

WOMEN SHOULD NEVER USE HARSH PHYSICS

Women are especially susceptible to constipation and their more delicate organisms rebel at the violence of cathartics and purgatives. Drastic medicines like salts, mineral waters, pills and powders may afford temporary relief, but their violent action on the stomach and bowels tends to upset the entire system.

A mild laxative is far preferable and more effective. The combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin prescribed by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, and sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is ideal for women, being gentle in action, positive in effect and pleasant to the taste. A spoonful of Syrup Pepsin at night will bring natural relief next morning and, used regularly for a brief period, will so strengthen and tone the muscles of the stomach and bowels that there will be little, if any, further need for medicine.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can be procured in any drug store. Your name and address on a postal to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 202 West St., Monticello, Ill., will bring a free trial bottle by return mail. Adv.

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONY.

The Rev. Edmund Heslop of Winton, Pa., suffered from Dropsy for a year. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart fluttering, was dizzy and exhausted at the least exertion. Hands and feet were cold and he had such a dragging sensation across the loins that it was difficult to move. After using 5 boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills the swelling disappeared and he felt himself again. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dodds Kidney Pills. Several months later he wrote: I have not changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. E. Heslop about this wonderful remedy.

Perils of Overdelicacy.

A bridegroom gave his best man an envelope. "Hand it to the parson after the ceremony," he said, "but don't do it ostentatiously."

The best man followed instructions, but it seems that he performed his task too covertly, for the father of the bridegroom, after the pair had departed, believed that an omission had occurred and quietly pressed a banknote into the minister's hand. But he also was to be secretive about it, and before the party broke up to draw the minister aside and thrust a $10 bill upon him.

Now the Silent Pet

BLOUSE TRIMMED WITH FUR RAINY DAY SUIT FOR CHILD

Showing the Possibilities of This Charming Ornamentation When It is Properly Applied. Something That Every Youngster Needs—Its Manufacture and Proper Mode of Preservation.

Our artist has illustrated in the sketch before you an excellent example of the charm of fur trimming. The alliance of a lace waistcoat with white panne gives added charm. This blouse is especially suited to five o'clock calls or bridge teas, especially as it can be comfortably worn under a fur or velvet coat. The foundation is of dull Louis blue satin, veiled all over with deep purple chiffon so as to correspond with the skirt of purple cloth. The roll-over collar and waist-band is of deep purple velvet, the collar and oversleeve of which are edged with skunk. On the head is worn a soft beret of ruby velvet and purple, with a big white heron's feather. A novelty is shown in the muff of skunk with an entire skin of white fox, lined with purple silk, flatly applied on the muff in hearth-rug fashion.

Brocaded Velvets. Almost regal in their loveliness are the new evening fabrics for the coming winter season. And particularly true is this of the new brocaded velvets. For splendor of coloring and richness of designs and variety they are unequalled. One feature is their lightness of weight—a whole gown is not cumbersome, for the velvet is chiffon weight and woven of very light silk.

The newest silks have a chiffon background, filmy and delicate, from which the raised velvet figures stand out in richness and beauty. The corals, rose colors, soft amber shades and greens are unusually beautiful and are being much used for the more elegant toilettes.

East Indian Effect. East Indian effects in jewelry are prominent this season. Heavily chased and carved rings, bracelets, necklaces, pendants, earrings and mounted jewels for the hair are being made in designs copied from the East Indian museum pieces.

Color Beauty Touches. The Roman sash lends a pretty effectiveness to the plain tailored velvet till the idea shall have been taken up too commonly, and there are many other little adaptations of color that enhance their beauty.

Effective Suits. Suits combining broadcloth and velvet are effective. Three-piece costumes are made of charmeuse and velvet, the latter being used for the coat and the dress trimming.

ALL ARE HAPPY HERE

City of Munich Is Loved by People for Itself Alone.

Even Americans Feel at Home and Are Not Starred at as Though They Were Curiosities—Noted Academy Here.

Munich—in olden days when the people of Munich were starving an angel, disguised as a little child and dressed in the yellow and black garb of a monk, came down from heaven to help the people. Even to this day this little child, the Munchener Kinder, has been the symbol of the Munich people, and instills into them the true essence of peace and happiness. But it casts a magic hand over every stranger that enters its gates.

Munich has the faculty of spoiling all other places in the world for those who have once lived there. It is not beautiful like Vienna, nor gay like Paris, nor picturesque like Rothenberg, but it is just Munich, and is loved for itself alone.

The cold unsentimental northern Germans style Munich the "City of Beer and Art," but what does the stiff Berliner know about happiness, or a cold Hanoverian know about contentment, or a freezing Hamburger know about sentiment? Munich has been called the city of happiness.

Here you can live and be yourself and no one makes a comment. If you are a rank pessimist the Munchener will not try to reform you, or if you are a gay optimist the Munchener will not stare at you; even Americans are not picked out as curiosities in Munich.

Perhaps the wide streets and spacious buildings of Munich have something to do with the freedom of thought of its people. There is no cramped-up feeling here, that is so characteristic of most cities. Ludwigsstrasse is one of the most imposing streets in the world. It runs from the village of Schwabing, a broad straight street, and lined with beautiful massive buildings, down into the center of town, and is terminated by a building that is a copy of the Loggia at France. In a way it is more beautiful than the original, for it is raised from the ground and looks more imposing. Every Sunday morning the city band plays here and the people gather along Ludwigsstrasse to listen to the music. Such happiness these people get from simple pleasures every afternoon. The same band plays in the Hofgarten and the park is packed with people who stop their work to feed their souls. Some parade back and forth, while others sit at the tables along the sides and sip ices and coffee.

But beneath all this apparent idleness and pleasure loving, Munich is a very busy place. It is the very heart of young artistic Germany, and the great revolutions that have taken place in newspaper and journalistic art have come direct from here, the home of the Jugend, the Simplificismus and other weekly papers. These magazines have introduced impressionism to our English and American papers, but even still a Munchener artist can tell a story in one line, for which an Englishman must use ten.

The Munich academy is the second best in the world and has sent forth such men as William Chase, Frank Duveneck and Martin Seisser. If you ask a Munchener who was the most important man in the world, the answer is either the prince regent, and Franze Von Stuck or Franze Stuck and the prince regent.

They love the kindly old prince, but their awe of Stuck is marvelous. His work is considered final in art, and his appreciation is shown not only sentimentally, but substantially as well, for he was presented with a beautiful home by the government and a nice pension besides. He is a tall, dark, handsome man. His wife is an American, and although very fond of his wife, he does not like to see too much American independence cropping out in his children. His little girl is a true little German fraulein, while his boy takes all his traits from his mother's ancestors, and is said to be no favorite with his father. Stuck is one of the teachers of the academy, but the best life class here is headed by an American from Milwaukee, Carl Marr. The Zuegel animal class is one of the famous art classes of the world.

CATHOLIC WOMEN TO BUILD

They Plan to Erect a Church Near University at Washington—To Be Finished in a Year.

Washington—Catholic women of the United States have banded together for the erection of a church at the Catholic university. The movement was undertaken when the necessity for a church building at the university was discovered and the women devotees refused to permit men to contribute to the fund. They will furnish the money, and also have a voice in the style of building to be erected. The structure will conform with the architecture in vogue at the university and it is expected that the building will be completed within a year.

King George Superstitious. An incident which occurred while the king was out shooting recently over the Hon. John Ward's preserves at Woolley shows that the monarch shares with many other persons the superstition about the number thirteen. The eight guns were joined at luncheon by five women of the party staying at Chilton, and the king not noticing the unlucky number would not sit down until Donald Harding, the acting agent upon the estate, was called in to make the number up to fourteen.—New York Herald.
