Who Wrote Mother Goose?
Many people are under the impres-nursery rhymes were written by some old housewife. This is a mistake. The real author was a scholar of learning the first members of the French academy. He died in 1703, and though it is over two hundred years ago, his tales still live. May the fairies ever

The junior base ball club of Loup City went down to Ashton last Saturday local item in our paper at an early date reading something like this: "Thanks at intervals of say twenty-four hours apart. Thanks in advance for the courtesy or courtesies.

Our base ball nine journeyed to Loup City Wednesday to wipe the Loup City nine off the earth, but they wouldn't play. When nine innings had been played, it was found that our boys had two, yet two scores to their credit while the other fellows had four. As this makes one game each has won, the third game will be played here before long.—Loyalist.

Jas. Rentrow gave us a pleasant call last Saturday. He is fully cured of his cancerous affection and is down hard at work as if nothing had been wrong. He was busy cutting his alfalfa last week, of which he has an elegant stand. A distressing little accident occurred, while cutting alfalfa last Friday. His little girl had a pet dog which she took out to the field and the little canine getting in front of the mower had all four legs off. Mr. Rentrow with his 300 pounds avoidupois and 6 feet 2 inches of massive frame, was as tender hearted as a child over the accident and had to send for a neighbor to dispatch the little sufferer.

Prominent Citizen Passes Away Last Friday afternoon witnessed the demise of one of Loup City's oldest, most prominent and respected citizens and business men, Dr.
C. J. Odendahl, of the firm of Oden-dahl Bros., druggists. Dr. Oden-dahl had been a severe sufferer from a chronic disease for many years and for a number of months had been a confirmed invalid, completely incapacitated for business. His death came not unexpected either to himself or to his family and the community at large, but the grief was none the less poignant, and an entire community deeply sympa-thizes with the grief-stricken family in the death of a loving husband and father. The funeral took place Sunday afternoon at the residence, in charge of the Masonic fraternity, of which he was an honored member, the Eastern Star, United Workmen and Degree of Honor orders, to which he also belonged, turning out to pay their last respects. These orders were augmented in numbers by hundreds of friends and neighbors, making by far the largest funeral ever occurring in Loup City, among those in attendance being delegations from Litchfield, Arcadia and the surrounding country. The services were held on the beautiful lawn in front of the residence, Rev.
Madely preaching a beautiful discourse, a quartet composed of the Mesdames Mellor and Holcombe and Messrs. Mellor and Smith rendering sweet and touching anthems.
Not in years have we seen such elegant floral tributes, nor in such profusion, the casket being banked with wreaths, society emblems, etc., a photograph of the same being taken by Artist Draper at request of the family. The Masonic fraternity took entire charge of the ceremonies at the cemetery, where the form was laid to rest with their beautiful realistic burial service. The poor tortured body is through with suffering and now rests in peace. So mote it be.
