

HUSKERS HAVE STIFF DRILL

An Hour Is Spent in Signal Try; Howell Still on Side Line with Injuries

Passing and more passing was the number on Coach Bear's program for his Husker warriors last evening. An hour was spent in signal drill with the passing formation the only formation getting any attention. Then the Scarlet men took their stand against "Choppy" Rhodes' freshmen squad on the practice field. Forward passes were the only thing used against the yearlings. The Husker coach is determined to make a forward passing machine out of the line plunging Nebraska team.

"Dutch" Witte to Bronson to Shaner was a good combination and proved too much for the first year men. The frosh were given the ball and an aerial attack was tried and it baffled the Varsity eleven just as did the Flamank to Clark combination at Columbia. The Grinnell-Nebraska game next Saturday will see a Nebraska forward passing machine as never before.

Passing Game
Bear drilled his four elevens on the passing game last night and in all probability all four of the elevens will battle against the Grinnell Pioneers Saturday.

"Blue" Howell, the smashing Husker back was not in the moleskins last night but was watching the scrimmage from the sidelines. He is still nursing the injured side he received in the Iowa State game and the Missouri game made the side injury worse. The injuries otherwise from last week's game are only minor ones and Bear expects his eleven in perfect shape for the annual Pioneer-Husker clash this week.

The test of the season will come October 29 when the Nebraska team will meet the fast Syracuse Orange eleven from the eastern coast. Syracuse and Nebraska have met four times on the gridiron and the Orange eleven took the count three times to the one for the Huskers. This will make the fifth game with the eastern eleven and a return game will be played at Syracuse next season.

YEARLINGS MEET VARSITY IN TILT

Passing Tactics Receive Attention; First Year Men Show Good Fight

Yearling gridsters, garbed in Syracuse jerseys, gave the reserve Varsity eleven an interesting tussle as a feature of the Tuesday drill and practice session. The youngsters carried their orange colored jerseys through the scarlet with great success, and held Witte, Bronson, Farley and Beck to a few good runs from scrimmage.

Passing tactics again received considerable attention. Frahm to Fisher worked several times for nice gains. As a receiver, Fisher serves as a pass-smasher deluxe, while Frahm has no rival as yet in the tossing department.

Scherzinger, regular half, has been experiencing difficulty with nose injuries. Both he and Broadstone are wearing nose guards, but Scherzinger's failed to protect him when he got in the way of Fram's attempted dropkick. He was forced to take the sidelines for about fifteen minutes, but was soon back in the game.

Line Men Do Good Work
The yearlings showed more fight at yesterday's session than they have displayed for some time. Linemen were charging fast and hitting the Varsity wall hard.

Long, quarter hailing from Wyoming, did quite nicely in the punting department. Numerous efforts on his part soared from 45 to 50 yards. "Choppy" seemed pleased with the results Long was obtaining, and kept him at his task for some time.

Yesterday's lineup which scrimmaged the Varsity:
Fisher and Simic, ends.
En. and Broadstone, tackles.
Burgeson and Greenberg, guards.
Phillips, center.
Bolton and Scherzinger, halves.
Frahm, full, and Long, quarter.

In Denver, horseshoes has been introduced as a woman's sport and is being received with enthusiasm.

Football Enthusiasts Will Be Judged By The Thickness of Beards

University of Washington, Oct. 12. The kid who can prove that he has never had to use a razor will gain free admission to the Whitman game, which will be played in Seattle October 29. During the past few years, the combination of beards and knickers that have flourished among members of the male sex from the years of fifteen to eighty-five has made it difficult to tell whether a boy is a man or not. This season the short sixteen year old fellow that used to swear that he was twelve will have to shave pretty close if he wishes to get away with his story.

NEW UNIT FINISHED ON KANSAS STADIUM

Seating Capacity of Jayhawk Bowl Is Increased 35,000 as Concrete Horseshoe is Added

Lawrence, Kan., Oct. 11.—A concrete horseshoe seating 35,000 persons was today declared completed taking the place of the old baseball grand stand and bleachers that grew by slow accretion when athletics was young at the University of Kansas.

More than 35 years ago, when baseball and football were first being played at the University, a small grandstand—capacity 3000—was erected on one corner of a field that had been bought from Col. J. J. McCook of New York. As crowds grew, bleachers were extended along the north and south sides of the field and then across the ends, until seats were provided for 12,000 persons.

By the time of the World War, the stands were beginning to show signs of decay, and it was decided that a concrete stadium would be suitable as one unit of the University's war memorial. The Kansas Union building was the other unit, and it, too, is being dedicated today.

The last game in the old stands was the memorable 20-to-20 game with Nebraska in 1920. So weakened had the stands become that workmen with sections of telegraph poles shored up the timbers during the game. At the close of the season, the bleachers were torn down, and ground broken for the new bowl.

Two units, seating 12,000 persons—the parallel arms of the "U" were first constructed, in time for the Kansas-Missouri game of 1921. Two years ago, the two units were extended to the southward, and given the finished ends, and the past summer construction of a semi-circular section connecting the two units has been in progress.

The total cost is $548,000, part of which was from gifts to the Memorial fund, and part raised by sale of Athletic association bonds.

Dressing rooms, indoor tracks, and other facilities are provided in the space underneath the stadium.

He's Hard To Stop

"Bus" Haskins, the elusive Oklahoma halfback who passed the Sooner eleven to victory over the Chicago Maroons at Chicago. Haskins won fame on the gridiron last season with his spectacular return of punts and this season he has assumed a new role as the passing hurler for the Sooner eleven. Coach Lindsey is figuring on this flashy halfback to stop the Missouri Tigers in their annual clash on Thanksgiving.

TRY-OUTS FOR DUAL MEET WILL BE HELD

Cross Country Team to Meet Kansas Aggies Will Be Chosen in Near Future

Cross-country tryouts for the Nebraska-Kansas Aggies dual meet to be held in Manhattan October 22 will be held at 4:30 Thursday afternoon, Coach Henry F. Schulte announced Tuesday. Captain Johnson, Chaderdon, and Sprague, members of last year's team, who tied for first at Columbia have already won places on the team. The trials will determine the other three members of the squad.

Five of the six Nebraska runners finished in a dead heat at Missouri. The sixth, Batie, sophomore, was not far behind and would have been up with the rest of the Husker harriers if he had not lost his shoe. He lost his shoe three times in the race and then managed to beat all of the Missourians to the tape, running in the final grass stretch with one shoe in his hand.

Cummings, Griffen, and Batie are expected to retain their places on the team in Thursday's try-outs. Coach Schulte is expecting some close competition before the five miles is over, however.

FIRST CALL SOUNDS FOR HUSKER CAGERS

Fifteen Candidates Answer to Coach Black's Initial Practice of the 1927-28 Season

About fifteen candidates responded to Coach Charley Black's first call for cagers yesterday, for the initial pre-season workout. Several letter men of last year will report later after the football season is over.

The practice session was spent in working on the fundamentals of the game. Most of the time was spent in passing, varied with a little goal shooting. Among those who checked out uniforms was Captain Tom Elliott.

Workouts will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays for the remainder of this month. All men not out for football are urged to report if possible.

A list of those who have checked out suits follows: Wm. Nicholson, Bob Krall, Edgar R. Armstrong, Tom Elliott, Max Grow, Bill Ungles, Bryant Holms, Ralph Beachner, Bob King, Paul Mitchell, K. A. Carver, Frank Konkwright and George Gohde.
