

UNIVERSITY PUBLICITY

Prof. J. P. Seaning and Prof. Huton Webster of the department of Political Science and Sociology, Prof. Guernsey Jones of the department of History and Miss Ona Wagner, supervisor of History in the Teachers College, have been appointed, by the National Council for the Social Studies, members of the Nebraska state executive committee to co-operate with instructors in economics, history, political science and sociology in making a survey of the teaching of these subjects in Nebraska high schools and in formulating plans to vitalize the subject-matter to high school students.

Prof. Louise Pound of the department of English has received an invitation from the Dean of the Summer Sessions of the University of California to give two courses in English there next summer. One course will be Old English and the other a seminar in the English ballads.

Prof. Walter L. Pope, formerly of the University College of Law, now professor in the University of Montana and practicing attorney at Missoula, is democratic candidate for the legislature. He was high man in the primary. Professor Pope is president of the Missoula Kiwanis club. He is a son of Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Pope of Lincoln.

Allen True, a well-known mural painter now resident of Denver, recently gave the art students an interesting address. He emphasized the idea that painting is first of all a craft that must be learned before an artist can express his individual message.

Prof. C. J. Frankforter of the department of chemistry has on press a book on "The Chemistry of Petroleum," the outgrowth of a series of articles in the "Oil News." An article by him on "Fuel Oil" is to be published soon in the magazine Fuel Oil, Chicago.

Prof. Jacob Singer of the School of Fine Arts, has an article on "Music in the Reform Synagogues" in a recent issue of the Union Bulletin.

H. J. Hermans, '20, has been appointed chief pharmacist of Rehabilitation Hospital Number 63 at St. Paul, Minn. He is in charge of the laboratory service of the entire hospital.

An innovation in the curriculum of the College of Pharmacy is the addition of a lecture once a week by prominent pharmacists of Lincoln. Later it is hoped that men from out in the state may be secured. J. E. Cavin and Guy Butler have already spoken.

The Nebraska Board of Pharmacy will hold its next regular examination in Pharmacy hall November 6 to 9, inclusive.

College Students Are Wearing Pearls for Jewelry This Year

The traditionally "unlucky" stones are becoming less popular among American college students, according to a report from Burr, Patterson &

Company, manufacturing fraternity jewelers of Detroit, who declare that the demand for them as settings for fraternity badges is steadily decreasing in favor of pearls.

The old superstition that the iridescent jewel was bound to bring dire misfortune to its wearer not born in October has apparently been dispipated but it is interesting to note that its believers had considerable historical grounds for their fears.

For centuries, men have had a peculiar feeling towards the opal—amounting at times to awe and inspired, perhaps, by the strange changes of color which seemed to go on inside the stone without any apparent reason.

Scientists have since shown, however, that the opal contains a certain amount of water in its composition which is, of course, affected by atmospheric conditions and particularly by the application of heat. When exposed to the latter, for example, the stone will lose its brilliance and degenerate into a mere pebble.

A stone which has seemed to share the mystery attached to the opal is the tourmaline, a transparent composite occurring in shades of both red and green. Undoubtedly one of the many traits of this stone which have tended to cast a glamour about it, is its susceptibility to electrification. The ancients discovered that when heated by the sun or friction, the tourmaline would attract chaff or small bits of paper and this property, together with that of changing color according to the light, they regarded as almost magical. Children at Amsterdam are credited by some with having discovered the electrical qualities of the tourmaline while at play.

In addition to this, it was found that when two slices of tourmaline composition cut parallel were laid one upon the other and viewed in one direction, they were opaque. However, when a double refracting crystal was placed between them, one became transparent and the other remained opaque.

One of the world's greatest deposits of tourmaline was discovered in the State of Maine by two students looking for specimens of minerals. The cave which they accidentally stumbled upon is said to have resembled the mythical cave of Aladdin in its splendor and in spite of the fact that it covered but a few square rods, nearly forty varieties of the stone were found.

Among the throngs of people who were quick to visit the cave were the Russian and Austrian consuls to America, who obtained specimens for the museums of Petrograd and Vienna.

Appoint Committee to Formulate Traditions

A bureau of customs and traditions, to consist of nine members—three faculty, three alumni and three from the undergraduate body—has been established by President Suzzalo. This body will handle all questions of precedent, and will make definite settlements of uncertain customs affecting the University.
