The Northwestern for is and has been so busy the past two weeks, and will be for another week, with the county fair premium list that the paper has been more or less slighted in a news and editorial way. However, we hope to have the book ready for distribution the last of this week or early next week.

As was to be expected, the big black pug, Jack Johnson who escaped the toils of the law a short time since, and is now in Paris, France, with his white wife and negro servants, says he is not coming back to the United States, but will make his home abroad. It is certainly a good riddance of bad rubbish, but speaks badly for the authorities who let him escape his penitentiary sentence for white slavery.

Just at present a good deal of fun is being poked at Bryan who has stated that he will have to go on the lecture platform to argument his meagre salary of $1,000 a month as Secretary of state in order to pay his living expenses. And of course he does not want to dip into the half million dollars or more which he has already accumulated. But, phew! just think of Bryan not able to make expenses at $1,000 salary a month. Wow.

We have received on our exchange table Volume 1 No. 1 of the Nebraska Dental Journal, published by the Nebraska State Dental Society. It is a new venture in the field of literature by the society. It is edited by our popular dentist and townsman, Dr. S. A. Allen, D. D. S., and is a most creditable production from both a literary and typographical standpoint. We heartily congratulate the State Dental Society on its enterprise, and judging by the number before us, the society has been most wise in the selection of our enterprising young dentist as its editor, while we willingly acknowledge that we are surprised as well as exceeding pleased at the contents of the magazine, as well as the smoothness and accuracy of the expressed thoughts of its editor Dr. Allen has certainly entered a field of literary usefulness of which he is most worthy and talented.

Illness and Death of Wm. Cox

The reports from the bedside of Mr. Wm. Cox as late yesterday morning are to the effect that his condition is alarming and there is not one chance in a thousand for his ultimate recovery. His heart action had been successfully treated and he was getting along fine, when the past few days brain complications set in and in spite of the most strenuous endeavors of medical skill there seems to be no hope of his recovery and death may come at any moment or he may last several days.

LATER.—As we go to press this (Thursday) morning, we learn that Mr. Cox died at 5 o'clock. A short funeral service will be held at the home tomorrow, after which the body will be shipped to Aurora for burial.

Rumor has it that A. O. Lee, our popular pop merchant and proprietor of the Gem picture show is on a deal for the disposal of his business at this place to Chris Domgard which if it goes through will take Mr. Lee from us and to Broken Bow. where he will purchase the pop factory of Charley Mason and also one of the picture shows at that place. While we will be glad to have our young friend, Chris Domgard, back in business here, yet our people will regret losing Albert Lee from among our business men, and also regret the removal of himself and good family from our social circles. Here's hoping that Chris will come and that Albert will also stay with us.

L. Domgard of the new Loup City steam laundry, has received his steam ironing machinery, installed a gasoline engine and is now ready to receive any and all favors along the laundry lines from our people. It seems good to have a local laundry established here, and it is hoped our community will give Mr. Domgard a liberal patronage and keep it here. So far, Mr. Domgard is receiving very liberal encouragement, and we believe it will continue and increase correspondingly. The days for family washings are Tuesdays and Thursdays, and the boss of our household says she is well satisfied with the work he turns out, and we have known her to be pretty cranky along that line.

The friends of Clark Reynolds are just at present quizzing him about midnight shower baths. It seems that the other evening a lady friend went to the faucet at the J. P. Leininger home, where Clark is caretaker while the family is absent, and a piece of devilry gave her a shower bath from the hose. However, the lady bided her time and a few hours later, after Clark had got soundly asleep on the porch of the second story, the little lady secured the hose and suddenly the above joker was thoroughly submerged in a shower bath which played upon his sleeping quarters from the lawn below. And now Clark thinks that there are times when shower baths are not conducive to sound slumber.

The Successful Hostess.

I once knew a hostess who gave glorious parties with wonderful music, refreshments and flowers that transformed her home into Titania's court. But when this girl entertained there was always a long row of bashful boys who sat alone on a window seat, afraid to speak to any girl. This went on for two evenings, but at the third party a halt was called and the girl tried a new plan. She would go up to some blushing, painfully embarrassed boy, and showing him a book or a picture, would get him away from his mates. Then, after a pleasant chat she would leave him, reassured and confident and quite equal to conversing with the young girl whom the thoughtful hostess would leave in her own place. So this girl's parties were always successful, for every one had a marvelous time, even the girl herself, which sounds almost impossible unless you have tried her way. Her good time came to her because she knew that her guests were enjoying themselves.—Christian Herald.

Jury Knew Him.

The jury of mountaineers that returned the quaint verdict reported in the Boston Journal were evidently more impressed by the evidence in the case than by the character of the defendant.

The trial was held in a sparsely settled district of West Virginia. It was the first case for the majority of the members of the jury, and they sat for hours arguing and disputing in the bare little room at the rear of the court-room. At last they straggled back to their places, and the foreman, a lean, gaunt fellow with a solemn countenance, announced the verdict.

"The jury don't think that he done it for we allow he wa'n't there, but we think he would have done it if he'd had the chance."—Youth's Companion.

Glacier National Park Newly Revealed Wonderland

This region of majestic, glacier-capped mountains—the climax of the rugged grandeur of the Rockies—is reached by the Great Northern Railway from Glacier Park Station, at which point the Railway Company has constructed a hundred thousand dollar hotel. An automobile road has been built from this station to the interior of the Park. A detour of from one to four days can be made at the very moderate cost of from $10 to $25, including hotels, automobiles, launches and coaches, covering distances of from forty to one hundred and fifty miles.

As all hotel and transportation arrangements in the Park are under the supervision of the Great Northern Railway Company, the comfort and enjoyment of tourists is assured. In making a tour of the Pacific Coast, a tour into Glacier Park will prove to be one of the most interesting features.
