One of the other men spoke. "You are under arrest!"

"Arrest!"

You are wanted for nigger-stealing," said the man. Still Murrell die not seem to comprehend. He looked at Hnes in dull wonder.

"What are you doing here?" he "Waiting to arrest you-ain't that plain?" said Hues, with a grim smile. The outlaw's hands dropped at his side, limp and helpless. With some idea that he might attempt to draw s weapon one of the men took hold of him but Murrell was nerveless to his touch; his face had gone a ghastly white and was streaked with the markings of terror "Well, by thunder!" cried the man in utter amazement Murrell looked into Hues' face.

"You-you-" and the words thickened on his tongue, becoming an inarticulate murmur.

"It's all up, John," said Hues "No!" said Murrell, recovering himself. "You may as well turn me loose -you can't arrest me!"

"I've done it," answered Hues. "I've been on your track for six months." "How about this fellow?" asked the man whose pistol still covered Ware. Hues glanced toward the planter and shook his head "Where are you going to take me?" asked Murrell quickly. Again Hues

"You'll find that out in plenty of time, and then your friends can pass rell, he could not hope to escape the the word around if they like; now you'll come with me" Hues and his prisoner passed back this idea of craven flight. Thank while they're fixing folks they'd betalong the path, Hues with his hand God, he had seen the last of him! on Murrell's shouler, and one of his But as always, his thoughts came He's got some notion about Fentress

Presently the distant clatter of senger, for the signal tire, but there this. boofs was borne to Ware's ears-only would be neither; and Slosson would that; the miracle of courage and dar- be left to determine his own course of ed Ware ing he had half expected had not hap action. Ware felt certain that he learn of Murrell's arrest, escape, flight would not condone if it came to his -for in Ware's mind these three knowledge. He had also acquired a events were indissolubly associated, very proper and wholesome fear of The planter's teeth knocked together. Judge Slocum Price. He stepped close He was having a terrible acquaint- to Ware's side. "What'll come of the ance with fear, its very depths had girl, Tom? Can you figure that out?" swallowed him up; it was a black pit he questioned, sinking his voice alin which he sank from horror to hor- most to a whisper. But Ware was inror. He had lost all faith in the Clan | capable of speech, again his terrors which had terrorized half a dozen completely overwhelmed him. "I states, which had robbed and murdered with apparent impunity, which overseer. I'm going to strike out to had marketed its hundreds of stolen Texas," said Hicks. slaves. He had utterly collapsed at and shaken.

instant later Hicks entered the room ly cast aside, and it was almost his. without the formality of knocking. He lurched across the room to the Ware recognized his presence with a window. If he were going to act, the glance of indifference, but did not sooner he did so the better, and gain speak. Hicks slouched to his employ- a respite from his fears. The road er's side and handed him a note which down the coast slid away before his proved to be from Fentress. Ware heavy eyes; he marked each turn, read and tossed it aside.

of his men across the bayou, who must an admission from him that Murrel he come here?" he growled.

"I reckon that old fellow they call up at the sun. Judge Price has sprung something morning; you'd have thought he window. owned Belle Plain. There was a "All right, Hicks. You mean you couple of strangers with him, and he want me to settle with you, is that had me in and fired questions at me it?" he asked. for half an hour; then he hiked off up to The Oaks."

sidered signaling Bess to return. Slos-"Murrell's been arrested," said Ware Hicks stolidly. He added: "I am goson must be told of Murrell's arrest: in a dull level voice. Hicks gave him ing to start down the coast as soon but he was sick with apprehension, some trap might have been prepared a glance of unmixed astonishment.

> "Yes, by God!" "Who'd risk it?"

"No!"

after Betty and Hannibal had left the brought to trial; no lawyer will dare

"Risk it? Man, he almost fainted dead away-a damned coward, Hell!" "How do you know this?" asked Hicks, appalled.

"I was with him when he was tak more than any other!" Ware gave silent, but in that silence he heard lawn. the drumming of his own heart. He went on. "I tell you, to save himself, John Murrell will implicate the rest of us; we've got to get him free, and then, by hell-we ought to knock

"The jail ain't built that'll hold him!" muttered Hicks. "Of course, he can't be held," lurch like this-or your brother's agreed Ware. "And he'll never be folks-"

Ware's eyes met his for an instant. the first blow dealt the organization. He had thought of flight, too; was but he was still seeing Murrell, pallid still thinking of it, but greed was as much a part of his nature as fear; A step sounded in the hall and an Belle Plain was a prize not to be lightthen a palsy of fear shook him, his "If he wants to see me why don't heart beat against his ribs, and he stood gnawing his lips while he gazed recken you'll have to find another

"Do you get what I say, Tom? 1 sudden on the colonel," said Hicks. am going to quit these parts," said "He was out here the first thing this Hicks. Ware turned slowly from the

"Yes, I'm going to leave while I can; maybe I can't later on," said as it turns dark, and before it's day again I'll have put the good miles between me and these parts."

"You're going down the coast?" and Ware was again conscious of the quickened beating of his heart. Hicks nodded. "See you don't meet up with John Murrell," said Ware.

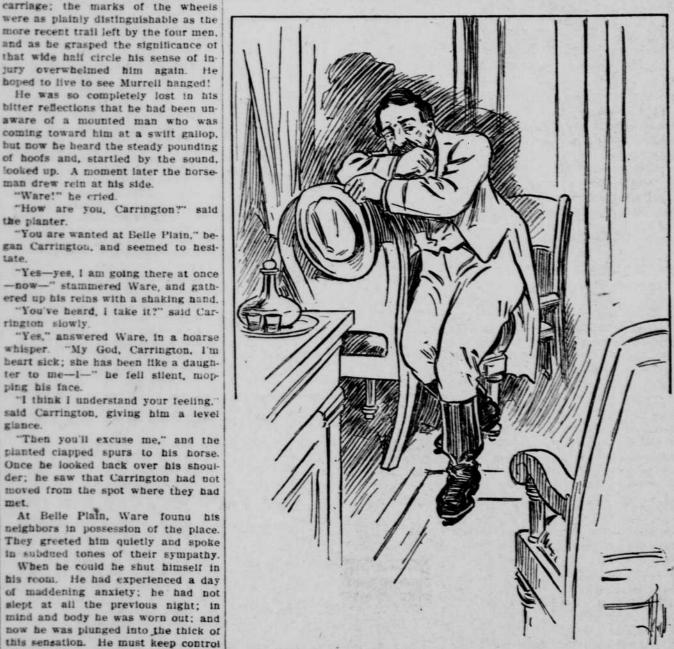

"I'll take that chance. It seems a en-it was Hues-the man he trusted heap better to me than staying here." Ware looked from the window. The the overseer a ghastly grin and was shadows were lengthening across the "Better start now, Hicks," he ad-

"I'll wait until it turns dark." "You'll need a horse.

"I was going to help myself to one. him in the head; he isn't fit to live!" This ain't no time to stand on ceremony," said Hicks shortly. "Slosson shouldn't be left in the

"They'll have to figure it out for

The Planter's Knees Knocked To gether.

ings of the next few hours. Murrell's appear against him, no jury will dare themselves, same as me," rejoined friends would break jail for him, that to find him guilty; but there's Hues, Hicks. was a foregone conclusion; but the what about him?" He paused. The insurrection he had planned was at two men looked at each other for a an end. Hues had dealt its death long moment.

blow Moreover, though the law "Where did they carry the capmight be impotent to deal with Mur- tain?"

"I don't know." "It looks like the Clan was in a had plotted to destroy; he would have hell-fired hole-but shucks! What Ware neither moved nor spoke as to quit the country. Ware gloated in will be easier than to fix Hues?—and ter not overlook that old fellow Price. companions close at his beels, while back to Betty. Slosson would wait at and the boy." Mr. Hicks did not conthe third man led off the outlaw's Hicks' place for the man Murrell had sider it necessary to explain that he promised him, and, falling the mes- was himself largely responsible for

"How do you know that?" demand-

"He as good as said so." Hicks pened. Murrell, for all his wild boast would wait through the night, but as looked uneasily at the planter. He the west; his windows blazed with ing, was like other men, like himself. sure as the morning broke, if no word knew himself to be compromised. The His bloodshot eyes slid around in had reached him, he would send one stranger named Cavendish had forced

"You can stop there as you go by." "No," said Hicks. "I never did believe in this damn foolishness about the girl, and I won't go near George's

"I don't ask you to go there; you can give them the signal from the head of the bayou. All I want is for you to stop and light a fire on the shore. They'll know what that means, I'll give you a horse and fifty doilars for the job."

Hicks' eyes sparkled, but he only can deal." Racked and tortured, Ware hesitated: but the sun was slipping into the hot light.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Masterpiece Gone to Waste. The very seedy looking young man made his way with difficulty down the New York's best hotels, says the Popular Magazine, and knocked loudly at his friend's door. Anguish was written on his face and wrinkles on his clothes. He was a walking sign of what it meant to spend a hard night. "What's the matter?" called out the "Matter? It's a tragedy, a death. the end of all things - ruination and sleepy friend.

"Well, what it is?" lazily inquired

Whereupon the seedy-looking young man, leaning against the door and lifting his voice to a howl, replied: "I called up my wife on the long-distance telephone last night and told her why I had not returned. I gave I can't remember what it was!"

HALLOWE'EN NOVELTY

Photo, Copyright, by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

A Jack O' Lantern hat of crepe paper is the latest novelty for wear by the young lady who will attend the Hallowe'en festivities. The hat is topped by an imitation Jack o' Lantern and a fan of the same material to

SHOULDER STRAP COMES BACK | NEW MATERIAL FOR NEGLIGEE

Years Ago, Which Has Much to Recommend It.

You remember the jumper dress that women liked a few years ago? It was virtually a skirt; a wide girdle the dress goods department of your and shoulder straps, and was worn favorite shop, but go to your houseover a blouse of washable fabric. Well, furnishing merchant. He will have it is here again in a charming re- precisely what you need-a pair of vival of style, having profited by its extra curtains in madras-that he'll respite, according to the New York sell for a song. If they are of white Press.

beauty. From a comparatively small slipping on over the head, buttons piece of material and a variety of from throat, to shoulder tops and half a change of dress at little expense.

trast over lace and tulle. these shoulder straps with great ef- ure and may be flung on in a second fect. They afford excellent back- of time above a princess slip of tafground for continuing any decorative feta or lawn.

BLOUSE OF SPOT NET.

This is a charming little blouse arranged with a low neck and long with two made plumes of the plush. A sleeves with deep wrist ruffles.

Gown for a Matron. For a matron a black and white feathers at one side.

princess robe is made in narrow stripes of equal size and arranged with lengthwise and horizontal panels alternating with a suggestion of a ladder and its rungs. The notable feature of this robe is outer lapels with lace inset between the door thoroughly clean the glass. them, while revers from a narrow meet at the waist and were continued panel on the door. in ten-inch wide ladder-like lines to was carried out in black and white if necessary, to stretch the panel. marquisette, with Venetian lace for trimming.

With short walking skirts boots should play an important part. The average woman is seldom entiusiastic about shoes for a long time; prob- hair, and a narrow bandeau of velvet ably she is too much concerned about is still popular. A Paris house shows the slimness or shapeliness of her a narrow stiff band of blue velvet ankle, which is apt to spread inele- sewn with colored beads, from the gantly unless it be strictly confined.

patent leather with white glace up feather in natural colors, a bizarre pers, for which white suede may be and striking ornament. Another band substituted, and it is really very of velvet is sewn with brilliants, and smart, although already it suffers a white osprey rises in the middle in from the misfortune of being imitated a fashion that is both becoming and by the cheaper shops.

New Toilet Pins.

Buckle-shaped brooches now fasten the back of the stock collar and these Modistes Return to Style of a Few Madras Curtains Make Up Into the Very Finest Boudoir Garment That Can Be Devised.

If you are needing a new negligee don't seek for the material for it in or cream or black, large-figured in Modistes have launched a few mod- pale blue, light green or vivid cerise, Buttons are used as trimming on to the toes, does not cling to the fig-

the new plush and velour hats for the The hats are in small, medium and large shapes, quite soft, so that they can be rolled and crushed to suit the face of the individual wearer. There are small hats with high round crowns, folded in around the top. Two-toned velour hats are among the newest models and there is an iridescent blue and black plush hat which is most striking and becoming to the average woman. A large sombrero of green velour with a facing of black velvet is trimmed with a black leather belt, dull leather with a gilt buckle. The shape is extremely smart. A rather high-crowned narrow brimmed hat of two-toned iridescent plush is in blue and black. The hat has a crown of shot silk and is trimmed small black plush hat, extremely dashing in effect, has a white satin band inside the brim and three fancy black

Very frequently lace door panels shrink after washing them, making it impossible to use them again.

To prevent this follow these instrucits revers, the corsage having short tions: After removing the panel from Wash and starch the lace, slip in point on the shoulder came down to the rods immediately and replace the Care should be observed to pull the the hem of the garment. This gown lace straight, tacking down the sides, Allow it to dry upon the door.

This gives far better results than to launder the panel in the usual man-

Effective Bandeau.

center of which springs up a peacock's The boot of the moment is of black feather of gold with the "eye" of the dignified-which is more than may be said for many fashions of the moment.

Muffs will be of more mammoth size are so wide that they almost fill the than ever this winter. The furriers space at the nape of the neck and af- have seen to that all right. They are ford the support to the chiffon and net also desperately concerned in workthroat veiling at that point which the ing up original little fitments for the neck, in the guise of high stocks.

SUCCESS FOLLOWS JUDICIOUS FARMING

IN WESTERN CANADA IT IS CERTAIN.

The story of the Big Farmer in Western Canada, and the immense profits he has made in the growing of grain, has been told and retold. He has been found in all parts of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. His splendid farm buildings have been pictured, his traction outfits described and his princely surroundings, resultant of his success in growing grain, have been portrayed by letter, press and camera. It certainly is not to his discredit that by successfully applying common sense and up-to-date methods to the conditions that climate, a good soil, and splendid market have placed at hand, that he has made the best use of them. He is not too proud to admit that he came to the country a wery few years ago handicapped as to money, leaving behind him unpaid mortgages in his old home land (which are now wiped out), and he is still today the same goodhearted fellow he was in the days that he had to work for a neighbor, while the neighbor broke the land on his homestead, which went to make up the settlement duties.

Then, there, too, is the farmer and the farmer's son, already wealthy, who has bought large holdings in Western Canada, in either Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, who has made forty to one hundred per cent. on his investment, whose big grain crops and whose immense cattle herds are helping to improve the country. Health and strength, energy and push, and bull dog grit are as essential in Western Canada as in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, or any of the states from which so many of these people come, and then, when you have added to that a fair amount of means, with which to make a start, the land which is only waiting for the skill of the husbandman will quickly respond.

But there is the smaller farmer, the man who has not made sufficient in four or five years, that he might comfortably retire if he felt like it. There are many of them in all the three Provinces. It is not the less to his credit that he has earned his homestead by the three years residence, that he is free from debt, and has a reasonable bank account. He, too, came to the country handicapped by debts, and with very little means. He is contented, has a good home, land free of encumbrance, some stock, and with good prospects. One of these writes: "I formerly lived near Dayton, Ohio, on a rented farm, had as good a chance as the average renter, but after ten years of hard work, satisfied myself that if I ever expected to secure a home, I would have to undertake something else. Hearing of Western Canada, I investigated, and seven years ago last Spring settled in a homestead and purchased (on time) an adjoining half section, arriving els of the dress that has "braces" or so much the better for you. They'll with a carload of household effects and suspenders, and it bids fair to be one make up into a stunning negligee of farm implements, including four of the features that spell practical the sort that cut in two pieces, and horses and three cows, and $1,800 in money-my ten years' work in Ohio.

"The first year our crops gave us separate chiffon, net or washable way down the outer side of the ki- feed, the second year 100 acres of blouses, this new favorite will assure mono sleeves, with oriental beads of wheat gave us $1,800; no failure of huge size and lurid tone enhanced crop since starting here. I have now Shoulder straps are seen on some with flecks of gold. About the throat | 22 head of horses, 15 head of cattle, of the advanced blouse models, show- and the edges of the sleeves place and 35 hogs. We own 1,120 acres of ing that this idea has been seized by heavy cordings in silk matching the land, and have same all under cultivadesigners as a welcome change for color of the figure on the madras, tion. Was offered at one time $35.00 the perennial favorite. These exten- but use no further trimming. The per acre for a half section where we sions are generally of the same ma- material trims itself. A negligee in live, and all the other land could be terial as the girdle and act as con- this design is unquestionably modest. sold today on present market at $30.00 It falls straight from the shoulders per acre. Should we care to dispose of our holdings, could pay all debts and have over $30,000 to the good, but the question is where could we go to invest our money and get as good returns as here?

"We have equally as good, if not bet-Most picturesque and becoming are ter prospects for crops this year, as we had three years ago, when our autumn and early winter which are | wheat reached from 30 to 48 bushels now being shown in the smart shops. | per acre. I never believed such crops could be raised until I saw them myself. I had 15 acres that year that made 50 bushels to the acre. Our harvest will be ready by the 12th. We have this season in crop 400 acres of wheat, 125 of oats, 90 of flax, and run three binders, with four men to do the stooking

> "We certainly like this country, and the winters, although the winters are cold at times, but we do not suffer as one would think. What we have accomplished here can be duplicated in almost any of the new districts. If anyone doubts anything I have said in this letter, tell them to come here, and I can prove every word I have written."

The name of the writer can be had from the Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, who can give the names of hundreds of others equally successful. Adv.

Every mother is firmly convinced that she is capable of picking a better husband for her daughter than she did for herself

A "Tempting Dinner"

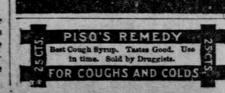

has no attraction for the person with a weak stomach.

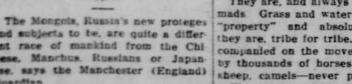

You have no appetite and what little you do eat distresses you. Try a bottle of

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS

and notice the improvement in your general health. Your food will taste good and do you good.

FOR SALE BY DRUGGISTS AND DEALERS

Mongols Live in Saddle

and subjects to be, are quite a differest race of mankind from the Chinese, Manchus Russians or Japanese, says the Manchester (England) Every Mongol (even the women,

Become Nation of Legless

People.

who all ride astride) is a horseman. and so used is he to spending his whole active life on horseback that practically he has lost the use of his egs for walking purposes and shuftes along only a few yards at a time. encumbered by his heavy skin clothby grasping the borse and crooked high in very short stirrups

The Chinese have always applied the graphic terms "horseback states" to the Huns, Turks, Avars and Moncols who are practically all varieties had impaired her health by too confi

Russia's New Proteger Are Likely to of one people, and have always extended from the Yalu to the Volga. They are, and always have been, no

He sought to forecast the happen-vengeance of the powerful class be mads Grass and water are their only "property" and absolute need, for they are, tribe for tribe, invariably accompanied on the move after pasture by thousands of horses, cattle, goats, sheep, camels-never pigs.

Thus from ancient times they have always been in a position to send 200. 600 to 500,000 horsemen rapidly to any point; mountains and big rivers are the only serious obstacles; at a pinch raw meat enough for ten days' campaign can be "cooked" on the rapid march by placing it between the saddle and the sweating horse. If ing, on limbs shriveled by clause and this vast movable force should be virilized again under Russian supremfrom the habit of riding extremely acy there are those who say that is attained by doing the right thing her a perfectly good excuse. And now nothing in Asia can resist it

> How She Got Fresh Eggs. A young lady living in a small cit ing work in a city office. Her physician ordered her to a sanitarium for rest and upbuilding, and when she returned to work he instructed her to corridor on the ninth floor of one of eat four fresh laid eggs daily; two eggs for breakfast and the others raw in milk Finding it difficult to obtain dependably fresh eggs she persuaded her mother to permit her having a small flock in the home yard. A portable house was purchased and fifteen pullets installed in it. A small brother was paid ten cents a week to feed and care for the flock, two bags of readymixed food were bought and the result | grief!" of the venture was not only all the eggs the young lady needed and a sup- the drowsy man, without opening the ply for the family, but there was a door. surplus which found a ready market at the corner drug store, bringing ten cents a dozen above the market price. -The Christian Herald.

again and again, until it becomes a anbit. One of the best habits you can orm is to read the advertisements nat appear in this paper. Now is the

The chief of all abuses is to imagine that we are the center of the universe | best of boning will not furnish