Jules Verne's "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea"—Orpheum, Monday Matinee to Wednesday Matinee—January Bargain Prices and Extra Special for Children.
 When the Orpheum management booked that stupendous spectacular production, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," for the five exhibitions from Monday matinee to and including Wednesday matinee (January 14-16), it was with the intention of making special concessions to the children, for the marvelous under-sea photography revealing the secrets of old mother ocean has a strong appeal to the young.
 So when it was decided to make a uniform price of 10 cents (and 1 cent war tax) for all children of twelve years or under, any seat at any performance, it was felt that the adults also were entitled to some consideration. Therefore, for the adults is made a January bargain price of 15 cents at matinees and 25 cents at night performances—war tax additional. At these prices there will be no reserved seats. First come, first served.
 The music for this production has been selected by Prof. Arthur J. Babich and will be rendered by his Orpheum augmented symphony orchestra. The numbers are very beautiful and, without the picture, would make a musical concert worth much more than the admission price.
 Remember the dates—January 14, 15 and 16.—Ad.
