

PREPARING FOR THE WORK OF 1913

CITY BUILDING, RAILWAY BUILDING AND FARM OPERATIONS IN WESTERN CANADA, BIGGEST EVER.

The machinery, the money and the men for carrying on the big works in Western Canada in 1913 are already provided for. The splendid harvest which was successfully garnered, and by this time mostly marketed, responded to the big hopes that were had for it early in the season, and inspired capitalists and railroads to further investment and building. From lake ports to mountain base there will be carried on the biggest operations in city building and railway construction that has ever taken place in that country. The Canadian Pacific railway has everything in waiting to continue their great work of double tracking the system and by the time the Panama Canal is open to traffic there will be a double line of steel from Lake Superior to the Pacific coast. The cost will exceed thirty million dollars. The Grand Trunk Pacific plan of building a first-class trunk line and the feeder various points will be carried forward with all the force that great company can put into the work. The Canadian Northern is prepared to put into motion all the energy that young giant of finance and railroad building can put into various enterprises of providing and creating transportation facilities.

Building operations in the several cities, that have already marked themselves a place in the list of successful and growing cities, will be carried on more largely than ever. Schools, public buildings, parliament buildings, colleges, business blocks, apartments, private residences, banks, street and other municipal improvements have their appropriation ready, and the record of 1912 will be something wonderful. Other places which are towns today will make the rapid strides that are expected and will become cities. There will be other Edmonton, Calgary, Regina and Saskatoon, other places that may in their activity help to convince the outer world of the solidity and permanency of the Canadian West. The country is large and wide and broad and the ends of its great width and length are but the limits of its agricultural area. Its people are progressive, they are strong, there is no over-education there. The country teems with this life, this ambition, this fondness to create and to use the forces that await the settler. If they come from the South, and hundreds of thousands of them have, they are now the dominant men of the North, and they have imbibed of the spirit of the North. Therefore it is fair to say that no portion of the continent will show such wonderful results as Western Canada, and the year 1913 will be but the beginning of a wonderful and great future. And in this future the 200,000 Americans who made it their home, and those who preceded them, will be a considerable portion of the machinery that will be used in bringing about the results predicted.

The development of 1913 will not be confined to the prairie provinces. Railway building and city building in British Columbia will be supplemented by the farm, the ranch and the orchard building of that province. Vancouver will make great strides in building, and Victoria, the staid old lady of so many years, has already shown signs of modern ways, and if the progress made in 1912 may be accepted as anything like what it will be in 1913, there will be wonderful developments there. During last year the permits went over the ten million dollar mark and much more is promised for the year now entered upon.—Advertisement.

LAW and ORDER in the PHILIPPINES

PHILIPPINE SCHOOL BOYS' BASEBALL TEAM

NINE years' residence in the Philippines in the civil service and as an officer in the Philippine Constabulary, excellent, qualifies Capt. William E. Moore of that service to speak with authority as to administrative conditions on those islands. Captain Moore is the son of Levi W. Moore of Milford, Mass., manager of the Grafton & Upton railroad. He graduated from Milford schools and learned practical railroading under his father's instruction. His attention was drawn to the Philippines, and he entered service in Manila in the department having to do with transportation problems. He arrived in that city in October, 1903, but such was his efficiency that he was induced to accept appointment in the Philippine Constabulary, beginning January 1, 1905.

His varied duties and service may be inferred from his work having been in the island of Mindoro in 1905, in Cebu in 1906-7, in Samar in 1908, in the mountain province of Ifugao in 1909, at headquarters in Manila until August, 1910, then at San Fernando, La Union, Northern Luzon until July, 1911, and then again to headquarters in Manila last summer, when he was given a six months' furlough. Much of what he says as to the routine of the officers and the constabulary is a synopsis of his own experience.

He will return to duty this month. Less than thirty years old, his position well illustrates the avenues of advancement for young men of energy disposed to steadiness and industry and ambitious. In his judgment the operation of the Panama canal will lend much impetus to the interest felt in the Atlantic coast commercial centers in our far Eastern possessions.

"I have no doubt," said Captain Moore, "that newspaper readers are fully familiar with general conditions, political and military, in the islands, their location and physical characteristics. For instance, it may be remembered that the imports of these islands in the past fiscal year were $54,500,000 and the exports were $50,300,000; that these represented more than 12 per cent. increase in each over the preceding year; that 40 per cent. of the imports are from the United States, while four years before the percentage was but 20 per cent. The increase in copra, hemp, sugar and tobacco exports is remarkable and is increasing.

"There is an increasing proportion of the native residents becoming self-supporting and thrifty, more rice and cane lands are under cultivation, more attention paid by the natives to better home comforts and less to petty quarrels and indolence.

"Remarkable application is made in acquiring knowledge of the speech, manners and customs of the Americans. Gradually the sensitive suspicion of the various tribes are allayed by the strict justice meted to all, and the readiness of the American civil or military official to aid and trust the native in many spheres of activity.

"At present the Filipino is not ready for self-government, not having long experience in self-discipline in obedience to legal authority obtained in this and other highly civilized countries.

opinion as to the probable effect in the island of the great political change of the recent United States election, an editorial from the Manila Times of recent date may help to allay unnecessary apprehension of radical trouble.

"It says: 'In all ordinary circumstances the prospect of a change of administration at Washington would be expected to influence, if it did not adversely affect, business conditions. But nothing of the kind has happened. Manila buys and builds and rents and sells in full confidence that no result of the American election can adversely affect its future. No result at Washington can break the era of stability and order in the Philippines.'

"But it is of the constabulary and its work that I am most desirous to talk, for it is a subject with which I am most familiar. It is an organization of which but little is known outside of the islands, for a tacit rule of the command is 'silence and circumspection.' The chief or director is Brig. Gen. Harry H. Bandholtz of the United States army and four of the ten assistant directors are regular army colonels.

"The constabulary is in no way a part of the regular army. The executive head is the governor general of the Philippines and the immediate chief is the secretary of the insular department of commerce and police, to whom the director reports.

"The constabulary is a semi-military body for police service. Last July it included 333 commissioned officers from brigadier general to second lieutenant, and 4,489 enlisted men, divided among Manila headquarters, five district headquarters, an information department, medical division, a constabulary band and officers' school.

"There are 96 companies, each having three officers and 45 men. Except 50 Filipinos, now commissioned, all the officers are Americans. Several of the latter came to Manila with the volunteers in the 1893 campaign, some are of the regular army and still others come from civil life, transferred from the classified civil service. Some of the officers have had service or training at West Point, or Annapolis. Of late appointments have been confined to pupils of leading military schools of the States.

"The enlisted men are entirely Filipinos. Seven companies are from the Moros (Mahometans of Mindanao), three are of Bontoc (Igorrotes), two are of Ifugao, or wild men of Northern Luzon, and the rest are of Christian Filipinos from different parts of the islands. The constabulary do all sorts of public service, from entertaining mer from the States to establishing quarantines, fighting disease, relieving the poor, settling village disputes, giving official countenance to village functions, creating penal and medical stations, etc.

"The constabulary is well trained. Besides his drill in soldierly duties he is taught outlines of the penal code of the islands, the municipal code patrol and secret service work, different ways of getting information from natives, clear observation and equally clear reports thereon, the settlement of village disputes.

"The annual duty of a member of the constabulary staff forces him to learn many things not in any book of tactics. He may be one week a deep-sea navigator and then jump to mountain service. When on duty in coast towns in the lowlands he is used to travel on all sorts of native craft or modern motor boats; must know something of tides, and shore currents; must know all small coves or harbors of refuge; must know how to avoid upset in surf by backing to shore in his rowboat and prevent a smashed craft.

"The officers receive extra compensation for qualifying in a native dialect and this is a very important factor in his efficiency, for to be able to greet some old native in his native tongue adds much to the respect in which he is held by the natives.

"In such cases the native knows the officer better, trusts him quicker and sooner gives that confidence of control of the islands. The officer thus learns things and men he never could through an interpreter, and the native as quickly learns the former is his friend and protector so long as he is law-abiding and honest. He learns also to fear him if an evildoer.

"Hospitality is sacred among the Filipinos. An officer of the constabulary or an American who has occasion to travel anywhere may safely seek shelter and food at any Filipino home, whether at the home of the wealthy or humbler native, at the home of the country tao or an Ifugao chief. He will be given a place to sleep and as good food as your host has. In the home of the wealthy you literally command the owner and his servants if his guest.

"The poor man will literally kill his last chicken unless you stop him first for your meal, and when an Ifugao chief sees you coming down a trail to his hut he will run to meet you with a bottle of 'budud,' a native drink. What matter if it is covered with years of dust or half a dozen flies be floating on the top? It is the best he has. If you hesitate he will hurriedly drink first to assure you it is not poisoned.

"The Philippines are by no means a wild frontier flung across the Oriental edge of the Pacific ocean. There is, to be sure, a mixture of high and crude civilization, of varied variety fully as much as do the islands in topography, yet the firm, just rule of the American is accepted with an alacrity and confidence by the natives and resident foreigners alike that promises much for the splendid future of the islands and their people."

HOW TO CURE RHEUMATISM

Prominent Doctor's Best Prescription Easily Mixed at Home.

This simple and harmless formula has worked wonders for all who have tried it quickly curing chronic and acute rheumatism and backache. "From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them in a half pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed-time." Good results come after the first few doses. If your druggist does not have Toris compound in stock he will get it for you in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take a patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original one-ounce, sealed yellow package. This was published here last winter and hundreds of the worst cases were cured by it in a short time. Published by the Globe Pharmaceutical Laboratories of Chicago.

"Yes—but I don't enjoy my sleep."
"Ah—what disturbs you?"
"Nothing except I don't get any good out of sleeping. I go to sleep the minute I hit the bed and the minute I'm awake I have to get up. How can a fellow enjoy his sleep when he doesn't know it?"

Invalid Men and Women

I will give you FREE a sample of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets that have brought health and happiness to thousands—also a book on any chronic disease requested.

During many years of practice I have used numerous combinations of curative medicines for liver ills. I have kept a record of the result in case after case, so that my staff of physicians and surgeons, at the Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., are able to diagnose and treat cases at a distance with uniform good results.

But for the permanent relief of blood disorders and impurities, I can recommend my "Golden Medical Discovery," a blood medicine without alcohol or other injurious ingredients. R. V. PIERCE, M.D., Buffalo, N. Y.

Nature's Way Is The Best

Buried deep in our American forest we find bloodroot, queen's root, mandrake and stone root, golden seal, Oregon grape root and cherrybark. Of these Dr. R. V. Pierce made a pure glyceric extract which has been favorably known for over forty years. He called it "GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY." This "Discovery" purifies the blood and tones up the stomach and the entire system in Nature's own way. It's just the tissue builder and tonic you require.

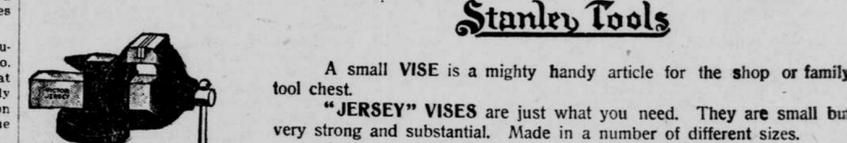

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has the endorsement of many thousands that it has cured them of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heartburn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

"In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption, the 'Golden Medical Discovery' is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hang-on-coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The 'Discovery' is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken."
