Ashton News

If you want your home protected from lightning with Geo. M. King lightning rods call on or phone to John Rewolinski, Ashton Nebraska. My price is right.

The St. Paul "College Lads," consisting mostly of the team called the Grays, came up May 27th headed by Mgr. Zocholl, one of the owners and Professors of the St. Paul College, to show Ashton a thing or two about a ball game. About the first thing they showed was that they didn't know much about the rules and that they were one of the best bunches of well developed sore headed beavers that ever attempted to play ball, including their manager who was not satisfied with his rag chewing game. He still wanted to pick up a fight after the game up town by insulting Ben Lorenz who umpired the game. Ben however dealt him a blow in the solar-plexus which put a quietus on his fighting blood. The rest of the evening the "College Lads" spent in a semi-intoxicated carousal about town, only the leniency of our marshal saving them from spending the night in the little red house. Their behavior was more degrading than we have ever seen pulled off by a ball team, and they were a "College Team" chaperoned by their Professor. They raised howls on decisions of the umpire when they had absolutely no kick com-

Opening Day at Jenner's Park, Tuesday, June 10th.

They wanted the umpire to call an infield fly when there was only one man on bases, kicked when the umpire called a man out for running 10 ft. out of the line to avoid being touched with the ball in the hands of the catcher, and raised an awful howl when the umpire called a man out that missed touching second base by 10 ft. in trying to make a home run in the sixth inning. Although they were one score ahead at this time they saw that they were up against a team that they couldn't handle so they would rather quit than take a beating. Mgr. Zocholl thought that he could run a bluff by refusing to play unless there was a change in umpires, but Capt. Davey called him so quick it made his head swim and gave him the privilege of naming an umpire to finish the game, and told him he could pick a man from his own team if he wished. He went as far as to pick for his umpire a man from Omaha that happened to be on the ground, but the streak of yellow in his team was so broad that his influence could not overcome it and they refused to play under any consideration, so the game had to be called 9 to 0 in favor of Ashton. Admission fees were returned to spectators who called for them and then Mgr. Zocholl had the nerve to demand $12.00 the amount they were to get for giving us a game. Then they went home and published in the St. Paul Phonograph, a dirty libelous article besmirching the umpire, the ball team, the management and the citizens of Ashton. That is the way Mgr. Zocholl advertises the St. Paul college, and when he comes around this summer canvassing he can expect all Ashton to boost for him.

G. L. Polski came down from Loup City to look after business while Mr. S. S. Polski is gone.

On Tuesday St. Paul would be college team composed of boys from 17 to 28 yrs., in age, some playing ball when Ashton was not on the map and today they are considered boys from the St. Paul college, came to Ashton to play ball with Ashton's pick up team, and as far as the game proceeded it was a good game and may have finished that way had St. Paul not found fault with the umpire as is usually the case with St. Paul. They quit playing ball during the sixth inning and refused to proceed on account of decision given by the umpire. The game at that time stood 2 to 1 in favor of St. Paul but as the game was not called in the sixth they, according to ruling, forfeit the game to Ashton's pick ups, 9 to 0. Both pitched a good game. Batteries for St. Paul, Alexander and Rogers for Ashton. Powel and Kwiatkowski. Umpire, Lorenz.
