John F. Dudgeon, '09, a graduate of the University's engineering college, is now mayor of Norfolk, Nebr., and has written Dean O. V. P. Stout that he is on the lookout for a "live-wire" city engineer. Dudgeon is only one of the many mayors that the engineering college has turned out. This may seem a peculiar situation at first, engineering vs. politics, but especially where the city manager or commission plan of city government is in operation, is it true that engineers make splendid municipal executives.
Homer Noble, '16, left Tuesday, May 6th, for Washington, D. C., where he will accept a position as valuation aid with the Bureau of Internal Revenue.
His work will include the valuation and extension of oil and gas properties in the United States.

Big Sister Picnic
The Big Sister picnic will be held Saturday afternoon at Antelope park.
Girls are to meet at the swings at 1 o'clock. An admission price of twenty-five cents will be charged. Take South Eighteenth car.
