Parker, S. D., Dec 6, 1902.
To whom it may concern:
I have used L. K. for my hogs and can cheerfully recommend it to be all that is claimed, a thorough germ and worm destroyer and a good appetizer.

Eugene Field's
Views on Ambition and Dyspepsia.

"Dyspepsia," wrote Eugene Field, "often incapacitates a man for endeavor and sometimes extinguishes the fire of ambition." Though great despite his complaint Field suffered from indigestion all his life. A weak, tired stomach can't digest your food. It needs rest. You can only rest it by the use of a preparation like Kodol, which relieves it of work by digesting your food. Rest soon restores it to its normal tone.

The Daily Bee of Monday gave an account of the sad death by drowning in the Missouri river, that day at Omaha, of Master Gustave Oltman, seven-year-old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Oltman of this place. The little fellow ventured on thin ice which gave way, precipitating him into the water. His little brother and sister narrowly escaped the same fate while bravely trying to save him, but were rescued by a nearby workman. What made it the more sad was the serious illness of the father, Henry Oltman, with typhoid fever. Deep sympathy is with the bereaved family.
