Steen-Frock Nuptials

One of the prettiest, most up-to-date and largest attended weddings ever in this city was that at the Methodist church Wednesday morning, when before the church full of relatives and friends of the contracting parties, invited guests for the happy occasion, Mr. Wm. Steen and Miss Mary Nettie Frock, daughter of Mrs. Clementine Conger, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The pulpit and front body of the church, which latter was reserved for relatives and out-of-town guests, were nicely decorated in white and gold, while a beautiful bower screen of ferns, sweet peas, gerani- and asters completely hid the Piano and accompanist from view at the west end of the rostrum. At a few moments past the hour of 10 o'clock, to the sweet tones of the piano, with Miss Winne Outhouse at the keys, Mrs. Lou Schwamer sang the beautiful solo, "Oh, Promise Me." As the solo closed, the piano pealed forth a joyous wedding march, the folding doors swung open and the bridal pair, passed up the main aisle to the rostrum, preceded by the officiating clergyman, Dr. Leeper, and ushers, Messrs. D. Zimmerman, Clark Reynolds, Tennis Biemond and Clark Leschinski, and the Misses Hat- tie Hayhurst, Frances Sweetland and Florence and Mabel Depew, in pairs, who paused in front of the pulpit, allowing the principals to pass through and on the rostrum, where in a few moments the charmingly costumed bride and groom were united for life. At the close of the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Steen stationed themselves at the northeast corner of the rostrum, where they received the felicitations of the assembled friends. The bride was charmingly costumed in a beautiful creation of crepe me- teor, with over drapery of brocaded chameuse, wore a veil of white tulle and carried a bouquet of white roses. The groom wore the conventional black. The bride is one of Loup City's best and most popular young ladies, and for the past number of years has taught the primary department of our city schools with the greatest credit to herself and to the complete satisfaction of patrons and of the various boards of education by whom she has always been unanimously se- lected, and her absence from educa- tional work will be keenly regretted, while wishing her all joy in her small and more select school. The groom is a splendid young man and has made hosts of friends during the few years he has handled the Standard Oil Co.'s business at this point. The best wishes of our people are with them as they journey through life. The out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hastings, Mr. and Mrs. George Kinsey and Mr. Cum- mins, all of Arcadia; Mr. Henry Win- slow of Kennesaw, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Steen, also of Kennesaw; Mrs. C. D. Dennis of Valparaiso, Neb.; Miss Ida Snyder of Philadelphia; Mrs. J. Wilson and daughter of Arcadia, and Cashius Conger of Danneberg. A reception was given in the evening at the home of the bride's moth- er, Mrs. Clementine Conger, to the relatives, out-of-town guests and a few of the more intimate friends. Frappee and wafers, and ice cream and cake was served.
