Women of Middle Age

From 40 to 50 Woman's Critical Period.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, severe headaches, melancholia, dread of impending evil, palpitation of the heart, irregularity, constipation and dizziness are promptly treated by intelligent women who are approaching the period of life.

This is the most critical period of woman's life and she who neglects the care of her health at this time invites incurable disease and pain. - Why not be guided by the experience of others and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It is an indisputable fact that this grand old remedy has helped thousands of women to pass through this trying period with comfort and safety. Thousands of genuine and honest testimonials support this fact.

From Mrs. HENRY HEAVILIN, Cadiz, Ohio.

Fort Worth, Texas. - "I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and derived great benefit from its use. It carried me safely through the Change of Life when I was in bad health. I had that all gone feeling most of the time, and headache constantly, I was very nervous and the hot flashes were very bad. I had tried other remedies and doctors, but did not improve until I began taking Lydia. E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has now been sometime since I took the Compound and I have had no return of my old complaints. I always praise your remedies to weak women."—Mrs. Henry Heavilin, R. F. D. No. 5, Cadiz, Ohio.

From Mrs. EDWARD B. HILBERT, Fleetwood, Pa.

Fleetwood, Pa.—"During the Change of Life I was hardly able to be around at all. I always had a headache and I was so dizzy and nervous that I had no rest at night. The flashes of heat were so bad sometimes that I did not know what to do.

"One day a friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me a strong, well woman. I am very thankful that I followed my friend's advice, and I shall recommend it. as long as I live. Before I took the Compound I was always sickly and now I have not had medicine from a doctor for years. You may publish my letter."—Mrs. EDWARD B. HILBERT, Fleetwood, Pa.

From Mrs. F. P. MULLENDORE, Munford, Ala. Munford, Ala.—"I was so weak and nervous while passing through the Change of Life that I could hardly live. My husband had to nail rubber on all the gates for I could not stand to have a gate slam.

"I also had backache and a fullness in my stomach. I noticed that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was advertised for such cases and I sent and got a bottle. It did me so much good that I kept on taking it and found it to be all you claim. I recommend it to all women afflicted as I was."—Mrs. F. P. MULLEN-DORE, Munford, Ala.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.
(CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice.
Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Pleasing the Public. "Most popular district attorney New York ever had.' "How so?"

"Always timed his gambling house raids to accommodate the theater it all right." crowds.

Important to Mothers
Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it Bears the Signature of Chart Flitchers.

In Use For Over 30 Years. Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

Buying a Bird. "This canary is a German bird, madam: a great singer." "I don't know," murmured the bride doubtfully. "Will he sing in

Why Old Backs Ache

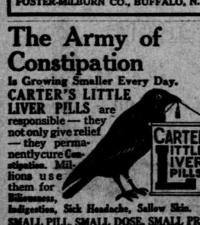

What a pity that so many persons past What a pity that so many persons past middle age are worried with lame backs, aching kidneys, poor eyesight, sick head-ache, dizziness, gravel, dropsy or dis-tressing urinary ills. Kidney weakness brings these discomforts in youth or age and is a dangerous thing to neglect, for it poisoning. Doan's Kidney Pills have brought new strength to thousands of lame backs—have rid thousands of annoying urinary trouble

> An Arkansas Case C. A. Rendricks

my kidneys were weakened. I suffered a great deal from kidney disorder and I had gravel. I took all kinds of medicine, but found no re-lief until I used Doan's Kidney

DOAN'S HIDNEY
FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N.Y.

MALL PILL, SMALL DOSE, SMALL PRICE

Naturally Qualified. "Why can't they get along with that stock?" "It wouldn't hold water."

"Then they ought to be able to floa:

Miss Helen Travers, the presiden of the Bachelor Girls' club of Duluth said in a toast, "The Men," at the club's nineteenth anniversary: "And now we come to the man as vided into two classes—he whose meals disagree with him, and he who disagrees with his meals."

Alert Censor.

While Abdul Hamid was still upon the thone of Turkey, the president of the American Missionary college at Tarsus sent to New York for a large consignment of textbooks. In due time all except the chemistries came safely. At first the president could not find out what was the matter, but finally the commissioner of the port sent for him. "Christian," he said, sternly, "it is not for you to complain. It is for you to give thanks to Allah that you did deadly ciphers could we read, but this is plain even to the eye of a babe." Pointing to the symbol H2O, he read with triumphant air and voice, "Hamid Second is Nothing!"-Youth's Com-

Which Brings Daily Enjoyment.

A lady doctor writes: affairs, I will not deny myself the pleasure of taking a few minutes to tell of my enjoyment daily obtained from my beverage, not an irritant like coffee.

morning cup of Postum. It is a food not because I wanted to, but because coffee, which I dearly loved, made my nights long, weary periods to be dread-ed and unfitting me for business during

"On advice of a friend, I first tried Postum, making it carefully as suggested on the package. As I had alused 'cream and no sugar.' mixed my Postum so. It looked good, was clear and fragrant, and it was a pleasure to see the cream color it as my Kentucky friend wanted her coffee to look—'like a new saddle.' "Then I tasted it critically, for I had tried many 'substitutes' for coffee. I was pleased, yes, satisfied with my Postum in taste and effect, and am yet, eing a constant user of it all these ears. I continually assure my friends and acquaintances that they will like it in place of coffee, and receive benefit from its use. I have gained weight, can sleep and am not nervous."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Write for the little book,
"The Road to Wellville."
Postum comes in two forms:

of employment and sought work about the docks. They were met, accord A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. Grocers sell both kinds, "There's a reason" for Postum.

Fran arrives at Hamilton Gregory's home in Littleburg, but finds him absent conducting the choir at a camp meeting. She repairs thither in search of him laughs during the service and is asked t leave. Abbott Ashton, superintendent of schools, escorts Fran from the tent. He tells her Gregory is a wealthy man, deeply interested in charity work, and a pillar of the church. Ashton becomes greatly interested in Fran and while taking leave of her, holds her hand and is seen by Sapphira Clinton, sister of Robert Clinton, chairman of the school board. Fran tells Gregory she wants a home with him. Grace Noir, Gregory's private secretary, takes a violent dislike to Fran and advises her to go away at once. Fran hints at a twenty-year-old secret, and Gregory in agitation asks Grace to leave the room. Fran relates the story of how Gregory married a young girl at Springfield while attending college and then deserted her. Fran is the child of that marriage, Gregory had married his present wife three years before the death of Fran's mother. Fran takes a liking to Mrs. Gregory. Gregory explains that Fran is the daughter, of a very dear friend who is dead. Fran agrees to the story. Mrs. Gregory, insists on her making her home with them and takes her to her arms. Fran declares the secretary must go, Grace begins nagging tactics in an effort to drive Fran from the Gregory home. Abbott, while taking a walk alone at midnight, finds Fran on a bridge telling her fortune by cards. She tells Abbott that she is the famous lion tamer, Fran Nonparell. She tired of circus life and sought a home. Grace decides to ask Bob Clinton to go to Springfield to investigate Fran's story. Fran offers her services to Gregory as secretary during the temporary absence of Grace. The latter, hearing of Fran's purpose, returns and interrupts a touching scene between father and daughter. Grace tells Gregory she intends to marry Clinton and declares that Grace must leave the house at once. To Gregory's consternation he learns of Clinton's mission to Springfiel their cramped quarters swift as tawny arrows. They were almost against the slight figure, without seeming to protested, shuddering again. observe her. For the fourth time since their bodies unconfined by galling tim- she'll try it—we'd better stand a little speaks, or cries aloud, will bers and chilling iron. For the fourth farther back." time this day, they were to be put through their tricks by force of fear. the small cages in which they could ment, "You went to Gregory's house not lash their tails. They hated the baby carriage" in which one was presently to sit, while the other pushed him over the floor, his sullen majesty sport for the rabble. They hated the board upon which they must see-saw, while the woman stood in the middle, preserving equilibrium.

CHAPTER XXIII.-Continued.

But greater than the lion's hatred. was their fear of the woman; and husband. Man as husband may be di- greater than their fear of her was their terror of that long serpent which, no matter how far it might dart through space, remained always in the woman's hand. They well knew its venomous bite, and as they slunk from side to side, their eyes were upon place!" its coiling black tongue.

"I met Fran on the street," murmured Abbott, as he watched, unblinkingly. "She said she was going to visit a sick friend. When did you see Fran last, Simon?"

"Don't know," Simon said, discouragingly. "Now they're going to seesaw. The black-maned one is the hardest to manage. I reckon, one day, he'll just naturally jump afoul of her, and tear her to pieces. Look at him! not follow your diabolical books into the flames. Here is one copy that we make him get up on top of that board. saved for a witness. Not all of its My! how he is showing his teeth at her. Say! This is a pretty good show, hey? Glad you came, uh? Say! Look at his teeth!"

In truth, the black-maned lion opened his mouth to a frightful extent, making, however, not the slightest sound. He refused to budge.

Abbott shuddered "Samson!" cried the woman, impellingly. The other lion was patiently standing on his end of the board, Though busy hourly with my own waiting. He seemed fast asleep. Samson, however, was wide awake and every cruel tooth was exposed as he eyes was the glow of molten copper.

JOHN BRECKENRIDGE ELLIS ILLUSTRATIONS BY O · IRWIN · MYERS (COPYRIGHT 1912 BOBBS-MERRILL CO.) and made a rush for his end of the from between his teeth. Having res- | whispering sound of the silken mask, sec-saw. He stepped upon it. He was cued her whip, she shouted to the oth- as it struck the plank floor of the conquered. His haste to obey, evidently the result of fear and hatred, Hercules-back to your place!" produced a ripple of laughter. The She stood pointing sternly toward ror-"it's Fran!" suddenly and twitched his tail. He watching her covertly. was not asleep, after all.

Abbott found himself intensely nervanxious, above all, to prove his fears groundless. Yet how were so many scream-"Up, Samson, up, Samsoncoincidences to be explained away? up!" Fran had been a show-girl, a trainer of bered that she had spoken of a "Samand this height. He missed Fran's come as one short sharp note of demellow voice, but voices may be dis- fiance; it rose and fell, then rose anew, guised; and the hands now raised to- varying in the inflections of the voice friend" that Fran had possibly mentioned only as an excuse for escaping? Was that a subterfuge? And why this red mask which, according to Simon Jefferson, was an innovation?

At every trick, the black-maned lion tragedy was in the air. balked.

When the time came for the clown care, lest the slightest deviation from of the general alarm. routine work bring catastrophe. Nothing had gone right but the see-sawing me!" she panted hysterically. act; but of all this, the crowd was ig-

After the violin playing-"Now." Sicorker, let me tell you-that's why tionless, or I am lost." she's resting a minute. La Gonizetti The show-girl was fastened in the tends to ride like a cowboy. Calls her-sively. central cage. The clowns raised the self a rough rider. Makes Samson inner doors, and the Hons shot from get on top of that table, then she gets on top of him.'

"But this isn't La Gonizetti," Abbott

They hated these tricks, as they hated Clinton, harsh from smothered excite-

-did you see him?" Abbott did not hear. The refractory lion, knowing that his time had come to be ridden, was asserting his independence. He would not leap upon the table. The other lion stood watching sleepily to see if he would obey.

"That you, Clinton?" Simon's greeting was tense with enjoyment. "Got here for the best of it didn't you! Seems to me I saw Gregory somewhere not long ago, but I wasn't thinking about him."

"Hercules!" the masked woman addressed the gentler of the lions. "Go to your place. Hercules-go to your Hercules turned to his blue box and seated himself upon it, leaving his tail to take care of itself. The show-girl was fiercely address ing the black-maned lion, "Now! Now! To the table! To the table!"

Samson did not budge. Facing the woman of the mask, he opened his mouth, revealing the red cave of his throat-past the ivory sentinels that not only stood guard, but threatened, one could look down and down. This was no yawn of weariness, but a sign of rebellion—a sort of noiseless roar.

The trainer retreated to the farther side of the cage, then made a forward rush, waving her whip, and shouting clangorously, "Up, Samson, up Samson, up!" She did not pause in her course till close to his face.

Again he opened his mouth, baring every tooth, voiceless, but unconquered.

Hercules, finding that affairs had come to a halt, slowly descended from his box, keeping his half-opened eyes upon the woman. Restlessly he began to pace before the outer door. The slight figure withdrew several Suddenly Samson wheeled about, snapped at the lash. It slipped away never ceased to rumble from afar, the "There they are!"

They say that they met a Swede on

The three were asked to sign shipping papers, but the Swede refused to sign until he had read them. This

The young men say that they were given about $3 worth of clothing and put aboard the ship. Then they learned that they were bound for Hamburg instead of Boston, but were forced to work. When the steamer reached the other side of the Atlantic the young men went to Consul General Skinner at Hamburg and lodged their complaint. Mr. Skinner the Swede unconscious.

er lion: "Back to your place, Hercules. | cage, was distinctly audible.

other lion, feeling the sudden tremor the box, but Hercules stretched himof Samson's weight, opened his eyes self across the place of exit and lay The faces of the band boys had become of a yellowish paleness. ous. He longed to have it all over, From behind the mask came the

Then it was that Samson found his ward the audience may have been of a slave who dares to threaten, fears stained dark. Who was that "sick even while he threatens, and gathers God!" passion from his fear.

At that fearful reverberation, the audience started up, panic-stricken. ed as a badly-played comedy; now her.

Gregory and Grace Noir at that instant, became alive to their surroundto hand the woman her violin he was ings. Hitherto, despising the show, reafraid, and withdrew his arm with bellious at the destiny which had the justice of heaven. marvelous rapidity. His grotesque dis- forced them to attend it, they had guise could not hide his genuine un- been wholly absorbed in their efforts easiness. The members of the band, to escape observation. The roaring of her waist, in so much that it was a too, played their notes with unusual the lion startled them to a perception physical exertion to hold her face up- given you my-myself-"

Grace clung to Gregory. "Oh, save

The voice of the woman behind the mon Jefferson announced, gleefully, but singularly penetrating. "Sit down, "there's only one more act, but it's a all of you, and remain absolutely mo-gets astride of Samson-the one that's cheeks pallid, leaned her head upon in her ear, soothingly, "everything will be all right."

The masked woman for the second time addressed the terrified audience, "Now you've said something. That's still not venturing to turn her head in noon they stood erect, sniffing the air. right. But it looks like she's game—their direction: "Whoever moves, or derer. I have only one hope left, and A hand was laid upon Abbott's arm. I'm going to try it now. I ask you "Abbott," said the voice of Robert people out there to give me just this one chance for my life. Keep absolute ly still."

Again Samson uttered his terrible roar. It alone was audible, Tier above neighboring hands! The spectators feet heroes. Yes, thank you. tier, faces rose to the tent-roof, white and set. The audience was like one huge block of stone in which only faces have been carved.

The penetrating voice addressed the band boys: "Don't play. He can tell mane, and lying along the lion's back you're frightened."

The agitated music ceased. therest side of the inclosure. In doing so she was obliged to pass the to their cramped side cages was a crouching (form of Hercules, but she pretended not to know he was there; she moved slowly backward, always At last the vertical bars prevented farther retreat. Then she lifted her hand slowly, steadily, and drew off her stretched his mouth. In his amber steps, then smote the rebellious lion a crimson mask. It dropped at her feet. denly grasped Robert Clinton's hand, sharp blow across the mouth. He Despite the muffled street-noises that and pointed toward the tent-roof. if to penerate his inmost thoughts.

"Grace!" Gregory whispered in hor-

Grace started from his embrace at the name and glared down upon the stage. She sat erect, unsupported, Gregory's brow was moistened with voice so loud that it sounded as a bled, "it's Fran! Grace-pray for her!" Fran looked Samson steadily in the eyes, and Samson glared back fixedly. me to go to Mr. Clinton?" For a few moments, this quiver belions, and Abbott distinctly remem- voice. A mighty roar shook the loose- tween life and death remained at the body asleep. There was neither sound nor movement.

Grace whispered-"It is the hand of Her tone was almost inaudible, but blow; its sinister meaning was unmis- me to marry Mr. Clinton?" Hitherto, the last act had been regard- takable. Swiftly he turned to stare at

In Grace's eyes was a wild and ominous glare akin to that of the threatening lion. It was a savage conviction You do not care-for me?" that Fran was at last confronted by Suddenly Fran crouched forward till her head was almost on a level with lifted. In this sinuous position she felt misgivings concerning this last gerously: "I saw murder in your heart her direction unerring.

To the beast, Fran had become one of those mysterious flying serpents "There, there," Gregory whispered as if feeling for his heart.

Rushing up to his very face-"Samson!" she cried, impellingly. Again he seemed to feel the lash upon his tawny skin. -up!

and leaped upon the table. Fran stamped her foot at the other lion. "Go to your place, Hercules!"

she cried, with something like con-Hercules slowly rose, stretched himself, then marched to his box. He Samson waiting upon the table, then mounted to his place, and seemed to

And now, at last, Fran looked at the bars, she threw kisses this way and betraving. that, smiling radiantly. "Oh!" she cried, with vibrating earnestness, 'you people out there-you can't think how I love you! You've saved my life. You are perfect heroes. Now make all the noise you please."

"May we move?" called a cautious Abbott Ashton, with eyes like stars. Fran looked at him, wondering at his thoughts. She answered by an upward movement of her hand. As though by a carefully rehearsed arrangement, the audience rose to its feet, band boys and all. Such a shout! Such waving of hats and handkerinarticulateness-such graspings of had gone mad with joyful relief Fran leaped upon the table, and nounted Samson. "Now, I'm a rough rider!"

shouted, burying her hands in the in true cowboy fashion. She plunged, she shouted loudly, but Samson only Then the woman walked to the far- closed his eyes and seemed to sleep. After that, making the lions return > mere detail. The show was ended. Fran, remaining in the empty cage, stood at the front, projecting her hand through the bars to receive the greetings of the crowd. Almost every one wanted to shake hands with her.

"Look, look!" Simon Jefferson sud-

Something very strange had pened up there, but it was lost to Clinton's keen jealous gaze-one of those happenings in the soul, which. however momentous, passes unobserved in the midst of the throng.

"Not so fast!" Grace cautioned Gregory. "We must wait up here till the very last-don't you see Mr. Clinton? And Simon Jefferson is now pointing us out. We can't go down that way-"

"We!" Gregory harshly echoed. "We! I have nothing to do with you. a chilled dew. "It's Fran," he mum- Grace Noir. Go to him, if you will." Grace turned ashen pale. "What do you mean?" she stammered. "You tell "I tell you to go where you please

That girl yonder is my daughter, do ly-set bars of the central cage—they breaking point. Had a stranger at you understand? Don't hold me back! son." Fran had just these movements vibrated visibly. The roar did not that moment looked under the tent- I shall go to her and proclaim her as entrance, he might have thought every- my child to the world. Do you hear me? That's my Fran!" Grace shrank back in the suspicion that Hamilton Gregory had gone mad like the rest of the crowd. "Do you mean that you never want to see me Gregory shrank as from a mortal again? Do you mean that you want

"I do not care what you do," he said, still more roughly.

"You do not care?" she stammered, bewildered. "What has happened? She looked deep into his eyes, but found no incense burning there. The shrine was cold. "Mr. Gregory! And after all that has passed between us? After I have Gregory seized her arm, as if to hold was the embodiment of power. If she her off. His eyes were burning dan-resource, there was no look to betray while you were watching Fran." he bars rang throughout the tent-"Sit it. Straight toward Samson she whispered fiercely. "That's my daughdown!" The voice was not loud, now, rushed, her body lithe and serpentine, ter, do you understand? I know you now, I know you now. Grace stared after him with bloodless cheeks and smoldering eyes. Grace Noir, her eyes closed, her which bite from afar. He felt the Clearly, she decided, the sight of sting of her terrible eyes and his gaze Fran's fearful danger had unbalanced mad-and grabs his mane, and pre- Gregory's shoulder, quivering convul- grew shifty. It wandered away, and, his mind. But how could he care so on returning, found her teeth bared, much about that Fran? And how could he leave her, knowing that Robert Chinton was beginning to climb upward with eyes fastened upon her face? But it was not the sight of Fran's

"Samson. Up, Samson, up, Samson danger that had for ever alienated Gregory from Grace Noir. In an inas an unlovely monster. His sensitive nature, always abnormally alive to outward impressions, had thrilled responsively to the exultation of the audience. He had endured the agony of suspense, he had shared the universal enthusiasm. If, in a sense, he was a looked from Fran to the immovable series of moods, each the result of blind impulse, it so happened that Grace's hiss-"It's the hand of God," turned his love to aversion; she was appealing as a justification of personspectators. Stepping lightly to the al hatred, to the God they were both

Grace began to tremble as she watched Robert Clinton coming up. and Hamilton Gregory descending. She had trusted foolishly to a broken reed, but it was not too late to preserve the good name she had been about to besmirch. The furnace-heat voice from a few feet away. It was in which rash resolves are forged, was cooled. Gregory had deserted Fran's mother; he was false to Mrs. Gregory; he would perhaps have betrayed Grace in the end; but Clinton was at hand. and his adoration would endure.

In the meantime, the voice of Fran was to be heard above that of the happy crowd: "I love you all. You chiefs! Such unabashed sobs! Such helped me do it. I should certainly have been mangled but for you per-Yes, I feel fine. . . . And, oh, men and women, I could just feel your spirits holding mine up till I was so high-I was in the clouds. That's what subdued Samson. He knew I wasn't afraid. He knew it! And I wanted to win out for your sakes as well as my own-yes I did! Thank you men. Thank you, women. . . . Well, if here aren't the children, toobless your brave hearts! . . . And is that your baby? My goodness, and what a baby it is! . . . No, I'm not a bit tired-She stopped suddenly, on feeling a crushing grip. She looked down, a frown forming on her brow, but the sun shone clear when she saw Abbott Ashton. She gaye him a swift look, as (TO BE CONTINUED.)

Men Who Were Shanghaled From Norfolk, Va., Seek Satisfaction From Authorities.

The days of the oyster pirates and old wind jammers were recalled when Walter McGirth, son of a North Carolina farmer, and Ebert Cocran, son of a former Pittsburg banker, told how they had been changhaied at the point of a pistol and forced to work their way as seamen to Hamburg when they thought that they were going to ship to Boston, says the Philadelphia Times. ling the case and a deputy United States marshal, accompanied by the two men, is on the way to Norfolk to arrest the agent who shipped them.

The two young men met last Nov-ember in Norfolk, Va. Both were out sent them back to this country to make their complaint to the immigra-

LIKE PIRATE DAYS OF OLD told that the ship was bound for Bos | the new, long, upstanding plumes | IRVING WAS NOT ALL MIND ton. They accompanied the agent to adorning her new small hats, finds the task of reconciling her meadgear with her way of getting around rather temthe way and he consented to go along. per-trying.

If she only had to lower her haughty crest and butt into her car like a goat at a cat, it would be only angered the agent, who is alleged to temporary inconvenience. Once in. have drawn a revolver and knocked the plume is again in the way of the roof, and must either be injured or tender." The late Henry Labouchere its wearer's head must be bowed as if in grief for the whole of the jour-the top of cars for hat trimmings to quently selfish and in many ways ingo through in fine weather. These might be regarded in the light of roof art to find the mind's construction in After all, knights of old wore their mes above closed visors!-London

English Actor One of the Most Lov able of Men, According to Lifelong Associate.

It has been said of Irving that he lacked feeling, that he was all mind Ellen Terry said: "He is gentle, not wrote of him that "he was always acting." Greater errors could not have been made. Irving knew enough of human nature to know that it is frefirm, and he realized that "there is no gradens or roof feather farms, and the face," but, essentially, he was one would surely enhance the appearance of the most loving and lovable of men when and where he fully trusted. He was singularly sensitive to kindness, and any little token of rememto their story, by an alleged crew shipping agent, who offered to book them on the steamer Dortmund of the Hamburg-American line, which was lying at the docks. The young men were at the docks. The young men were at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. The young men were at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. The young men were at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. The young men were at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. The young men were at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was lying at the docks. They only the day are not suit-burg-American line, which was largely Miss Jones (coyly)—Well, that can he did not "wear his heart upon his ple, but I think we'd better include ?

persons. He had suffered much, and he was lonely to the last. He was one of the most intellectual persons that ever trod the stage, but those who knew him best could testify that his sympathy was as wide as the widest experience of mankind and as deep as the deepest feelings of compassion and tenderness that ever possessed the human heart.-William Winter, in Collier's Weekly.

A charming story about William Dean Howells was told at the Thursday Evening club by a poet. "When Gilbert and Sullivan," the poet said, were touring America together I met Gilbert at a dinner, and he asked me about Mr. Howells' books, in which he was much interested. Among other things I said to him: 'Mr. Howells' story of "Their Wedding Journey" is brance that reached him from a very popular. Few young couples set friendly hand, if it were only a trifle- off on their honeymoon nowadays without including a copy with their luggage.' 'Well,' said Mr. Gilbert, 'Suiwith a gratitude almost pathetic. But livan and I are not a very young cou-