When Gov. Morehead was running for governor and after his re-election he proclaimed that outside of his salary he would not accept a cent from the state; would pay all his own household and traveling expenses, etc. But we notice that after supplying his own coal bills for the governor's mansion one winter he is ready to let the state pay for the coal the coming winter and the state has already ordered the necessary black diamonds for the mansion for this winter. His virtuous intentions could not go so far as coal bills after one try-out.

Statements showing the average daily deposits of state banks for the last six months of the present year are to be asked for by the state banking board within a few days. In the letter asking for later filing of the information the board will set out that "where a bank does not have sufficient amount of net earnings to meet its guaranty assessment the shareholders must be assessed in proportion to their holdings, as neither capital nor surplus should be reduced for that purpose.

Mrs. Pankhurst, the English militant suffragist, who finished her campaign in the United States and returned to England, was arrested just as the liner reached port and was put in jail. That's the difference in the way they do things across the water and here in the United States. Here she has freedom and a chance to line her pockets with American dollars. Come back, Emeline.

A bookkeeper for a firm in New York City was sentenced to Sing Sing the other day, for a term not less than two and a half years nor more than four years and eight months for stealing $50,000. If he had stolen $100 he would very likely have been sentenced to half that time at least. But this is the era of big things. No wonder socialism is on the increase.

From a large number of our exchanges we notice exceptions to Bryan's endorsement of Talbot for re-election to the head of the Modern Woodman fraternity. We do not know of a member of the order here who would vote for his re-election. He has almost wrecked the order here at least.

Big headline dispatches in the dailies tell of President Wilson having a slight cold and confined to his bed. Bah! Most of us can have a cold and "sneeze our darned heads off," and nothing thought of it. Its a big thing to be president.

Housewives of New York, Chicago, and even as near home as Omaha, have started an eggless campaign to freeze out the egg combine. And the market quotations on eggs immediately following showed a decline of 2 to 3 cents. 'Rah for the women.

Down in the Argentine republic the other day, Teddy Roosevelt was made a present of an Argentine horse. And now the dailies will have food for some big articles about it.

Denver had two feet of snow and a general blockade of traffic last Thursday, continuing for ten hours.

ALTER PIERCING A WALL STRAY BULLET CUTS WOMAN'S HEAD

A stray bullet passed through the side of the house, a window glass, a lace curtain and struck Mrs. Ray Alters a glancing blow on the top of the head, at Ansley last Thursday evening. It spent itself against the wall of the room and fell to the floor where it was not found until a doctor had been called to probe for the bullet in the woman's head. Mrs. Alters was stunned for a moment but beyond a slight scalp wound received no injury. Mr. Alters and a baby were in the room at the time. The bullet entered the house through the wall at the edge of the window, leaving the wall at the window and piercing the glass. It was a high caliber rifle and no estimate can be placed on the distance from which it was fired. An effort has been made to locate the person who was responsible but was unsuccessful.
