"No, love," she said, "I do not say That I will give you all the space In closet, bureau, trunk—I may Ask for myself a little space, But you shall have your very own, The thing that you have languished for; Yes, you, because I love you, love, Shall have the lowest bureau drawer."

He thanked her. What else could he do? For well he knew her fond intent To prove her love was wondrous true, Of sacrifice and yearning blent. "Oh, love," he said, "full well I know The wondrous love, affection sweet. That prompts you now to promise me A bureau drawer as mine, complete."

'Twas almost ten sweet years ago, And ever since when he has gone Unto that drawer he's found, you know, Satins and laces, silks and lawn. And women's gloves, and bric-a-brac, And things no man would e'er disclose; But still he minds it not at all, For he is married and—he knows. -Sunset Magazine.

"As he was short on flour the boys suggested that he pound hard tack into powder and use that with the flour. Powdering hard tack proved slow work, and the piemaker broke the crackers in pieces and put them is on the theory that they would dissolve and be the same as if pounded into powder. But they didn't. When the pie was baked a piece was sent over to the Colonel, and he finding the broken crackers, treated the lemon pie as a joke. This didn't suit the piemaker, and he tried again, leaving out the hard tack. Greatly to the surprise of the colonel, the result was good lemon pie, and no joke."-Chicago Inter Ocean.

Over twenty years ago S. P. Ives, a well-known legal light of Essex county, and Charles P. Thompson of the superior court were pitted against each other in an important life insurance case at Salem, Mr. Ives for the company and Mr. Thompson for the plaintiff. Mr. Thompson was very anxious to put into the case certain affidavits, and Mr. Ives was equally strenuous in opposition.

After lengthy arguments the judge decided in Mr. Thompson's favor, and he proceeded to read, with much emphasis, depositions relating to surgi-

But nothing is surer than that work is the primal condition of health and the love of life. It is the do-nothing, the fashionable, the "retired," the woman freed from necessities and duties that are the disease-breeders	the fashionable doctors who minister to this unspeakable class is not in- frequently blameworthy. They are often encouraged by our rest cures, our flatteries and attentions. The effort to escape from drudgery is as old as civilization and as ancient as savagery. The investigator sent to study the problem of putting the na- tive African negroes to useful work finds that they simply will not work. Those among the Canadian Doukho- bors who would work found that the maligners and lazies were about half, and they preferred to live out of the common treasury supplied, by the workers—until the latter determined to abolish the common treasury and to receive and spend their own wages as other individuals do. Our civilization, economically, is largely a device of the cunning and the lazy to establish a common treas- ury. The "failure of democracy" is largely the failure to outwit the trick-	wasn't the end of the story. "Twenty-five years after the war the teamster who stole the cooked chickens was at a G. A. R. camp fire and heard a comrade tell of his bad luck in losing chickens ready to eat through some light fingered teamster. He added that if he ever learned who the rascal was that stole his chickens he would choke them out of him. While the teamster was thinking of what ought to be said next, another comrade stood on his feet and said: 'I didn't steal the chickens, but I help- ed eat them, and I am keen to swear they were very good. But as to chok- ing them out of anybody, that can't be done, because, don't you see, they were eaten twenty-five years ago.' "While we were in the rear of Vicksburg, after our trip to Jackson, the boys learned a good deal about baking. They made what they called outdoor ovens by digging holes in the side of a bank or hill. They would build fires In the holes, and when the	"You are a remarkably clean man, sir." "Thank you, colonel." "But, sir, you have bad habits." "I am sorry for that, colonel." "You drink, sir." Forty years ago a wounded union soldier, who was undergoing treatment in one of the army hospitals, was pre- sented with a copy of the Bible by a lady visitor. He has remembered the comfort and cheer which the read- ing gave him, and now he has sent $300 to the American Bible society to be used as speedily as possible in dis tributing the New Testament among wounded soldiers in Japanese hospi-
