high as a scholar and teacher. The same may be said of H. R. Tucker, of St. Louis, Mo.; of Miss Laura A. White, of Wyoming State university, and of Mrs. Ada B. Atkinson and Miss Autumn Davies, of the Omaha high school. Mrs. Hattie Plum Williams, of the department of Sociology of Nebraska university, 1915, is making some especially important investigations in regard to foreign immigration and promises to take high rank as a teacher. Many others are doing good work and doubtless will be heard from in coming years. The department of American History feels that these facts may tend to convince present-day students that scholarly preparation for life pays.

A list of those who have taken graduate degrees in the department of American History:
