Chicago Society Woman Who Was So Sick She Could Not Sleep or Eat, Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

MARION Knight, of 35 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ontario of the West Side Wednesday Club, says: 'This winter when I started to use Doan's Kidney Pills I ached in every bone and had intense pains in the kidneys and pelvic organs. The urine was thick and cloudy and I could barely eat enough to live. I felt a change for the better within a week. The second week I began eating heartily. I began to improve generally and before seven weeks had passed I was well. I had spent hundreds of dollars for medicine that did not help me, but $6 worth of Doan's Kidney Pills restored me to perfect health.'

Steam Turbine for Pumps. The steam turbine principle has been adapted to a centrifugal high-pressure pump. The action is reversed, however the water entering at what would be the exhaust end, gradually accelerating as it passes through the several fixed and movable vanes, until it acquires a high velocity at what would ordinarily be the outlet end.

The Tailor Took His Measure. 'I was getting measured for a suit of clothes this morning,' said young Mr. Sissy to his pretty cousin, 'and just for a joke, y'know, I asked Snipem if it really took nine tailors to make a man. He said it would take more than nine tailors to make a man of some people. I thought it was quite clever.'—Exchange.

Onions for Insomnia. Onions are recommended as a good thing for insomnia. A favorite dish in England is one of the pig sweet Spanish onions cooked in milk. Celery may also be used in the same way, sold in milk. It is good for the nerves, and consequently for sleeplessness.

Voice From Arkansas. Cleveland, Ark., August 15 (Special).—Nearly every newspaper tells of some wonderful cure of some form of Kidney Disease by the Great American Remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills, and this part of Arkansas is not without its share of evidence that no case is too deeply rooted for Dodd's Kidney Pills to cure. Mr. A. E. Carlie, well known and highly respected here, tells of his cure after nearly a quarter of a century's suffering. Mr. Carlie says: 'I want to let the public know what I think of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I think they are the best remedy for sick kidneys ever made. 'I had Kidney Trouble for 23 years and never found anything that did me so much good as Dodd's Kidney Pills. I recommend them to all sufferers.' There is no uncertain sound about Mr. Carlie's statement. He knows that Dodd's Kidney Pills rescued him from a life of suffering and he wants the public to know it. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all Kidney ills from Backache to Bright's Disease.

Boys and Girls

Wild Flowers.

Scarcely known by name, they dot the ground. With motley colors, starry forms. In them the sunset skies are found. That follow after storms; And hints of crimson, blue and gold. Their graceful chalice unfold. While 'mid the dead leaves pile and bend. Humbly they live and die content.

Huge oaks above them lift their heads And drop the acorn, shed the leaf; The harvest field far round them sheds Plenty in many a sheaf. And they, half fragrant, brighter earth's Low in the shadows where there's dearth. Of pain or pleasure, love or life. Far from the world's mad, ceaseless strife.

They speak no message, act no part. They have no works to show; Deep hidden here they touch no heart. And do not ask to know; Yet if one meet the eye of man It all unfolds the master plan—The power that painted this fair bloom.

For man can have no futile doom.—Charles W. Stevenson, in New York Observer.

Secret of a Water Light. If you were to announce some evening that you could stick a lighted candle into a glass of water until it was submerged almost up to the wick, and that the candle would not burn. Here is a little test for your eyes that will soon show you which of them is the stronger. Place an object about two inches in diameter on a level with your eyes and move back from it about ten feet. Then point to it and take sight along the top of your pointing finger until the object and the tip of your finger are exactly in a line with the eye from which you are sighting. Next open the other eye and see if the object seems to have moved from the straight line. If it has not moved to one side, apparently, the eye with which you first looked is the stronger, as the addition of the other's vision does not change the focus. If the object seems to have moved it proves that the other eye is the stronger, the difference being measured by the distance that the object appears to have moved.

Try sighting with both eyes open first. Then look with first one eye and then the other and see how far out of line each makes the object appear. The one that is farthest out of line is the weaker eye.

Story of the Wood Told. A boy was sitting near the stove watching the fire burn. All at once he fancied that he heard a voice speak to him and he thought it was a piece of wood. The wood said: 'Once upon a time I was a seed that had fallen off a tree. I lay on the ground for a week. Then some clouds spread over the sky and it began to snow. The snow covered me and I lay on the ground all winter in the warm snow. When spring came I began to grow. I grew until I was fifteen years old. One day a woodcutter came along and cut me down. He put me into a wagon and rode down to the woodyard. I lay in the woodyard about a month and then your father came and carried me to your house.' This was all the piece of wood said.—Ed. Simonson.

Trick With a Tumbler. Cut an orange into halves and from one half remove the pulp, leaving the peel entire in the form of a hollow hemisphere or cup. With a penknife or a toothpick bore two holes in the bottom of this cup and put it into a tumbler, forcing it down about half way. The tumbler should be a little smaller than the orange used, so that you will have to squeeze the peel-cup a little in order to get it in.

Tom's Home-Made Engine. Tom's sunshine engine was a contrivance of his own, and he was very proud of it. It consisted of a stiff writing paper flywheel eight inches in diameter, a paper flanged wheel, straw uprights to support the straw walking beam and the axle, a split straw driving-rod and piston and a paper cylinder. The two upright straw supports of the flanged driving-wheel each measured five inches in length, and these were fastened to a discarded glass negative with sealing-wax—absolutely perpendicular, you may be sure.—St. Nicholas.

Tiny Man Whose Pluck Won. Everybody cannot be big and strong and handsome, or even smart, but almost anybody can try to get ahead in some way, even if he is homely and freckled and awkward. Once there was a little bit of a dried-up boy who lived down southeast somewhere, in Georgia, I think, and everybody but his mother said he never would be of any account. His folks were very poor, and so if he had not been too sickly and too little to earn anything out at work he might never have got a chance to go to school. But he went to school and kept getting older, though his head was about all of him that got any larger. Finally he finished school and graduated from college and the day he was 21 he said to his mother: 'I'm a man now and I must look after you.' And she said: 'Yes, Alexander, you are a man at last,' but he only weighed ninety pounds, after all.

Pretty soon that little dried-up, sickly man said he wanted to go to congress, where nearly all the great men of the country used to go, sooner or later. In those days, 'Why, sonny,' said one of Alexander's friends, 'how can you all go to congress? You ain't much bigger nor a jackdaw!'

'Why don't you send Kane Freeman's big hog if you want size? He weighs 400 pounds!' said the little dried-up man.

Then everybody laughed. Then they stopped to think. And ever after that Alexander kept people laughing or thinking. He went to congress and became the greatest man in his state. He served in congress years and years, and was governor of Georgia when he died. His full name was Alexander H. Stephens, and he was a wonderful orator.

Novel Fishermen. The boys who live near a body of water containing perch, bullheads or catfish can make large catches by means of simple devices.

An old jug, well stoppered, makes an excellent assistant. After emptying the jug, and corking it securely, take it to the place where you want to fish, and making a line fast, bait your hook and carefully lower the jug in the water.

A tempting worm on a hook below a jug is liable to result in a bite, and then the jug commences to bob about in an amazing manner. If the fish is large it may tow the jug around the water for awhile, but a heavy jug will soon tire out even a big fish, and then you can haul in the captive.

If jugs are not obtainable, large bottles are effective, although they do not offer the resistance the heavy jug does, and, unless dark-colored, are hard to see on the water.

The same time, though you cannot see it so well, a colorless stream of water flows downward through the other hole.

The two liquids do not mix much, but merely exchange places, so that in a few minutes the lower part of the glass, below the cup, will contain Position of the Orange. The water, and the upper part will be filled with water.

This is as it should be, because water is heavier than wine and naturally goes to the bottom. The curious thing is that the wine and water do not mix, but each selects one hole for itself. It is like the trick with the candle burning in a lamp chimney with a partition at the top, so that cold fresh air goes down on one side, while the hot air and smoke escape on the other.

Oil may be substituted for the wine, or you may fill the bottom of the glass with water, and then pour in milk or some thin-colored syrup.

What Sound Is. If you were asked, 'What is sound?' you would probably answer: 'That is an easy question; a sound is—a sound.' Let us find a real definition.

When you walk, what happens? People hear the sound of your footsteps. Sound follows when you lay a book on the table. So, also, when a ball bounces against the house. Sound is, therefore, caused by the shock when one body comes into contact with another.

'All very well,' you reply; 'the shock is the cause of sound; but that does not define just what sound is.' A practical example will best describe it. Strike gently upon the edge of a wine glass—you hear the sound, and a very pretty one it is. But before the sound dies away, put your finger lightly upon the edge of the glass, and then you will feel the sound as well as hear it. The glass will tremble beneath your finger. If you press heavily enough to stop this trembling, the sound will stop also.

Sound is, therefore, vibration—a striking against the air of a moving body.

The Surgeon's Patient. It happened that a bulldog saw his master's broken arm often dressed by a surgeon. One day the same surgeon was surprised by a pawing and scratching at his door. When the door was opened he beheld two dogs—his friend's bulldog and another. The latter held up one of its forelegs to the surgeon, who saw that it was broken. He set the broken limb in splints and in due course the bones reunited and the leg became whole. On another occasion this very same surgeon was summoned to his door by the persistent yelping of a dog standing on three legs. The doctor examined the fourth limb and found a pin sticking in it, which prevented the animal from using it without great pain. The pin was extracted and the dog went away in ease.

You can get a five-cent one at any toy store. Fasten a light cord about four feet long to the balloon, and tie the other end of the cord to the screw-eye in the bow of your boat and you are ready to launch her.

The balloon will fly at the end of the cord, high above your boat, which will skim over the water like a swallow. As soon as the wind changes the balloon will yank around the bow of the boat, and she will head on a new tack. Then the square sail will fill and she will be away at a surprising speed.

'During the time I was a coffee drinker,' says an Iowa woman, 'I was nervous, had spells with my heart, smothering spells, headache, stomach trouble, liver and kidney trouble. I did not know for years what made me have those spells. I would frequently sink away as though my last hour had come. 'For 27 years I suffered thus and used bottles of medicine enough to set up a drug store—capsules and pills and everything I heard of. Spent lots of money but I was sick nearly all the time. Sometimes I was so nervous I could not hold a plate in my hands! and other times I thought I would surely die sitting at the table. 'This went on until about two years ago when one day I did not use any coffee and I noticed I was not so nervous and told my husband about it. He had been telling me that it might be the coffee but I said 'No, I have been drinking coffee all my life and it cannot be.' But after this I thought I would try and do without and drink hot water. I did this for several days, but got tired of the hot water and went to drinking coffee and as soon as I began coffee again I was nervous again. This proved that it was the coffee that caused my troubles. 'We had tried Postum but had not made it right and did not like it, but now I decided to give it another trial so I read the directions on the package carefully and made it after those directions and it was simply delicious, so we quit coffee for good and the results are wonderful. Before, I could not sleep but now I go to bed and sleep sound, am not a bit nervous now, but work hard and can walk miles. Nervous headaches are gone, my heart does not bother me any more like it did and I don't have any of the smothering spells and would you believe it? I am getting fat. We drink Postum now and nothing else and even my husband's headaches have disappeared; we both sleep sound and healthy now and that's a blessing.' Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

'DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make every mother well, strong, healthy and happy. I dragged through nine years of miserable existence, worn out with pain and weariness. I then noticed a statement of a woman troubled as I was; and the wonderful results she had had from your Vegetable Compound, and decided to try what it would do for me, and used it for three months. At the end of that time, I was a different woman, the neighbors remarked it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. It seemed like a new existence. I had been suffering with inflammation and falling of the womb, but your medicine cured that, and built up my entire system, till I was indeed like a new woman.—Sincerely yours, Mrs. CHAS. F. Free From the Slugger Brought Out a Fact. 'During the time I was a coffee drinker,' says an Iowa woman, 'I was nervous, had spells with my heart, smothering spells, headache, stomach trouble, liver and kidney trouble. I did not know for years what made me have those spells. I would frequently sink away as though my last hour had come. 'For 27 years I suffered thus and used bottles of medicine enough to set up a drug store—capsules and pills and everything I heard of. Spent lots of money but I was sick nearly all the time. Sometimes I was so nervous I could not hold a plate in my hands! and other times I thought I would surely die sitting at the table. 'This went on until about two years ago when one day I did not use any coffee and I noticed I was not so nervous and told my husband about it. He had been telling me that it might be the coffee but I said 'No, I have been drinking coffee all my life and it cannot be.' But after this I thought I would try and do without and drink hot water. I did this for several days, but got tired of the hot water and went to drinking coffee and as soon as I began coffee again I was nervous again. This proved that it was the coffee that caused my troubles. 'We had tried Postum but had not made it right and did not like it, but now I decided to give it another trial so I read the directions on the package carefully and made it after those directions and it was simply delicious, so we quit coffee for good and the results are wonderful. Before, I could not sleep but now I go to bed and sleep sound, am not a bit nervous now, but work hard and can walk miles. Nervous headaches are gone, my heart does not bother me any more like it did and I don't have any of the smothering spells and would you believe it? I am getting fat. We drink Postum now and nothing else and even my husband's headaches have disappeared; we both sleep sound and healthy now and that's a blessing.' Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
