Odd Fellow Memorial Services.

The Independent Order of Odd Fellows of this city, held memorial services last Sunday, at the Baptist church, the sermon being preached by Rev. Wold. Mr. Wold is an enthusiastic member of the order and therefore was well qualified to officiate. The Rebekahs and Odd Fellows met at their hall at 10 a. m. and marched in procession to the Baptist church, there being nearly 100 members in the line. The Reverend Brother selected his text from the 7th chapter of Matthew and 16th verse. "And by their fruits ye shall know them." He dwelt upon the tenets of the order and mirrored its laws, told the world of the magnificence of true Odd Fellowship and informed his hearers that to become a genuine Odd Fellow was to make good men better as well as all men, but imposed no worship of the wicked if they did not happen to be entitled to wear the three links. His sermon was logical, practical and a model of eloquence, which compared favorably with the subject he was handling and the members of both branches of the order here felt that they had enjoyed a blessing in listening to it, beyond all appreciation.

Direct To Its Portals.

The low rates made by the Union Pacific and its connections to Portland, Ore., this summer to the Lewis and Clark Exposition offer the people of the East and middle West an unparalleled opportunity to visit the Pacific Northwest and see what a great country lies west of the Rocky Mountains. It is a chance of a lifetime for those persons who have long contemplated a pleasure trip across the continent. The Union Pacific is the shortest line to Portland by many miles. Inquire of F. H. Hiser, agent.

The Wondeland Beyond Cody.

A new wondeland is now open to the hunter, fisherman and summer tourist—a magnificent scenic region between Cody, Wyo., and the Yellowstone Park. The Burlington has made practically half rates for summer trips from all points on its system to Cody and return, the gateway to this country.

From Cody west, the new road follows the north fork of the Shoshone River to Marquette, the location of the great Government dam now under way for the storing of the waters of the Shoshone for irrigating 200,000 acres of Big Horn Basin lands. West of Marquette two log cabin Inns have been built by Col. Cody for the accommodation of tourists. The development of this country has been the work and pride of Colonel Bill Cody, whose permanent home is now at the Irma Hotel, Cody, Wyoming. Probably the easiest and most natural way to arrange for a tour through this new region is to go direct to Cody, where all arrangements can quickly be made for the coach journey over the route, sojourning at the different log cabin Inns, or for camp outfit, horses, teams, guides and everything of this kind.

The Burlington has a special descriptive folder of this locality on the press, copies of which can shortly be obtained of the Burlington agent, R. L. Arthur.

Short line to Lewis and Clark Exposition, Portland, Ore., June 15th 1905 via the Union Pacific. This route gives you 200 miles along the matchless Columbia River, a trip to Portland and the Northwest without change and an opportunity to visit Yellowstone Park, June 1st to 8 p.m. 19, from Pocatello or Ogden through Monida. Inquire of F. H. Hiser.

The farmers along the Burlington railroad in Nebraska have been given permission to cultivate the right-of-way along the Burlington track and seeding the same to alfalfa. The right-of-way along the Burlington track gives each farmer sufficient ground to bring him in an income in the neighborhood of $300 each year from alfalfa and without taxes to pay or other expenses. With land worth from $50 to $75, this is quite an item to farmers in this part of Nebraska and should be appreciated by the average farmer, who has the railroad right-of-way through his farm. With the right-of-way seeded to alfalfa it will put up a very beautiful appearance and reduces the dangers of fire to the farmer, for at the time when stubble fields and grass burn in the fall the alfalfa is green.—Aurora Sun

George Freeborn was released from the county jail last Friday after serving his time of fifteen days. Along with George's fifteen day sentence as we remember it, there was a clause that requested him to leave town as soon as he had served his time, but when he gained the open air he forgot all about this request and insisted upon remaining in town. To drink liquor and fight appears to be the height of George's ambition and after practicing this art for a couple of days with no symptoms of reformation in sight the marshal locked him up again Saturday night. Sunday morning he was willing to make a quick get away and in order to save the city expense of keeping him for another term he was allowed to depart. A vag ordinance might not be a bad thing for such fellows. A two weeks or ten days jail sentence with plenty to eat and drink has no terrors to men of this class, but if they could be lariatod to a rock pile or made to serve their time working on the streets they would not be quite as willing to go to jail.—Ord Quiz.

The Sweetwater Mills, owned by Messrs. W. F. Richardson and Dr. S. N. Bentley of this city, was sold last week to Messrs. B. A. Emry and R. W. McCombs, of Loup City. The consideration was $8,000 and in the transfer Messrs. Richardson and Bentley acquire title to 240 acres of land five miles east of Loup City, and another tract of 160 acres six miles south of Loup City. Mr. Emry, one of the purchasers, and who is to have active management of the business, is a farmer living six miles from Loup City, and Mr. McCombs, the other member of the firm is a Loup City farmer and investor. Mr. Richardson informs The News that he has formed no definite plans for the future. He expects to continue in the flour and feed business at present.

Guy Hollenbeck, who has been head miller at Sweetwater for some time past, will withdraw with the incoming of the new management, having purchased a restaurant business in Ansley.—Ravenna News.

The Franklin, Mo., News recently had a sensible editorial on advertising "grafts," to which merchants and business men are subject. The "advertising card" man, the church grafter (the stranger who drops in) with an entertainment which is worded up as a church affair, the stranger getting a rake-off from the proceeds and all she can make by putting ads on the programs; the hotel register fake, and other similar schemes. It is hard to understand, but it is a fact, that the average merchant will pay more for a little card on a poster to be hung in a hotel room than he will for a good advertisement in the local paper. He forgets that the people who occupy rooms in a hotel are people who seldom live in the community. They are transients who have little or no patronage for the local merchant, and who care nothing for the local prosperity. There are dozens of other fakes. . . It is our opinion, of course, that it will pay our business men to put their advertisements where they will be read by the people who live in the community. The newspaper is the best advertising medium.

The Lincoln News is busily trying to create sentiment in favor of an extra session of the legislature to regulate railroad rates. If the late legislative solons were unable to do anything along that line, what is the use in burdening the state with a useless session of the same puzzlers?
